JUDGE CAREY REVIEWS HISTORY OF NORTHWEST

Judge Carey Is A Prominent Oregon Attorney And Historian

Miss Virginia Wolf, one of the student leaders elected by the girls to act as chapel chairman, introduced the speaker, Judge Carey, from Portland, last Sunday evening. Besides interest in law Judge Carey has for his hobby, history, especially the history to the great northwest.

He gave his audience a birdseye view of the old Oregon territory. Among the things he told was the story of the American acquisition of this old Oregon territory.

It is interesting to know that Captain Gray was the first white man to sail as far north as what is now Oregon and it wasn't until two hundred years later that other daring sailors reached the northwestern coast.

President Jefferson realized the value of the great Oregon territory so he arranged for an expedition, headed by Lewis and Clark, to be sent into this Oregon territory by land. They made friends with the different tribes of Indians and were fortunate in having for their guide a Shoshone Indian, Sacajawea, who was very helpful in guiding these explorers through the great Oregon Country.

Because his time was limited Judge Carey was able to give the audience only high lights of the Northwest.

SUPT. PAUL T. JACKSON ADDRESSES SALEM CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Chemawa is still solvent despite its recent recessions and its possibilities for training Indian youth seems assured at present but it will pay Salem people who are interested in its welfare to make their interest an active one, Supt. Jackson told the Salem Chamber of Commerce at their luncheon Monday.

Mr. Jackson cited several instances and proved that there was a need for such a school in the Northwest for Indian boys and girls, who would be benefited by an industrial education as Chemawa now provides.

The Indian has native manual skill and the government is now providing education in various trades to the Indian youth unhampered by traditional curricular requirements of other high schools, Mr. Jackson said.

The program included a concrete demonstration of the Indian's ability to benefit by musical training. The school orchestra, directed by Mr. Ruthyn Turney played several numbers and vocal solos were presented by Henry SiJohn and Francis Thomas. Several girls were guests at the luncheon and were introduced.

Give to the world the best you have and the best will come back to you.

LYCEUM PROGRAM IS ENTERTAINING TO ALL

Four Act Play, "New Brooms," Is Featured

For the pleasure and benefit of the students of Chemawa, a lyceum play, "New Brooms," was held in the auditorium on Friday, November 7. It was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present. Mr. Bates, Mr. Niland, Miss Marsh, Mr. Simpson, Miss Wheeler, and Mrs. Dause were the characters in the performance.

"New Brooms," portrayed a story in which Mr. Bates was a very grouchy man with a son, Thomas, who was just the opposite. Every time Mrs. Dause, the charity woman, appeared, everyone in the audience laughed because she was such a comical person. Much to the surprise of the audience, as the play progressed, Tom and his father changed characters for Tom became grouchy and his father became pleasant.

The play as a whole was very interesting and somewhat romantic. The characters all portrayed their roles in a very entertaining manner. More programs like "New Brooms" will be of benefit to the Chemawa students who all considered the performance worthwhile.
