LITERARY SOCIETIES

Nonpareil

The second meeting of the Nonpareil Literary Society was held in room 7, October 6, 1922. The house was called to order by the President, after which a snappy business session was held. Next in order came the reporter's notes and a program as follows:

Address	- - - -	President Simmons
Vocal solo	- - - -	Grace Peterson
Recitation	- - - -	Addie Merrill
Impromptu	- - - -	Hilda Opheim
Stunts	- - - -	Millie Bennett
Music	- - - -	Cora Black
Debate	- - - -	Maud Potts, Anna Lee Thomas

Our guests for the evening were, Mrs. Turney, Mr. Turner, and Mr. Peratrovich. Each gave a pleasing talk. After the Critic's report and a few songs and cheers the society adjourned.

Reliance

Our first meeting was devoted entirely to election of officers to serve the first semester. Edwin Liljegren was elected president; George Phinney, vice-president; Frank S. James, secretary; Charles Buchert, treasurer; Lloyd Clements, yell-leader; and Charles Moon, sergeant-at-arms. Each new officer gave a little speech promising to work for the society and to leave nothing undone in making our literary work the highest in the school.

At the second meeting we decided on the fee for the year, appointed program and membership committees and settled other items of a business nature. A fair volunteer program occupied some of the time. Mr. Turney and Mr. Kirk, visitors, addressed the society and both gave interesting as well as instructive talks. As usual, the society, before adjournment, shook the foundations of the academic building with it's Reliance songs and yells.

Winona

The Winonas held their first meeting in room nine on the night of Sept. 29. Roll was called and a short volunteer program was rendered. The time was occupied with plans for the semester. Mrs. Risser, our advisor, gave us a helpful talk and we adjourned.

The Winonas held their regular meeting on Friday night, October 6. After the regular business of roll call and minutes a short program was given to our visitors who set the room to overflowing. The purpose of this meeting was to elect officers for this semester. The event had been advertised for a couple of weeks and the girls seemed to have made up their minds definitely. The result was: President, Rose Gray; vice-president, Anna LaRance; secretary-treasurer, Madaline Wilder; reporter, Viola Beyers; sergeants, Stella Grimes and Ramona Tripp; cheer leader, Charlotte Bremner. After short but encouraging talks from our visitors and advisor we adjourned.

ITEMS FROM THE TRADES

The machinists are doing some good work on the tools and equipment for their department. The more advanced boys are doing good work in gear cutting. There is a rumor, well founded, that they expect to produce a power hack saw within the near future. We are anxious to see it.

The dairymen are the kind that work early and late, that get kicked occasionally, sometimes fail to get sufficient sleep, and are out and about while the rest of us sleep. However, they seem to be cheerful and happy and we appreciate their efforts for the additional comfort and good of Chemawa.

To the gardeners also is due a great deal of credit for the quantity of fine fruits and vegetables furnished the kitchens this past season. We sometimes fail to consider the untiring effort and intelligence necessary to successfully produce and bring to our table the fine subsistences for which Chemawa is noted.

The farmers have been making good progress with the fall seeding and plowing. We have a fine prospect for a large potato crop this year. These potatoes had no rain from the time they were planted until the middle of August. This is a fine example of what intensive cultivation will do to preserve moisture. The field showed a fine healthy green when other potatoes in the valley were entirely dried up and withered. We commend the energy of this department.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. Cemmino, dietician, and her detail have canned 282 gallons of fruit for winter use.

The nurse girls are very anxious to get their new uniforms, which are now being made at the sewing room.

Mrs. Moody, from Salem, arrived last Tuesday to take the position as assistant nurse at the hospital. She is a great help to Mrs. Ranzell and the nurse girls.

Serving trays are being made at the carpenter shop for hospital use.
