

VOCATIONS

The Painters, once again led by that energetic young person, Terry Cochran have been working steadily the past week repainting the interior of the Wigwam a varied color, mostly a light ivory.

The Senior Girls practice house, Tamunasha, is being equipped in real western style by the carpenters. Leonard Bighorn and Philip Redeagle have just installed two bunks in it.

John Cobell, another carpenter, is seeking a pair of horns to hang over the door.

The Bakery boys are keeping up with the styles and are planning to have their shop remodeled so if they should manufacture any queer looking objects called loaves of bread they are only streamlined and really edible.

The tailors have been busy the past week manufacturing basketball suits for our ALL-STAR team and they are to be complimented on their work.

All the barbers are learning to give finger waves and Clarence "Gable" Christian is specializing in permanent waves. Chester Donnelly, newest addition to the shop, is rapidly improving in his ability to clip hair.

Joe Eneas and helper, Henry Scalpcane, say that all they can see in their shop, is shoes, shoes, shoes, shoes, and they all need repairing so they'll be busy for some time to come.

The Electricians have just completed a man-sized job of installing 30 electric meters in the homes of the employees. The "Plier Twins" Adam Bearcub and Herman Redelk, have been employed the last week rewiring the Wigwam.

P. Bell has just completed the task of administrating anti-freeze to all the government cars.

Raymond Track has been tool-boy and all-around handy man in the auto shop and has proven to be a very efficient clerk.

The Senior Commercial group have taken great steps towards being competent stenographers. They are studying the various forms of requisitions and last week each filled one out for goods used in the commercial department.

The Senior girls having completed their layettes (baby clothes) are starting embroidery and designing bed spreads. Girls, girls, what next!

The Sophomore girls have been busy studying color harmony and should turn out some very nice dresses.

Four girls have completed their print dresses.

The Family Relationships class under the supervision of Mrs. Cronk have been spending considerable time in the discussion of etiquette in the home and out side of the home and the essentials that go towards having a happy home-life. They also have finished figuring out a forty dollar budget. After the completion of the budgets some of the girls were certain they could manage on forty dollars or even less—if they should have to. But some were positive that they couldn't. That it was impossible to manage on so small a sum.

Tamunasha, which means "Ideal Home", was the name suggested for the Home Economics cottage. The seniors rewarded a box of candy to LeRoy Wilder as a reward for winning the contest

HIGH HONOR ROLL FOR FIRST QUARTER

(Those with averages of A)

Zena Hogsed Senior, Marjorie Gleason Junior, and Chester Donnelly, Vocational special.

HONOR ROLL

(Those with highest averages in their classes)

12th Grade: Margaret Arcasa, Agnes Hall, Marjorie Wynne, Matilda Socula, Raymond Track, Preston Bell, Vernon Jackson, and Lovey Jackson.

11th Grade: Dorothy Hall, Ardis Spanish, Verna Riggs, Mary Jane LaRoque, Elias Quaempts, Donald Thiele, and Jay Heddrick.

10th Grade: Arlene Bingham, Carol Severson, Elsie Contraro, Ella Bellinger, Stephen Hall, Manford Weeks and Francis Berger.

9th Grade: Irene Stofiel, Margaret Skahan, Marjorie Skahan, Rose Morgeau Lavina Frye, Delbert Olney, Alvin Bobb, and Tony Shoulderblade

LOCAL NEWS

Homer L. Morrison, superintendent at large from the State of Washington, was here on business November 12.

H. D. Clullaugh, credit agent for the Indian Cooperative of Spokane, was a recent visitor on the campus.

Misses Margaret and Gladys Thomas left for their home in Browning, Montana, December 2nd, to attend the funeral services of their brother, Howard.

Mr. Kally, traveling auditor for the CCC-ID, was here officially last week.

Father Fitzgerald and O. J. Bryne, missionaries from the Desmet Mission, visited the campus while on their way to Sheridan, Oregon.

Superintendent P. T. Jackson held a tribal council meeting with the Indians from Siletz here on November 14.

Recently, letters were distributed to the students postmarked Washington, D. C. These special letters were from General-Post-Office-Master, Mr. James Farley.

The letters expressed the appreciation of the welcome he received from the students in Chemawa, during his brief visit.

On the evening of December 2, Mr. Larsen lectured to the girls of Winona Hall at a special assembly called after study hour. The topics of his talk was Good Sportsmanship and Leadership among the girls. He dwelt on such items of interest as; holiday attitude, friendship loyalty and courtesy.

Cramton Hall was tastefully decorated for the students Thanksgiving dinner. There was an abundance of flowers, ferns, and a large variety of vegetables and fruits used for decorating. The school orchestra played several numbers and an air of festivity pervaded throughout the dinner.

On November 29, the girls' sepetett, with Mrs. Turny, entertained the Englewood Club at the Englewood grade school. The interesting numbers on the program were talks by Supt. Paul T. Jackson on the school and the fine qualities an Indian possessed. Another talk by Mr. Larsen presented the history of Chemawa.