DOMESTIC SCIENCE NOTES

We feel proud of our classmate, Jessie Clevelandf who has the distinction of being one of our best cooks.

The sophomore class will demonstrate on meats and meat substitutes, which are the things they have studied during the year.

The department is quite proud of eight baby chicks, but between the cats and the rats we are wondering if we'll be able to keep them.

Some of the girls that did not work in the D. S. the last term and did not take the examination then, will take it now, so between this and our school examination we have some studying to do.

The domestic science girls miss very much Miss Meek and Miss Deloria who visited Chemawa recently in the interest of the Y. W. C. A. Indian girls of this type are a real inspiration and give much encouragement to the girls.

Now that examination week is here both divisions of the sophomore class work together and they are getting the Domestic Science ready for demonstration week, which is next week. They are giving it a thorough spring cleaning.

DOMESTIC ART NOTES

The graduation dresses are all completed now.

A large number of costumes are made by the smaller girls for the operetta.

Graduation dresses are being made for Julia Gro-moff and Eleanor Hauk.

This week finds our department very busy making the costumes for the operetta.

The collar and vestee sets have been completed for the sport suits for McBride Hall girls.

The seniors and juniors have completed their finals in domestic art and all have passed with creditable grades.

The Senior girls will have white organdie hats to go with their graduation dresses. They will be made in the art department.

The hemstitching machine is a great help to this department. Mabel Blodgett and Joyce Simmons have become expert operators.

The little girls are not without their share of achievement, for they, too, have completed some hand made rugs for demonstration week.

Mrs. Kirk's details have completed several pretty rugs for demonstrations. The loom has not been idle for the past few weeks. They are also finishing their demonstration dresses.

OUR CHAPEL SERVICE

During chapel exercises on Sunday evening the orchestra played "Devotion" by Mackie-Beyer, Maudie Craig sang "A Bowl of Roses" by Clark, George Le-kanoff sang "I'm Longing for You" by Hathaway, the choir sang the "Wonderful Story of Love" by Driver, and Supt. Hall gave a very fine talk, as he does every Sunday evening. He touched strongly on the latent possibilities which are within all of us and he pointed out the advantages of initiation in the matter of self help. He drew attention to the fact that the whole world is crying for help, when, as a matter of fact, the only real help comes from ourselves. If we are not willing to help ourselves there is after all little use in helping us. It was a splendid talk and held the attention of all.

Y. M. AND Y. W. C. A. NOTES

On Sunday afternoon the Y. W. C. A. discussed, very interestingly, "The All-round Girl," from the standpoint of manners, speech, athletics, home life, studies, and religion. President Nancy Matheson presided at the meeting and Emma Carlson gave a guitar solo. Mr. and Mrs. Petri, and Mr. Jeffreys were visitors at the meeting and spoke in very complimentary terms of the program and work of the association.

Warm spring sunshine, the call of the woods, and the elusive odor of "java" simmering over a camp fire drew the Y.W.C.A. girls out for their annual picnic last Saturday afternoon, where they forgot their usual campus dignity and played base ball, ran hurdle races, roasted "weenies," climbed trees, and otherwise enjoyed themselves for several hours. The event was concluded in picnic style with a delicious supper which had been prepared by the social committee.

A new Y.M.C.A. has been organized on the campus recently which is creating much interest among the Brewer Hall boys, for whom it was started. It is known as the Climbers Club, and is taking up a three-year program of the four-fold life, which is specially prepared for boys' clubs. Albert Orson is president of the new association.
