

LOCAL

Supt. Hall was called to Portland a couple of days ago on business and Mrs. Hall accompanied him.

Reno Booth was unexpectedly called upon to sing during chapel last Sunday evening and he made good with a "plus."

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Turner arrived home a few days ago from an auto trip that took them as far south as Los Angeles, California. Mr. Turner is the farmer at Chemawa.

Charles DePoe, a member of the class of '24, has returned to Chemawa to continue his high school studies at Chemawa. Charles' home is at Neah Bay, Wash. He is quite a help in musical circles at the school.

Flora Dexter, who spent the summer vacation with her parents at her home in Golovin, Alaska, arrived back at school last Saturday, sound and well, and happy to be with us again. She is a prominent member of our junior class.

The "Girl Reserves" of the Y. W. C. A. take this means of inviting the girls of McBride Hall to attend meetings at the "Y" room on Sunday afternoons at one o'clock. Membership is desired, but active participation is not compulsory and any girl who feels timid will be most welcome just as a guest.

If you wish to reap the benefits of a season ticket now is the time to get one and not wait until you have paid the admission price to several games. Last year we played fourteen basketball games on the home court, which in itself would justify one in buying a season ticket; but outside of that we also played three football games and seven baseball games at home.

Chapel last Sunday evening brought forth the following program: The orchestra played a "Minuet" by Valencin, Grace Peterson sang "Four-Leaf Clover" by Coombs, a septet of girls sang "Legends" by Mohring, the choir sang "I Will Praise the Lord" by Nolte. Supt. Hall, who was in charge of the exercises, introduced Capt. Stacy, who made the principal talk of the evening, and one charged with good advice to the students, and which was well received. Again we had an interesting chapel.

Next Monday, Sept. 28, the Oregon State Fair will open in Salem, so it goes without saying that this will be a busy week at Chemawa in preparing the school exhibit, as we always have a large and exceptionally fine and varied display at the Fair. Each year in the past it has seemed that Chemawa has improved on her display of the previous year at the fair and we have now reached a point where further improvement appears impossible, but we will not pass judgment until Supt. Hall and his assistants have had their chance this year.

Supt. E. L. Chalcraft, Mrs. Chalcraft and daughter, Miss Hallie, together with Mr. and Mrs. Pickering Chalcraft and son, paid Chemawa friends a visit last Saturday evening. Supt. Chalcraft, and wife and daughter are residing at Siletz, while Mr. Pickering Chalcraft, son of Supt. Chalcraft and wife, lives in Seattle where he is well-known as a newspaper man. Pickering and family continued on to Seattle by train on Saturday evening, while Supt. Chalcraft, Mrs. Chalcraft and Miss Hallie remained here over night and returned to their home in Siletz on Sunday.

On Tuesday evening the domestic science department gave what was in reality a health demonstration dinner. It was a six-course dinner and was served by members of the tenth grade. Covers were laid for Miss Thompson, head of nursing; and Miss Feary, her assistant; Miss Simpson, physical director—all three representing the Red Cross of Salem; Miss Groves, supervisor of household economics in the Indian Service; Dr. Rowland, Mrs. Iliff, Mrs. Parks and Mrs. Brickell. It was in every way a pleasing educational dinner. On Thursday these people were at the school again and met with the teachers, matrons and disciplinarians and arranged for work to be done in connection with our regular health program. Miss Feary will teach the regular Red Cross course in Home Nursing to the eighth grade class.

FRESHMEN NOTES

"Watch our smoke!"

Amos Reed was also on the sick list this week.

The moving picture show on Friday night was enjoyed by all.

Nancy Loudon of our class is sick in the hospital, but is expected to be with us soon.

The class is indeed glad to have Emma Sexton with us again. She was out of school last year on account of sickness.

We are glad to see so many new freshmen students at Chemawa, but we are just as glad to see the old ones return.

Pauline Kamkoff spent the summer near Portland, Ore. Along with her work Pauline tells us that she had all kinds of amusements.

Elizabeth Codding went to her home at Marshfield, Oregon, on June 4. She reported having had an enjoyable time during her summer vacation at home.

Beulah Ray spent her vacation at her home near Polson, Montana. She tells her friends that she enjoyed the swimming and horseback riding very much while at home.

The freshmen class is the largest of the high school class, having thirty-nine girls and thirty-one boys. We have been reading "Silas Marner" and enjoyed the story very much.

Helen Peratrovich is the chief cook for the patients at the hospital for the present. The football "casuals" say she has certainly served nice meals. One was heard singing, "I Don't Want To Get Well."
