ATHLETIC NOTES

Just by the "skin of her teeth" Columbia University was able to hold our warriors to a tie game on Multnomah field last Saturday afternoon. A nicely executed drop kick was made by Solomon Fleury, our dashing half back, in a try for the extra point, but the tally was disallowed because of alleged tripping in our backfield. Columbia was lucky, for that was all that saved her hide.

Columbia showed some mighty football in the first quarter when they received the ball on the kick-off and gradually worked the ball to our goal line and scored, but after that period she might just as well have driven into a stone wall, for our linemen put up a defense that the collegians found impossible to penetrate. Our right end was the weakest part of our forward wall. The cliff dwellers circled this flank for several long gains, but the linemen would immediately take the sting out of each run by holding the collegians for downs.

With the opening of the second quarter our team started out with a dazzling aerial attack. Atkins hurled a 10-yard pass to DePoe and followed with another heave to Fleury. Thompson hit the line for six then repeated for a four-yard gain. With time about up Atkins shot a long pass to DePoe, who made an unusual catch when he jumped into the air and reaching over the shoulders of two opponents grabbed the ball and went over the line for the last score of the game.

Thompson at fullback, and Fleury, Johnson, and Abraham at halves, proved a match for the Columbia defense, but their drives were made nil on several occasions by passes thrown over the goal line needlessly. In one instance, after the ball had been carried to the opponents' twenty-yard line, with second down and a yard to go, and the backfield tearing through the Columbia line for big yardage each time, a pass was attempted and we lost it because it was thrown across the line. Such "harem-scarem" football makes a team which is otherwise good look bad. However, had that attack succeeded it would have been a great day, but it failed and in view of the fact that line plays were working well it was an error in judgment for they failed to coincide with the tactics and strategy of the game.

JUNIORS 13—SOPHOMORES 6

The terrific line plunging of Moon and the brainy work of Haldane, the Juniors' quarterback, enabled the Junior class to defeat the Sophomores 13 to 6 in a hard-fought battle on a recent afternoon. The first score came early in the second period when Haldane completed a beautiful 12-yard pass to Floyd Dupuis, who was over the line waiting for the pigskin. The kick failed.

The Sophomores received and were held for downs and punted. It was a zig-zag battle until the end of the first half.

The second half opened with the Sophs receiving. Gaining but little ground, they were forced to punt. Haldane fumbled the catch and the ball rolled to the 1-yard line where Jones, Sophies' left end, fell upon it. On the next play it was put over in a quarterback sneak by Markistrum. The kick failed.

The Juniors received, but were held for downs and Colgrove punted to the Sophies' 10-yard line; the safety was caught in his tracks. The next rush resulted in a fumble, which was caught by O'Bryan, and he ran unmolested for the second touch down. The kick was good. The remaining part of the game was a hard scrap, but neither team threatened. The Juniors are running strong for the championship. "Bill" Markistrum and Jones starred for the "Sophies."

LITERARY SOCIETIES

Nonpareil

After the regular business of the society was transacted and twenty-eight new members added and welcomed the society gave an excellent Armistice program, as follows:

Song, Society; Duet, Pearl Buckles and Jennie Allen; Vocal Trio, Zelma Johnson, Ida Audette and Mary Dophne; Flag Drill, Four Girls; Dialogue, Ida Escholt and Norma Douglas; Jolly-Up, Marie Bauer; Closing Songs and Yells, Society.

After hearing from our visitor, Mrs. Brickell, and advisor, Miss White, we adjourned.

Winona

An interesting Armistice program was given by the Winonas on Oct. 6, 1925, in the academic building in room 9. After the usual duties a program was given as follows:

Winona Spirit, society; recitation, Gertrude Caisse; duet, Helen Peratrovitch and Evelyn Roberts; dialogue, Marie and Vera Korter; solo, Irene Pesterkoff; recitation, Ida Uttecht; story of the war, Maybelle Bremner; reading, Edna Audette; charades, Frances Nicholas; trio, Maybelle Bremner, Emma Sexton and Ramona Tripp; closing song, society.

Reports from Anna Nurgerson and Marie Andrews ended the programme. Snappy songs were sung and the house stood adjourned.
