ATHLETIC NOTES

The seniors failed to uncrown the juniors in the "Turkey Day" clash and as a result of it the champions are still the champions. For three consecutive years now the juniors have ruled supreme over the class series and because of the last victory they can now call the big silver loving cup "mine, all mine." The battle was waged in a downpour of rain. It had rained all of the night before. There was so much water standing on the field that it looked like a miniature lake. But for all the water the field afforded good footing and those who braved the rain and took a good soaking were amply repaid with the many thrills that filled the battle. And a battle it was. For two long periods the ball worked up and down the field almost within scoring distance, only to be gained and booted back out of danger by the threatened team.

The first half ended 0 to 0. Early in the third period James Oliver gathered in Bill Markishtum's short kick and raced for the only touchdown of the game. It was a pretty run and behind perfect interference that formed in almost a flash. Jim received the ball on the fifty-yard line and almost from that point he ran protected from the fighting seniors by this fine wall of defense. The extra point was annexed by a lateral pass from punt formation. The perfect timing and excellent execution of this play was only a sample of the well developed football that both teams played throughout the entire game, hard, vicious, clean and scientific.

Every player did so well that it would be an injustice to point out any individual as a star so we are printing the entire line-up.

Although our regular football season was over three weeks ago the squad has continued practice to enable the men who will form the nucleus of next year's varsity a chance to become a little more acquainted with their positions and the men whom they will play along side. That season was terminated last Saturday afternoon with the final football game of the season. The teams were made up of those who will be eligible next year against the seven regulars who will graduate in June and three varsity substitutes. The seniors, as they were called, scored first. They failed to kick goal. The half ended 6 to 0 in their favor. In the second half next year's varsity men got started and scored two touchdowns and kicked one goal for a total of 13 points. The game ended 13 to 6 against the seniors. At a recent meeting Roy Peratrovich was elected captain of the 1928 squad. He will succeed Solomon Fleury. Roy and his prospects for next year's varsity proved to be powerful, both on the offense as well as on the defense against the seniors, and are optimistic for the coming season.

Fifty-two candidates responded to the basketball call made last week. They have been working out and playing elimination games since the work started. The end of this week will find the squad cut in two and practice for the regular schedule started.

LOCAL

Mr. Kunkel and his details had big eats last Friday evening.

Solomon Fleury and Henry Bowker were the prime movers in serving coffee and sandwiches to the Excelsiors on Friday evening.

The men employees are meeting in the gym on Monday evenings for athletic games. There is fun and lots of it at these meets. Come and limber up. It will help you.

During a recent meeting of the Nonpareil Society the following program was rendered: Nonpareil Song, Society; piano solo, Julia Walker; talk on thrift, Alfreda Kipp; recitation, Zelma Johnson; an Indian story, Susie Grounds; orchestra music, Anna Augusta, Dorothy Parker and Martha Packineau.

The Small Boys' quarters have undergone quite a change recently. The clothing that was on the second floor has been moved to the first and it is much more convenient. Mrs. Culbertson of Poplar, Montana, is the house mother.
