OUR CHAPEL SERVICE

During our chapel service on Sunday evening the orchestra played "Simple Aveu" by Thome, George Barrett played as a 'cello solo the "Cradle Song" by Hauser, Frank Peratrovich played "An Old English Song" as a cornet solo, the choir sang "Softly Now the Light of Day" by Gottschalk, and Supt. Hall gave a splendid talk to those assembled. There is always a strong stand taken by Supt. Hall in all of his discourses for that which is right, practicable and necessary for progress and general advancement along any line or endeavor of life. These talks cannot fail to be of benefit to all, young and old.

Y. M. AND Y. W. C. A. NOTES

On Thursday evening of this week Rev. and Mrs. Driver, representing the American Baptist Publication Society, will speak to the Protestant students at the regular Bible Study hour, in the auditorium. Both Mr. and Mrs. Driver sing and play, and an interesting meeting is anticipated.

The chairs which were donated by the Salem churches for the new "Y" room have already arrived and have been placed in the room. The Y. W. C. A. girls are very busy making curtains which will add much to the appearance of the place. Both associations held their meetings there Sunday, the fine attendance being an indication of their appreciation of the new headquarters.

The Y.M.C.A. met in the new Y Hall for the first time Sunday evening, March 6th, and were very fortunate in having for a speaker, Mr. Iliff. Mr. Iliff chose for his subject, "Responsibilities." Among other things pertaining to responsibilities Mr. Iliff gave a graphic account of the constructive work done in the Y.M.C.A. at Chilocco, how it grew from almost nothing to a big organization. To be fully appreciated, Mr. Iliff's talk should be heard. Responsibilities is something we know too little of and the sooner everyone takes him by the hand and becomes acquainted the sooner we will reach our goal. After the closing song and benediction the association adjourned.

The I. T. C.s are the proud possessors of new membership cards which were printed and given to them by Mr. Reginald Downie. At their last meeting Mr. Bent presented the organization with a complete baseball outfit which is the gift of the firm of Anderson and Brown of Salem. The boys are very happy over this generous gift and the prospects are that the I. T. C. team will be the champion baseball team of this section of the country.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

William Kennedy, one of our high school students, was on the sick list last week.

Last Friday our college students entertained George Berry of the class of '20 at breakfast in Salem.

Our high school girls are using their Saturday mornings to good advantage in the sewing room while the boys work on various details.

During the past week our college and high school students were interested in the discussion of politics and the inauguration of our new president—Warren G. Harding.

Our reading class in poetry, under Miss Roberts, began last Sunday evening with a good attendance. One hour was well spent in the discussion of the influences surrounding Tennyson's early life and his writing "In Memoriam."

SENIOR NOTES

Cheer up, seniors, only a few more weeks of that algebra, history, science and English.

Mabel Blodgett is able to smile now. Her demonstration dinner was a feature of the past week.

Clara Morais, the class secretary, surprised her classmates by her work in the Winona open session.

"Go to Mr. Turner and get us some potatoes," said Nancy to the D.S. orderly one day not long ago.

"Which Mr. Turner," asked the little girl, "the music-man (Turney), the-farmer-in-the-dell-man, or the bake-Turner?"

The seniors vary greatly on weighing day. It is said Clara Morais proved to be the heavy weight of the class last month.

Louis Colby showed action and form in the Pathe News. We wish him success when he takes up the movie as his profession.

A senior girl entered Mabel Blodgett's room one night, and asked, "Mabel, where is my book?" "Don't bother me, I'm asleep," came the reply.

The seniors held a class meeting on March 4th. Our newly-elected president, Edwin Liljegren, presided for the first time. Much important business was transacted.

In proportion to the number of boys in the class, the seniors are well represented in athletics. Those who are not trying out for the track are trying out for a position on the squad.
