

VALUE OF GOOD HABITS

of your class and stay there. All this is easy when the habit of conquering takes possession of you. Young reader, let us emphasize for your good, that it is mind-work that differentiates you from the common herd—the masses.

Mental study or culture call for work carefully planned, regular, persistent. To abuse your time, have no system, chance everything, do your work poorly, growl if you are asked to do too much, hunt for the easy details, change often, dodge obstacles, causes one alway to fall short of the standard of excellence. Fritter away in foolish things the moments left for self-culture and then, young man or young woman, you will not crowd anybody very hard.

One year the Yale University boat crew beat the Harvard crew. Some-one asked the stroke-oar man of the Yale crew how they did it. He answered: "It is easy enough. All you have to do is to take the 'get-there-stroke' and stick to it." After all is said and done the young man or woman who sticks is the one who succeeds.

SENIOR NOTES

Now that the excitement is over every senior present is working as hard as he can.

Geometry is at last becoming interesting and we like to work out the puzzling proofs.

The seniors are proud of Robert Johnson as he won the debate in the Reliance open session.

Frank Johnson was chosen as one of the delegates to the Y.M.C.A. conference held at Eugene the week end.

Minnie Patawa and Carney French are in the hospital. We are all hoping they will be in school as soon as possible.

George Phinney and Robert Johnson of the class of '23 both took part in the Reliance open session and both did their parts well.

Carrie Anderson and Erma LaClair fixed a little sale room in the Domestic Art department the other day. The sale is on the articles made in the department.

Did you ever try to write a news item? It's a funny stunt to do. You have a head full of news to write and when you do write it down there seems to be no news at all. Such is the life of a reporter

The senior girls have all completed their new uniforms and are working on the uniforms for the other girls who do not work in the sewing room. They are spending a part of their time making handkerchiefs.

One day last week while we were in the dining-hall the bell rang and everyone quieted down. A note had been picked up and brought to Miss Skipton. The fun began when the note was read aloud to everybody. Who was "Jim?" Where did the note come from? Who was it for? These were some of the questions asked. It turned out later to be an advertising stunt put up by the naughty seniors for their play. That was all.

The wearing of the class caps to supper last Wednesday was a dedication as well as an advertisement for the senior play. The dedication was of the five new caps made for those who did not have one. Every one possesses a head dress now.

DOMESTIC ART DEPARTMENT

The hospital nurses have new uniforms, which were made in the Prevocational sewing room.

The little menders certainly appreciate their new room, now that they can have their own sewing machines.

The prevocational sewing-room girls have made some pretty rugs and pillow covers. Lena Swan and Martha Titsler are the weavers.

The domestic art girls are very busy trying to complete the McBride Hall uniforms before Christmas. They are made plain but very attractive and becoming to the girls.

The senior girls, as well as the other grade girls, are progressing in their work. Mrs. Canfield has many new ideas this year which she is teaching to the girls and we are much interested, as well as she.

The senior girls, who are now in the Domestic art, are studying on different kinds of material. At present we are studying silks and find it very interesting. We only wish we were in Japan to watch the silk worms.

Every one is welcome to visit our sale room which is packed full of pretty things on lines that will make good presents. All the articles are made by the girls, and you will get something worth while and at very reasonable prices.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE NOTES

The Freshies are very industrious and take a great deal of interest in their work.

We expect to start cooking one meal a day next week. Let's hope no one overeats.

As soon as the cupboards are put in each girl who cooks will have her own individual kitchen with all its equipment.

We find there is no such a thing as industrial training without the academic. We use academic training every day in our work.

This has been a busy week for Domestic Science housekeepers, cleaning up after the plumbers, who have been putting in our six new sinks.

Housekeepers No.1 have some nice new sinks to keep clean. It won't be a job, but a pleasure to clean sinks like those in the Domestic Science.

Each girl wants to take a prize in cooking, but there has been a few discouragements in the way of burnt cakes. We don't know who to blame for it, either. We can blame the stoves, the good coal, and cooks, but we shall have to leave it for you to decide.

Nora Gray holds the honor of having baked the best cake made by B Division girls. She's a Junior that's why. By the way, while we are talking about Juniors, we'll say that there are six of them trying to catch up in cooking, respectively, Nora Gray, Clarrisa George, Ada Ball, Eva O'Bryan, Edna Crofoot and Luella Williams.
