Band concert in the auditorium next Saturday night.

Mr. Larsen made a hurry-up business trip to Grand Ronde last Friday.

Mrs. Middleton entertained Mrs. Mayne and Mrs. Vosburgh at a bridge party last Thursday night.

Dowd Franklin, who recently submitted to a surgical operation on his shoulder, is reported to be getting along nicely.

Lillian Helgerson, who had the misfortune to break her arm while roller skating, has so far recovered as to be back in school again.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Henderson arrived home last week from a wonderful trip to Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico. It was partly business and partly a pleasure trip.

Pearl White, who some little while ago was sent to the Tacoma Sanatorium to undergo a mastoid operation, has about completely regained her health and is back in her class here.

We are all most grateful to The Oregonian people for the splendid illustrated article that appeared in last Sunday's edition of that fine paper. It made all of Chemawa proud and happy.

Supt. Lipps arrived home last Thursday from a business trip that took him to Spokane, Tulalip and Tacoma in the State of Washington. He reports a good trip with satisfactory results from a business point of view.

Last Friday evening our sextet of young lady vocalists appeared on a program given by the Salem Heights Community Club and they acquitted themselves in a manner to bring credit to themselves and their school. They were accompanied by Misses Eakin and Judd, the former playing the accompaniments.

Mr. Melovidoff is gaining much publicity in this section as a violinist. Last Thursday evening he appeared in violin solos before the Artisans in Salem and the following morning the Oregon Statesman carried his picture and a splendid write-up of him and his musical career. Last night as we were going to press we learned that he was scheduled to appear as a soloist before the American Legion organization of Salem.

James Oliver, a Chemawa graduate of a few years ago, is employed at the Tulalip School as fireman and we are advised that he is getting along very nicely.

Supt. Lipps reports seeing Clifford Meachem and Jake Atkins, Chemawa graduates now employed at the Tacoma Sanatorium, on his recent trip, and states that both boys are getting along nicely with their work.

Mrs. Earl Hunter, Jr. (nee Kirk) and young son arrived at Chemawa last Friday evening from Juneau, Alaska, for an extended visit with her parents who are employed here. Both Mrs. Hunter and son are in the best of health after their trip south.

Robert Perkins, of the graduating class of '30, arrived here last Saturday from his home in Seattle to accept a position as a manual work instructor. We predict that he will prove most successful in this work, being himself especially gifted as a wood worker.

The Catholic Boys' Association entertained their friends at an enjoyable social Sunday afternoon. Special numbers were contributed by John Peltier, Earl Brown and Adeline Pelican. Delicious refreshments were served by members of the Little Flower Society. This pleasant afternoon will probably long be remembered by those present and Mr. Allen, advisor of this society, deserves much credit for the success of the occasion.

Last Friday evening the declamation contests were started, representatives of the various literary societies competing. The boys took the dramatic division and Charles Gardepi took first place, Peter Levay second and Theodore Thomas third; the girls took the humorous side of the contest and first place was awarded to Adeline Pelican, second to Rosalia Grounds and third to Florence Allman. On Saturday evening the girls had the serious side and the boys represented the humorous and the result was, girls, first place Marie La France, second Ellen Nicholson, and third went to Grace Marshall; the boys placed, Narciss Pratt first, Matthew James second and Collins Anderson third. This gave the Nonpareils 17 points, the Excelsiors 9, the Reliance 9, and the Winonas 1. The contests were both interesting and creditable and no doubt Mr. Ryan, who was in charge, was well pleased with the fine showing made.
