Some steps have been taken to form a new athletic conference among the seven largest high schools in the Willamette Valley. Chemawa is a representative in this league which it is believed would result in one of the strongest conferences in the state. At a dinner meeting, March 18, the principals and coaches of the seven high schools which include Eugene, Corvallis, McMinnville, Albany, Oregon City, Salem and Chemawa, were invited. Plans were not definitely discussed because some of the principals were not present. Another meeting will be called at Chemawa April 15.
