

Last Tuesday afternoon our baseballers took a red-hot ten-inning game from the Woodburn Bulldogs at Woodburn. Woodburn took the lead from the start and held it until the score was tied in the sixth inning, three to three. With a run in the seventh, Woodburn again took the lead and it looked like they might take another of our scalps when we were held tight in the eighth inning. But Roy Meachem led off with a single in the ninth and later scored on Vivettes' fielder's choice, tying up the points four to four. In our half of the tenth it appeared we would get clear out of danger when our sluggers pounded out four hits and filled the bases with but a single out. But the Bulldogs pulled out of the third tight place of the afternoon by retiring the side with a pop fly and a light-hit grounder. However, Jesse Prettyman's hit and run was just enough to win the game.

Joe Alexander did the pitching, and though he had only four strike-outs to his credit, he kept the hits so well scattered that he was never in much danger. Our team made fifteen hits against seven for Woodburn.

In the sixth inning Leonard Vivette was the first man to the plate and he met one square on the nose, which sailed nicely over the fence for a home-run.

On Friday Gervais played a return game here and though we nosed them out 6 to 4 it was by no means easily done. At Gervais, a couple weeks ago, we beat them 7 to 1 and it seemed that our boys forgot they were to face one of the best left-handed twirlers in the league and were not set. Schwab's fast and big hookers had some of the boys guessing and matters were not helped any when Gervais led off with a hit in the fourth and the next man was safe on a fielder's choice and the third was safe when Vivette made an error and two runners crossed the plate and before the storm was over the third runner scored, making the count 4 to 2 against us. The only thing that saved us was a lot of fight and some timely hitting. In the fifth Dowd Franklin and Uriah Alexander tied the score and in the seventh Uriah and Charles McKay made the winning runs.

Joe Alexander started the game in the box but found the going pretty tough so was relieved by Vivette. Joe was not hit so hard, but was not given much support. This marked Leonard's first march to the mound since the first game of the season when a contracted cold in the shoulder disabled him. He was a little wild at first, but soon found the plate. He struck out eight men and allowed two hits. Joe struck out six men and allowed two hits. In the second inning he drove a liner deep into center field for a home run.

Friday we will play Salem high school here. By comparative scores both teams are about even. Salem nosed out the Bulldogs one to nothing. But our hitting far outshines theirs. We should be able to cash in on this one important advantage. This week our pitchers have been working hard on a quick delivery to hold the runners on while the infield has been working hard to get the ball away fast. This should be a game worth seeing.

Everything is in readiness for the inter-class track and field meet which is to take place this week. With the teams well organized and working together and the officials all picked the meet should be run off in a quick and interesting manner. No doubt about the excitement, for there will be several close races, judging from the trial runs.

the medal which was presented to him by George Washington is in our museum. Red Jacket was influential in the treaty-making between the two people and the great Pickering peace treaty was signed on a spot which is now marked by a huge brown tablet. This tablet can be seen on the front lawn of our court house in the center of our village. Of course this is all history, but to us the Indian history of this region is a beautiful history and is a definite part of the town. I am glad, however, that as time goes on all people are discovering that boys and girls are alike everywhere, that all grown-ups are pretty much alike, too, even though they may have a different color, and best of all, that we all belong to the same great country and have the same advantages.

"So, have the very best times possible in your school—and always—and as I hope for my school boys and girls the best of success, so do I hope that for you."

Of late it has been a trifle too damp for the farmers and gardeners and they were obliged to slow up and bide their time until drier weather to complete their spring planting. Let us hope that their "waiting days" are about over.
