The carpenters are busy these days making new covers for the trays at the ice plant.

Miss Robitschek, our new director of physical education for girls, is the proud possessor of a new Ford coupe.

Mrs. Steward, one of our domestic science teachers, spent the last week-end with her husband at The Dalles.

Mrs. Lottie Turner, matron at the Children's Farm Home at Corvallis, was the guest of Miss French here at the school last week.

Our students were all reseated in the large dining hall about a week ago. This little act is really bigger than some people imagine.

Quite a number of girls of the 11th and 12th grades are taking training at the hospital with the expectation of qualifying later on as professionals.

The painters are in line for special mention on account of the very fine work they are doing in the rejuvenation of the furniture at McBride Hall.

Warren Wilder, a prominent member of our senior class, was called to his home in Orleans, Calif., a few days ago on account of the serious illness of a brother just younger than himself.

Mr. Boyes and his detail of kitchen boys have just finished canning about 500 gallons of prunes for winter use. This will be something for our students to look forward to—mighty fine!

Miss Vivian Larsen returned last week from near Seattle, Wash., where she had spent a part of the summer vacation with relatives. She returned to resume her studies at the Salem high school.

Miss Cecile Pepion, of our 1930 graduation class, who has been taking training at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, was recently promoted into the second year class as the result of an examination which she and others took. She was the only one to pass the exam.

The engineers have been occupied of late with the task of cleaning up our two new boilers at the power house—preparing for "the unexpected." This plant has a new oil pump, but Mr. Sherman, engineer in charge, is repairing the old pump so that it can be operated in case of an emergency.

There was a girls' "pep" meeting held in the court at Winona Hall last Thursday evening. Warren Wilder, captain of this year's football team, was also in attendance. Rosalia Grounds and Warren both made talks giving their ideas as to the best means for the girls to adopt in the support of athletics. Melba Arnoux led the songs and yells and it was truly a live affair.

Webster Hudson, who graduated from Chemawa 22 years ago last June, was a visitor here last week. As this was his first visit at Chemawa since his graduation, Mr. Hudson noted many important changes in his alma mater. At present he is living at Tahola, Wash., where he has a store. While here he was a member of our printing force. We were all pleased to have him visit us.

Hermann A. Kunkel has been transferred as bandmaster from Chemawa school, Oregon, to Phoenix. Mr. Kunkel will be welcome at Phoenix as he comes with an excellent record earned at our sister school. In addition to familiarity with the usual instruments of a military band Mr. Kunkel is an accomplished violinist and already has pleased Phoenix School by his personal performances on this instrument.—NATIVE AMERICAN.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Cecile Porter and the sister of the latter, Miss Vina Smith, motored to Corvallis last Saturday evening to witness the first football game of the season. Willamette U. boys played O. S. C. It was a night game played by electric light. A large crowd was in attendance. Night games are a novelty yet, but they may prove popular as more people will be able to attend.

Miss Mildred Nye, our new head for the home economics department, arrived here last Friday. She is a graduate of the Oregon State College and has had an unusual amount of valuable experience in her particular field. Just recently she arrived back in Oregon from a trip to Europe. We are pleased to welcome her to Chemawa and trust she may feel at home here and contented as a member of our large school family.

During our chapel exercises last Sunday evening Supt. Lipps announced that Asst. Supt. Mote had accepted a transfer to Bismarck, N. Dak., where he will be promoted to the superintendency. This is said to be a very fine school, one of high ideals and a splendid record. In making the announcement, Mr. Lipps spoke of the fact that Mr. Mote and his family will motor to their new field of activities, a long and hard trip. He also spoke for the school in expressing the hope that Mr. and Mrs. Mote would find everything agreeable and congenial for them in Bismarck and that they may be happy there. The American trusts that all of these good wishes may come true.
