ATHLETIC NOTES

The game scheduled to be played with Salem high school last Saturday afternoon was postponed until this afternoon on account of inclement weather. The game will be called promptly at 3:30. Salem is still stinging under the collar because of the game they lost to us in basketball and are coming out here today with blood in their eyes and are determined to do business.

The opening game for the class baseball championship was played last week between the senior and junior classes. The juniors walked away with the seniors easily toward the end of the game and won by a 7 to 2 score. The fore part of the game was a pitchers' duel. Though both sides got several men on bases, mostly on errors, each time the pitchers would come out of the hole by retiring the remaining batters. Atkins started in the box for the juniors and Eddie Sanderson for the seniors. This week the sophomores meet the freshmen. Hereafter the games will start promptly at 2 o'clock and the teams will play five innings.

WHAT ARE YOU WORTH?

Dr. Wedge, in his lecture last Sunday evening, "What Are You Worth," made the following interesting statement: "Marked down to 98 cents" would be a queer and insulting tag to put on a man. Yet that is what a man amounts to considered in terms of his chemical contents. The analysis has been made by some technical sharp and this is the astounding report:

The ingredients of a man plus water are as follows:

Fat enough for seven bars of soap.

Iron enough for a medium sized nail.

Sugar enough to fill a shaker.

Lime enough to whitewash a chicken coop.

Phosphorus enough to make twenty-two hundred match tips.

Magnesium enough to make a dose of magnesia.

Potassium enough to explode a toy cannon.

Sulphur enough to rid a dog of fleas.

INDUSTRIAL ITEMS

The plumbers are placing the heating system in the new shops. They are also covering tables for the kitchen and lining the new refrigerator for the Senior Domestic Science cottage.

The painters have finished the Domestic Science Building and are painting the print shop at present.

The mason detail has repaired the walks about the campus recently and are now busy straightening up their new quarters.

The work of the farm and garden details is moving along in good shape. All of the early potato crop is planted and some of the garden is up.

All the boys of the carpentry department are interested in their demonstration problems and are doing good work. The prospect for this department the coming year is bright, owing to the increased space that will be available for bench work.

Pigville has undergone quite a change since the civic improvement organization began work. What was a drab community before is now much in evidence as the famous "Spotless Town." It looks fine from a distance and better closer up. Our compliments to the detail.

LOCAL

Chemawa has undergone a slight epidemic of "Flu." No cases at present and all well at our school.

Both patients and nurses are complimentary of the food at our hospital since Mrs. Snapp has been dietician.

Mr. Clyde Cardy of Platteville, Wisconsin, is here visiting Mr. and Mrs. Vesper and daughter, Miss Marie.

Mr. Friske, assistant engineer, was operated upon last Monday at the Salem hospital for the removal of a large fibroid tumor in the leg. He is doing nicely and will soon return to his duties in Chemawa.

Tulips, narcissus, lilacs and other varieties of flowers are blooming. It takes an abundance of flowers to supply the school, and our smaller boys are kept busy at odd times gathering wild flowers which abound in profusion in this locality.

Lawrence Mercurief and Jacob Mynuk, former Chemawa students, spent the week-end at the school. The former is now employed at a lumbering concern in Montesano, Wash., as a log scaler and is getting along nicely. The latter went to California where he has been promised work at carpentry.

As usual, the Winona Literary Society annual party, given last Saturday evening, was a most successful and enjoyable affair. It would seem that ideas in decoration would become exhausted at Chemawa, but each new event brings a change. Last Saturday night was no exception, as many original and unique innovations were introduced for the entertainment of the 200 guests. It is superfluous to say that these young ladies entertained royally.
