Since our last issue the school orchestra appeared on the Hazel Green parent-teachers' program and rendered a number of selections that were enjoyed by the large crowd present.

George P. LaVatta, placement official of the Service, paid Chemawa a visit of a few days duration last week. We are always pleased to welcome Mr. LaVatta when he appears on his official visits.

Chapel on Easter Sunday was in charge of Supt. Ryan, who read an interesting paper on what Easter means. The girls' sextette and the choir sang beautiful Easter numbers and the orchestra play a selection fitting the occasion.

Miss Luella Williams accepted transfer last week to the Phoenix Indian school in the capacity of nurse. She had served in that capacity at Chemawa during the past year or two, during which period she made many friends locally who will be pleased to hear of her success in her new field.

The girls of the Music Club entertained last Wednesday evening with a dinner at the Wigwam. It was in truth a feast—a memorable affair in every respect, highly creditable to the girls of this organization. Among others, Mr. LaVatta, Miss White and Georgie Bent were the honored guests.

About twenty friends surprised Miss White at her quarters in Kola Tepee last Thursday evening in an observance of her birthday. It proved a delightful occasion for all. During the evening delicious refreshments were served. Mr. Bent was the prime mover in arranging this memorable party.

Prices of "permanent waves" have been reduced at Ye Beauty Shoppe and students will pay $3 for this work and employes $4. This work done by Miss Funk. Her apprentices will give students permanent waves for $2. The girls taking this work are progressing nicely and some of them will soon be qualified to take the examination given by the state board.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Estep spent a few days in Chemawa resently, the guest of their daughter, Miss Josephine Estep, who is assistant music teacher at the school. Mr. Estep was for many years a prominent figure in the Indian Service, and was retired about a year ago. Mr. and Mrs. Estep were returning to their home in Willets, California, after having passed several months in Seattle and various section of Washington.

Last Friday evening the school orchestra played a concert at the Y. M. C. A. in Salem. The audience was unexpectedly large and it was necessary to carry in many extra chairs to seat the crowd before the orchestra could begin. Alice Slater appeared with the orchestra in the role of vocalist and Rudolph Masey as reader. Both were given a fine reception by those present. The work of the orchestra brought many commendable comments and altogether the evening was a memorable one. This was the tenth annual concert of our orchestra at the Salem Y. M. C. A.

A few evenings ago Miss Estep had her young piano pupils appear in recital. The affair was held in the "practice house" in the presence of a number of guests. The girls of the piano class did themselves and their teacher great credit and we are certain that if they persevere many of them can become most capable performers. At the close of the musical program a "musical guessing game" was indulged in by the class, to the interest of all. As the close of an enjoyable evening Miss Estep served delicious refreshments. This was really a splendid move in a direction that bids fair to lead to commendable achievement.
