Mr. Kirk, our property clerk, was in Portland a day or two of last week looking after the shipping of supplies to certain schools and agencies of the service.

Mr. Lisle Carrow, our assistant engineer, went into the Grand Ronde country a few days ago on a hunt for venison. On his first trip out he "bagged" a fine five-point buck. Pretty lucky, we say.

"Pete" Lipps, who is attending Willamette University, has been pledged to membership in one of the prominent fraternities of that institution of learning the Sigma Tau. This is quite an honor when "landed," and we know that "Pete" will attend to that.

Martha Packineau is now assistant domestic science teacher at Flandreau, S. Dak., and is getting along nicely. She was a member of our last graduating class. She wrote that Maybelle Bremner, of the class of '28, is also employed at Flandreau in the capacity of laundress.

Every season brings its quota of "fish stories," good or bad, true or false. One of the most interesting of the season, so far as we know, is one told of Mr. Ratzburg, our gardener. It appears that while fishing he caught a fine salmon and in some mysterious way it climbed a tree and got away from him. Ahem! See Mr. Ratzburg for details.

Mr. and Mrs. Omar Bewley made a brief call at Chemawa one day last week to greet some friends. Mr. Bewley transferred to Dixon, Montana, at the first of the year and he was spending his "annual leave" in Salem, together with his wife. They started back for Dixon last Thursday. They are getting along nicely and like it up there, excepting for the cold of winter.

Among all of the articles that have come to our attention, pointing the way for young people to go, we can recall nothing finer than "A Message to Young Men," by David Starr Jordan, Chancellor Emeritus of Stanford University. Our young ladies will lose nothing by a careful study of this remarkable bit of good advice, even though it is addressed to young men. The article appears in another column.

We are happy to note that Supt. Jas. H. McGregor has received promotion in the Indian Service. Mr. McGregor was at one time superintendent at Chemawa—just before Supt. Lipps took charge. From here Mr. McGregor transferred to Flandreau, S. Dak., as superintendent of that school. This was two years ago, and just recently he has been promoted to the position of district superintendent of South Dakota. This will be good news for Mr. McGregor's many friends in Chemawa and elsewhere in the service. Mr. McGregor will always prove a credit to any position which he may undertake to hold.

The football game between the state universities of Oregon and Idaho, which occurred in Portland last Saturday, drew a large number of our people, both employes and students to the metropolis. Oregon won out in a score of 34 to 7 in a hard-fought game.

The new officers of the Y. W. C. A. were formally installed at the regular meeting on Sunday afternoon, with a very impressive service, after which each new officer responded with a short talk on her plans and hopes for the organization for the coming year. Sunday also marked the opening of the annual membership drive, and little yellow tags were pinned on new members by the cabinet girls who are in charge of the drive.

Dr. Norman K. Tully of Salem was the guest of the Chemawa Y. M. C. A. on Sunday evening at the regular meeting. Dr. Tully spent three months in the Orient this past summer and his description of his trip through Japan, Manchuria and China, with his interesting observations regarding the people, their customs, their food, and their industrial situations was most interesting indeed. Aaron Spokum, president of the Y, presided at the meeting.

After many years Mr. Albert H. Gillette returned last week for a visit at Chemawa. Some fifteen or more years ago Mr. Gillette was employed here as farmer and teacher of agriculture. After several years of service here he resigned and went to teaching in our public schools. At present he is principal of the high school at Cresswell, Oregon, a short distance south of Eugene. He reports that he is getting along nicely. The growth of our plant was a revelation to him.

Assistant Superintendent Mote was happy in introducing Chief Scoutmaster West of the Salem division as the speaker of the evening for our chapel exercises last Sunday. The gentleman proved a most able and affable gentleman and his talk was not only of sound merit for its philosophy and logic, but for its general interest and its practical application to everyday life. It may have been classed under two captions—"Kodak as You Go," or "Carry Your Own Pack." In addition to the above address the choir rendered a splendid number and the orchestra contributed a fine concert arrangement of famous melodies of years ago, the work of Lake.

Last Monday evening a series of chamber music concerts began at Chemawa. A trio will be the means of introducing the master works to be rendered, and Mrs. Turney will be at the piano and Messrs. Kunkel and Cooley will complete the ensemble as violinist and cellist, respectively. The senior class was honored last Monday evening and we wish to commend them for the splendid attention they gave. A standard Mozart number was the trio rendered, after which Mr. Turney played a viola solo, Mr. Kunkel a violin solo, and Mr. Cooley a cello solo in the order mentioned, Mrs. Turney playing all accompaniments. It was gratifying to see so many employes in attendance. The program was well rendered and in every way the beginning of this series was most auspicious.
