

SENIOR NOTES

Another period is complete and the grades recorded. Let's make the next better than ever before.

Mr. Nolan, of the Palmer Company, gave us a lesson in penmanship. It was very interesting and helpful.

William Minthorne came slipping into the tenth grade one day last week. Tally one more for the boys.

Robert Johnson was chosen by the A division to bring in five current event questions for assembly discussion next week.

The girls' basketball team has been working in the gym after hours, but we haven't heard of any high scores. Wait until the inter-class games.

There have been several business meetings, several committee meetings and some evening sessions of the class recently. There must be something very important on hand. Could it be the senior play?

A new face appeared in the senior room last Tuesday and was gladly welcomed. Alex Beauvais stepped forward and took the newcomer by the hand, in fact by both hands, and set the new clock at the correct time.

"You ask what makes this senior sweep,
Why he like others does not play,
The teacher changed somebody's seat
And also took that note away."

Y. M. AND Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The I. T. C. now has a membership of 75 small boys, who pack the "Y" room to the doors every Wednesday evening. Julian Smith was recently elected president of this club.

Last Tuesday evening the Y.W.C.A. cabinet girls were entertained by Miss Eakin. The regular cabinet business was disposed of and then games and eats were enjoyed by the girls.

"You and Your Father and Mother" was a topic that resulted in a very live and worthwhile discussion at the last meeting of the Y.W.C.A. under the able leadership of Addie Merrill.

In common with all the other Y.M.C.A. groups throughout the world, city, student, and industrial, the Chemawa Y.M.C.A. observed November 12 to 19 as the Week of Prayer, by short noonday meetings in the "Y" room each day during the week, with different members of the cabinet as leaders.

A feature of the Climbers Club program last week was a debate on the question, "Resolved, That an Indian boy has an advantage over a white boy in the line of education." Ramond Haldane and Rod Hill were the affirmative team and Jesse Morgan and Royal Holst the negative. Both teams presented good argument which showed thought and preparation.

A new, advanced Teacher Training class is being organized for those Sunday School teachers who have completed the elementary course. The new class will take up the standard three-year course which has been adopted by all the Protestant denominations, for the completion of which diplomas are given by the International Sunday School Association. Those eligible for this class are Rose Gray, Millie Bennett, Carrie Anderson and Wallace Morgan.

ACADEMIC NOTES

Miss Mallory told the A division the story of two friends and the effective means one of them used to reveal to his fallen friend the errors of his ways. Miss Lamb and Miss Connelly were elected to speak to the students next Wednesday.

Although Miss White gave warning that she "was not going to preach" to the B division in the school assembly, we found tucked away in the story of her visit to the wonderland of Kodiak a very good sermon. Surprising as the suggestion may be, each one of us is very much like a can of salmon. As Miss White stated, if the can gets out of the place in which it should travel it jams the machinery and stops the plant. Folks do about the same thing when they desert their post.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE NOTES

A good many visitors pass through our department and it is gratifying to hear them comment so favorably on the training which the girls are receiving.

Our department has been somewhat disturbed of late owing to the necessary plumbing, carpenter and painting work in progress, but we are now seeing the light and are rejoicing over the appearance as well as the facilities afforded for advanced work.

All of the plumbing material with which to thoroughly equip the new class rooms in the domestic science department have arrived. There are six kitchens arranged for, with all apparatus necessary, and not only Mrs. Brickell, teacher, but the students also are enthusiastic over the splendid outlook.

The second period for changing girls' details was effective Monday. The Seniors and Juniors, who have rotated during the period just ended in the domestic science, go to the domestic art department, while the 7th graders take up domestic science. These girls appear very eager to learn and are giving their best effort to get the best there is in their grade.

A 9th grader offered the following advice to a 7th grader who had been detailed to the domestic science department: Always put on your colored apron when you scrub, and remember that the quality of any work performed by you shows whether you use your brain or not; thinking is a splendid exercise and develops your brain. It was Frederick the Great who said: "If my soldiers would really think, not one of them would remain in the ranks."
