Christmas everywhere!

Every class is checking up on knowing the school song.

Miss Judd and Miss Eakin are the latest to have a radio installed.

Clifford Celestine is the returned "Jason" of the sophomore class.

The physics classes are delighted with the new equipment recently purchased.

Mabel Desautel has been out of school for a few days on account of illness.

The Protestant Sunday school is giving a Christmas program on the morning of the 19th.

Andy Adams, of the ninth grade, returned to Yakima last Wednesday because of illness.

Basketball is now well under headway and prospects were never brighten for a winning team.

The Boy Scouts organized on Wednesday. This good work is under direction of Mr. Bent.

Coquelle Thompson was surprised this week by a visit from his father of Siletz, Coquelle Thompson Sr.

William Johnson and Clifford McLeod followed the clue given by Mr. Mason and found Capt. Stacy's watch.

Clifford Meachem, George Meachem, Jacob Atkins and Charley Morgan had their pictures taken on Saturday.

Chemawa had her first light touch of winter last Monday morning in the way of thin ice over water standing outside.

The senior girls were taken to town on Thursday afternoon by Supt. McGregor and Mr. Fisher to have their pictures made.

Mr. Bent has turned his attention to automobiles and has purchased a new Studebaker. The car was delivered to him last Friday.

Yesterday the junior and senior nurses visited Portland hospitals. Dr. Collard, Miss Boreland and Supt. McGregor accompanied them.

Archie Demmert of the sophomore class made a trip to Seattle this week to see relatives from Alaska, his home. He returned on Sunday.

Daniel Dupuis received a package of delicious jerked beef and venison from his home, which he liberally and unselfishly shared with his friends.

Clifford McLeod graced police court with his presence on Friday morning. The car Clifford was driving was tagged, etc. Clifford had many sympathizers on the campus who made ample excuses in his behalf.

The student social given last Saturday evening was a great success from every standpoint. It was in the nature of Christmas fund benefit, and it really benefited surprisingly.

The senior boys attended the sale given by the girls in the sewing departments under Mrs. Cardy and Mrs. Kirk. It was certainly a delight to see so many beautiful and useful things. Tea was served by Ferol Porter.

Wallace Hatch left for his home on Tuesday. Wallace will be missed at Chemawa. He promised to write several Indian legends for The Chemawa American while recuperating at his home. Our best wishes for his welfare go with him.

For some unexplainable reason we forgot to mention the Kappa Alpha Phi party of more than a week ago in our last issue—and no-one sent in a line or any sort of a reminder! Suffice it to state that the party was in every way a great success.

The Kappa Alpha Boys gave their first social on December 4th. The gymnasium was beautifully decorated in orange and black, greens and pennants. The senior class, junior boys, sophomore boys, president of the freshman class, and the Salem students plus their "best friends" were present. Favors, music and refreshments made for an enjoyable evening. Jacob Atkins acted as floor manager and Louis Dupuis welcomed the guests.

The speaker during chapel exercises last Sunday evening was Supt. McGregor, and he made a mighty good talk on practical lines. Students who are wise will profit by giving heed to the suggestions which he gave them. In addition to Mr. McGregor's talk the orchestra played "The Dervish" by Cohen, Louis Dupuis sang "When the Ocean Rolls no More" by Solomon, Fred Rickard gave a recitation, and the choir sang "I love to Tell the Story" by Gabriel.

The De Molays of Salem were with us on Monday evening and staged a play that entertained us in the fullest sense of the word. Actors and actresses "knew their lines," had a snappy play, put it over like professionals, delighted all here, merited our appreciation and thanks, and we are truly sorry that we have not space for a more detailed account of the splendid work of these talented young people. Our student body and faculty are unanimous in a vote of thanks to the De Molays.

Last Friday evening our orchestra and the boys' octette furnished an excellent program at the Congregational church in Silverton. The church was crowded and the reception accorded our organizations testified to the fact that they had more than made good. In addition to numbers by the orchestra and the boys' octette Louis Dupuis and Harry Frost each gave recitations—their efforts went over in fine style, too. In every way the part Chemawa had in the success of the evening was most gratifying.
