Mr. and Mrs. Iliff made a flying trip to Portland on Sunday.

On Wednesday noon Supt. and Mrs. Hall were dinner guests of Mrs. Parks.

Elmer and Augustine Logan were surprised by a visit of friends and relatives from Siletz.

Mr. Glover, who took the place recently made vacant by Mr. Clark in the blacksmith department, is very ably filling the position.

The student body is looking forward to the open session of the Nonpareil Literary Society and the party of the Reliance Literary Society.

Both employees and pupils regret Mrs. Carroll's sudden illness, but all are glad to know that she is recovering nicely from the operation.

Olie Strom and Leander Wilson went to Portland to see the "Red Grange" football game on Saturday. These boys went with Mr. Henderson.

Miss Earlougher, Miss Gunn, and Mrs. Bent are quite elated over getting Mexico City on their radios recently. Two old favorites, La Paloma and La Golindrina, were heard.

Misses Edith and Lillian Zimmerman of Wentworth, South Dakota, friends and neighbors of Mrs. Eaton when at that place, spent several days with Mrs. Eaton during the past week.

The orchestra was somewhat handicapped at the Saturday evening social on account of the illness of Charles DePoe and Raymond Haldane. These boys had their tonsils removed on Saturday morning.

John Dexter finished his work at the Salem High School at the end of the last semester. John intends to continue his studies at the High School until June, however. John is the only Chemawa student that finished High School this past semester.

Among the boys at Chemawa who mean business may be mentioned Kolbein Lande and Julian Smith. These two boys have determined to be clarinetists, and have each purchased a fine Boehm system clarinet. Both of them are printers and we have faith enough to predict that they will some day be of consequence in the musical world.

Yesterday was "Groundhog Day;" formerly a calendar day of great importance in the speculative and imaginary mind. "To be out or not to be" seems to be the great question in the mind of his hogship, and the weather for the ensuing six weeks is supposed to depend on whether or not he sees his shadow. At the time we were compelled to go to press the results of his decision could not be affirmed. Let us hope that he cast no shadow.

Spring plowing for the farmers at Chemawa is already in progress. Of late they have given considerable time to pulling stumps and clearing up a piece of land just north of Pigville. This clearing move is a good one.

Charles Fagerstrom, Charley Moon and Archie Demmert went with Mr. Carroll to the State Library on Saturday afternoon and enjoyed seeing the building. While there they were shown many interesting books on Alaska and Japan. These boys being from Alaska, the books on Alaska proved very interesting to them.

Rev. H.S. Killen, who has been a missionary among our Indian people of the northwestern part of the State of Washington for the past twenty years, was a visitor at Chemawa on Sunday and he made a very interesting talk to students assembled in Chapel in the afternoon. He is personally acquainted with many of our students.

Mr. Fred Bruce was a guest of Chemawa friends over Saturday night and Sunday. He was delighted to report that he had met some of his "musical pals" in Sousa's band. They had formerly been in the "Million Dollar" band with Mr. Bruce. We are informed that Mr. Bruce is preparing to leave Silverton to locate at Klamath Falls.

Brewer Hall is soon to appear more presentable than it has in the recent past. Carpenters have been busy doing their part in the beautifying project and now the painters are taking a hand. We are glad to see Supt. Hall taking this matter in hand. It takes time to get around to the many things necessary at Chemawa, but in due season Mr. Hall gets to and at them.

Chas. E. Larsen was an official visitor at Chemawa last week while enroute from Siletz to Grand Ronde on business—and was here again a day or so ago on his return from Grand Ronde. Mr. Larsen is Supt. Hall's representative in charge of the Siletz agency and business matters made it necessary for him to visit Chemawa. He has many friends here who are always glad to welcome him.

As Supt. Hall was not feeling well on Sunday evening Mr. Iliff conducted our chapel exercises. During the evening Mr. Iliff spoke to the students regarding the grades that they had received at the examinations recently held at the close of the semester. He stated that the "general average" was good, but he said that he hoped not a single failure would be reported at the close of this semester. He gave splendid advice. The orchestra played a "Slavonic Characteristique" by Ascher, Aaron Isaac sang "By the Side of the Road" by Weeks, Leander Wilson gave a recitation, Grace Peterson and Harriett Hill sang "Whispering Hope" by Hawthorne as a duet, and the choir sang "Come Thou, Almighty King" by Wilson.
