DOMESTIC SCIENCE NOTES

We're glad to see our girls back after a few days in the hospital.

We have done little needlework for our department recently as we've been so busy with other things.

We are hoping everything in our new department will be completed when we come again, the Seniors say, "for the last time."

Three of our Junior girls have been confined to the hospital for a few days. We'll all be glad to see them back at their places.

Supt. and Mrs. Hall dined with the Seniors recently. Just a little home dinner. We surely enjoyed having them. The girls were all "smiles."

We have been reviewing seventh grade work for the benefit of our new girls. We find it helpful to all, as we sometimes grow careless when it comes to order and system.

A house for wood and coal is one of the needed things being placed for our use. We'll be glad to use all these new things when we return to the Domestic Science next semester.

Our Junior class served a 12 o'clock luncheon to Congressman Hawley and party on Friday. We are always happy to do such things and it adds much to our ability to do things.

Our new steam table will be of great service to us in serving ball teams and for large affairs in our department. We think we're to have a game this week. Anyway our "menu" is ready.

The painters are busy giving a much-needed coat to the old part of the Domestic Science kitchen. We very much appreciate it and are glad to have it done before the large class comes in next week.

Both classes in Domestic Science are trying to finish up their work, as this is the last week for this semester. The seniors have figured long and faithfully on calories, but the result is usually "approximate." Human "bein's" differ so.

ENTERPRISE

The Enterprise Society held their first meeting in room 6. The evening was devoted to the election of officers. The following was the result: President, Bertha Lee; vice-president, Josephine Weaver; secretary, Lena Swan; treasurer, Eva Copeland; reporter, Edna Dahlgren; sergeant-at arms, Grace Wheeler; cheer leader, Angela Monroe.

The Enterprise held their regular meeting in room 6, November 3rd, 1922. The house was called to order by the president and after roll call, a short program was given. Our visitors for the evening were Frank S. James, Jesse Morgan, Frank Burke and Elmer Flurey. Mrs. Iliff gave us an encouraging talk, and after a few songs and yells we adjourned.

ITEMS FROM THE TRADES

Carpenters are making study tables for McBride Hall.

The painters have been very busy lately with broken glass and with the finishing of tables for the Domestic Science, which are now ready for delivery.

The masons and carpenters have moved the old isolation ward back of the hospital over to the rear of the Domestic Science, where it will be used for a coal house.

The masons are repairing the oil tank today and will have it ready for more oil, which we are expecting. The manholes built at several points on the grounds by the masons are a credit to them.

The engineers and plumbers are still very busy with the heating system. Regulating valves, stopping leaks in old radiators and taking care of the numerous troubles incident to starting a new system.

The lamp shafts made by George Phinney are fine examples of good workmanship. Myrtle is a beautiful wood when properly worked and polished and the job is a credit to the young man and the department.

A new line has to be laid from the school building to the library, as the old line has given out. This is another job that will be completed as soon as possible.

The garden detail is still digging potatoes, but they are nearly done now as there are only a few more rows of the patch not dug.

Before long we shall again reach the day set aside for the consideration of our many blessings—Thanks-giving. Few of us, indeed, who are so poor that we have nothing to be thankful for; try to bear this in mind at all times.

Fred Cardin, violinist, and Willie Reddie, cellist, who were members of the Indian String Quartet sent out from Chemawa several years ago, are soon to tour the Northwest with a concert company, in which they are starring, and intend to pay us a visit.
