

LOCAL

The students' dining-room presented a beautiful appearance on Easter, for which thanks are due Miss Skipton and her detail.

R. G. Henderson, our groceryman, spent a few days of last week in Portland on business—attending a multitude of business matters.

The gymnasium is a place of great activity every morning now, as the boys are out right after breakfast going through all sorts of exercises and various rifle and Indian club drills. This is a splendid thing for the majority of them.

Our reporter states that he found Mrs. Cox and assistants in McBride Hall running a "light lunch" counter. They are endeavoring to raise some money with which to purchase some little "nic-nacs" for their building. A good move.

There was a grand skirmish of our forces, led by Messrs. Bettles and Beebe, to round up enough eggs for Easter. This fact brings to mind that several years ago a number of our small boys, with proper coaching at Easter time, located some rabbit eggs in nests in the yard near Mitchell Hall.

ATHLETIC NOTES

The I. T. C. baseball team is ready for action and is now waiting for the first victim.

Salem was hardly a test for our pitchers, Joe Bettles and Dan Lawrence, as they held them to a single hit during the seven innings.

The baseball game with O. A. C. last Thursday afternoon had to be called off on account of the weather. We will play them here sometime in April, also a return game in Corvallis.

Two games have been scheduled with the University of Oregon on April eighth and ninth. Mr. Bent is making arrangements to play one of the games in Salem. He also intends to take our band along.

Every man on the baseball squad is making a hard fight for a position on the team and they take advantage of every spare moment to practice. When the weather prohibits outside practice they work out in the gym.

Dallas Taylor is making his first trial at baseball this year and from present indications will have little trouble holding one of the field positions. In Tuesday's game he got hold of two drives that looked safe and out of four trips to the plate made three hits.

James Choate and Jacob Atkins are both promising catchers and are doing fine behind the bat at this early date. Jim has a good arm and makes the best throw to second base of any catcher we have had in a long time, while Atkins is at home with a bat and started things off Tuesday with a three-base hit.

Last Tuesday our baseball team was given a work out by the Salem high school team in a seven-inning game. Almost the entire student body turned out to see the contest even though it did rain a little. Nearly all of our candidates were given a chance to participate during some part of the game and we dare say all of them did well.

ACADEMIC NOTES

Clara Thorpe is one of the best students in algebra.

The junior class have taken up "American Literature Reading" again.

Wallace Morgan is planning to make a table for school exhibit this year.

The juniors will be seen in action in baseball against the freshmen in the near future.

Lois Morgan, Miss Laurence and Mrs. Shaffer were guests of Mrs. Howard in Salem last week.

Hattie Cayton has been on the sick list for several days, but we understand she is getting along fine now.

Wallace Morgan is turning out to be a crack track man. He is only fifteen years old and stands six feet two.

Frank Sookum and Charles Evans surprised Mr. Chamberlin, engineer, with their ability at brick laying. If you care to see their good work just crawl into the furnace of No. 5 boiler and take a look.

SENIOR NOTES

Botany has proven an interesting study when the microscope is used.

"Mascot Sampson Bear" is enjoying the sunny days in his front yard.

Commencement in less than two months! Time enough to flunk or pass.

Report says Theresa Gua was very successful at her recent demonstration dinner.

Some of the senior boys are actively interested in designs for a class memorial. Watch them.

The senior domestic science girls have had their final examinations and are now anxious to learn their grades.

The warm sunshine has brought the senior girls out from their studies into the open air. They have been noticed out getting their cameras into action.

Representatives are visiting each organization in school for the purpose of taking pictures for the annual. If you want to be in it speak to a senior about it.

This is a busy week in the domestic science: Demonstration dinners on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday by senior girls who will have completed their course.

Nancy Matthison made a brief visit in Portland on Saturday with friends. President Liljegren called the class to order on Friday and much important business was transacted.

We seniors are now occupying a table in the south end of the dining hall. Our colors may be seen waving high. We wish to thank Miss Skipton for the trouble she has had and for the privilege she has given us of eating together.
