

VOCATIONS

PAINT SHOP

The Painters are busy painting some furniture that came from around the campus. They are also varnishing ping pong tables. Some of the boys are getting to be pretty fair artists because they paint pictures in their spare time.

ELECTRIC SHOP

In the electric shop, the students have had repair work. They now are rewiring the vocational shops. This work will take about two or three weeks.

The shop boys had to figure out how much wire and the amount of money is required for this wiring. Just two or three buildings like our vocational buildings took quite a bit of money.

BARBER SHOP

During the past few weeks the barbers have been doing their regular work, which consists of hair cutting, messaging and shampooing.

These boys are having a hard time pronouncing the "jaw breakers" that are found in the "Barber Science" which they study.

Gale Bobb took a few lessons on permanent waving. He hopes to master this before he graduates from barbering.

CARPENTER SHOP

Leslie Warrior has just completed work on a partition in the greenhouse and he deserves praise for his fine work. Leonard Bighorn is making a panel desk.

Vernon Jackson is making a table.

William Settler is busy inlaying mixed walnut, maple, and cedar chest.

AUTO SHOP

The numerous cars are being repaired for various ailments by the auto shop students. The shop is being ventilated, and heat adjustments are being made to make the shop warmer to work in this winter. New cement drive-ways are also being constructed.

LEATHER CRAFT

The boys under the instruction of Mr. DeCorah repaired close to 200 pair of shoes during the month of November.

The boys also repaired the bags used by the basketball team to carry their suits in when they go on trips.

A show case has been completed by the carpenter shop boys, so that all the articles the boys make in the shop can be seen by all who are interested.

MACHINE SHOP

Mr. Allen, with the help of Oscar Moses, Roy Pepion and Alex Shippen-tower, have been kept busy making a cat-walk for the power house.

"Bud" Archambeau and his helpers, Walker Hale and Dave Roberts, are busy making and installing brakes on the presses in the print shop.

Some of the general shop boys are making rings, hunting knives, and other small articles that can be made easily. Pepion is the main jeweler in the shop because he is always making rings and other little pins. Sigo and "Bud" Archambeau are the boys who made the flag stands for the Boy Scouts.

HOME ECONOMICS

The girls in Mrs. James's classes are very busy making attractive bags worked with yarn.

They can be used to hold letters, papers, or if you knit or crochet they are just the thing you will need.

The girls are also making dresser-scarfs which are very attractive.

Miss Davis has two of Mrs. Cronk's classes, so Mrs. Cronk will be able to give more time to supervision.

Miss Newell is teaching child care which is a very interesting subject.

The choir girls that are in Mrs. Hauser's sewing classes have been busy the past week making their costumes for the Christmas pageant.

Besides that they and all the other girls in Mrs. Hauser's classes are getting ready for Christmas by making laundry bags, pillow cases, towels and wash cloths.

Little Flower

The Little Flower Society and Catholic Youth Organization had a joint meeting last Friday evening at the Catholic church. The Catholic boys furnished the entertainment and refreshments.

The Little Flower Society met last Thursday evening, November 19, in the study hall at Winona hall. They elected officers for the following year. Florence Wolf-tail was re-elected President; Inez Bird, Vice President; Erma Chamberlain, Secretary and Treasurer; and Evelyn Jefferson, Song Leader.

Campus News

Myrtle Dupree and Goldie Aubrey were honored last Sunday with the best room in Winona hall.

Miss Davis has organized a Girl Scout troop which is divided into three groups.

Miss Lundquist's and Miss Dajnowski's counseling groups had a dinner last Friday evening in the Practice house.

Mrs. Ruth Bronson, who has charge of educational loans for Indian students, spent several days on the campus last week interviewing the seniors.

Two of Chemawa's old students, Emma Celestine and Lawrence Orton, were here on a visit two weeks ago.

On Thanksgiving day the students heartily enjoyed a big turkey dinner while the school orchestra, under Mr. Turney, played during the meal.

McNary hall has been looking very neat lately. The boys seem to take a greater interest in their rooms than before so that several rooms received honorable mention Sunday.

Miss Edna A. Gurkin, Health Supervisor from Washington D. C., arrived on the campus last week. Miss Gurkin has been visiting the classes and has been becoming acquainted with the health situation at Chemawa.

Mrs. Cornick's Serenaders journeyed to Grande Ronde Thanksgiving evening and entertained the people there with their music and songs.

Each evening, between four and five, the girls have been taking advantage of the privilege and are practicing basketball in the gym with the ever dependable Wilma Mesplie doing the refereeing.

A banquet was held in Hawley hall last Saturday night for the harvesting crew. A very nice meal was served for the 25 or 30 boys and girls who attended. Mr. Larsen gave the boys and girls a very interesting message on cooperation and what it means in a place like Chemawa. A dance was held the same evening and everyone had a happy and joyful time.

On December 9th, Chemawa's boxing team will journey to Portland and will likely return with a few scalps from their bouts with the C. Y. O. team.
