Dr. Rowland was a dinner guest of Mrs. Brickell on Sunday.

Supervisor Bradley and Capt. Stacy were week-end visitors at Portland.

Dr. and Mrs. Hans Seitz of Salem were visitors at Chemawa during the week.

The beautiful spring weather has brought out many tennis fans to the courts.

Miss Roddy chaperoned an auto load of small girls to town on Sunday. They attended mass at the Catholic church.

The girls' class in commercial geography recently made an inspection trip to Salem and vicinity. Few places can boast of so many varied industries as Salem.

Our robins and other birds are appearing in Chemawa again and are singing happily during the entire day. This is one more evidence of an early spring.

The farm is sending its equipment to the shops for overhauling preparatory to spring work. Numerous implements have been repaired and there are more to follow.

Ramona Tripp and Emily Ivanoff served an eight-course dinner to Mr. and Mrs. Iliff, Mrs. Brickell, Miss Peters, Miss Strout, Mr. Bradley and Capt. Stacy on Tuesday evening.

The concrete mixer that was bought several years ago is about ready to "take the air" again. It has been in the hands of the machinists for some time. Pump repairs have also kept them busy recently.

The carpenters are putting a new roof on the industrial building, and they say they are very anxious to turn it over to the painters in order that they can do some practical wearing of the green on March 17.

The harness to be furnished to the various agencies in the Service is well along toward completion. We have bargained to produce a greater number at a better price next year and hope we get the business.

A shipment of 250 sacks of graham flour has just been received for use at the Chemawa bakery. It is reported to us that Mr. Turner, our baker, is doing some mighty fine baking these days—and we believe it.

More land is coming in for attention by the farm and garden details. Four acres have already been added to the farm and when the present operations have been finished a substantial addition will be ready for crop.

Quite a number of young stock have been added to the dairy herd recently. These cows have been raised at Chemawa and are starting out to make a record for themselves. This speaks well for the dairy detail and their instructor.

Mr. Iliff was in charge and conducted chapel last Sunday evening. During the service the orchestra played "A Perfect Day" by Bond, Alice May Clark sang "Tomorrow Land" by Tandler, Bernice Blakeslee gave a recitation, the boys' octette sang "Yachting Glee" by Culbertson, and the choir sang "Onward Into Light" by Donizetti-Wilson.

Capt. Stacy was one of the chaperones of our party of young people to Salem on Monday evening. In evidence we saw in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Tyrrell, Mr. and Mrs. Woodard, Mr. and Mrs. Teter, Mr. Carroll and Mr. Holmes. The occasion was the open meeting of the Rebekah Lodge and Chemawa was well represented.

The last installment of the 18 bedside tables made in the carpentry department for the hospital will be delivered to the painters this week. Some very nice chairs have recently been built for McNary Hall, and a number of chairs, settees and tables to refit the boys' reading room at Mitchell Hall have been delivered. The volume of business through this busy shop is remarkable, as it serves so many other departments.

On Monday the boys' and girls' octettes of Chemawa, under the direction of Mrs. Turney, appeared in Salem at an open meeting of the Rebekahs, and did themselves proud. Raymond Haldane and Reno Booth were presented in vocal solos; John Dexter contributed a violin solo; Louis Dupuis, Clifford McLeod and Reno Booth each gave recitations. Every individual and ensemble number of the entire program was enthusiastically encored. Mrs. Henderson had the program in charge and acted as chairman of the occasion and proved at ease in that position. Delicious refreshments were served our young people and in every way were they honored. It was a memorable occasion for all.

On Wednesday evening the Chemawa wrestling team went to Oregon City and met the team of the Oregon City High School. There were nine of the Chemawa boys matched. Karl Muller, Lafay Weaver, Moses George and Dan Collins defeated their opponents without going on the mat for the third time; William Johnson and Percy Woodcock went to the mat for the third time with their opponents and both won; B. Ann held his opponent to a draw; Donald Nickerson and Charley Fagerstrom lost, but each went with his opponents to the mat three times. Chemawa's team made 101 points and Oregon City 55, according to the scores, and the method of the Oregon City Coach. The Oregon City people certainly showed a splendid spirit toward the Chemawa boys. There was not a single decision questioned by either side and during the whole meet "everybody was happy."
