Bishop Bruce Baxter Speaks on Success

On October 27th, during chapel in the auditorium, Bishop Bruce Baxter gave a very splendid talk on "Success is Where You Find It," which was very interesting and educational. All who attended chapel enjoyed his talk, and learned a motto which could well be applied at Chemawa, "Enter to learn; Depart to serve."

After the program in the auditorium, the Senior class held a reception for Bishop Baxter in Winona hall. Guests included Bishop and Mrs. Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Hull, all of Salem; Supt. and Mrs. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Larsen, Mr. and Mrs. James, the Misses Selma and Orva Hoffmann, Dr. Faxon, Mrs. Turney, and many others.

Refreshments were served, and a brief program was presented. The program included an Indian song by the Girls' Quintette; an Indian Legend by Marjorie Skahan; the song, "Home on the Range," by the Senior boys, and the song "Sierra Sue" by the Senior girls. The evening ended by the entire group singing, "God Bless America."

Naturalist Entertains Students in Auditorium

Mr. Guy C. Caldwell provided a very interesting and educational program at the auditorium on Wednesday morning, October 30. He gave a lecture on the wild birds and animals in the Rocky Mountain National Park; as well as various other places in the United States. His imitation of many different birds were excellent, as were his pictures of life in the Rocky Mountains, which were very beautiful and inspiring.

Mr. Caldwell told of some of his exciting adventures in the outdoors. He also whistled several songs, and accompanied himself with a banjo.

Hobby Clubs are Organized

Friday, November 1, was the date of the first business sessions of the Hobby Clubs which organized. Many students took interest in these clubs.

Mr. Showalter and Mr. Rickard are the sponsors of the Bicycling Club, which met in the Library, and elected Juanita Pablo, girls' chairman, and Frank Backbone as boys' chairman. A constitution was to be drawn later, and November 16th was the date set for their first bicycling.

The Photography Club met with Mr. Mackie in the Y-Room and Mr. Mackie told the members the first steps in developing pictures, which was very interesting.

Mr. Mason, as sponsor of the Woodcraft Club, met with his group at the carpenter shop. The group expects to have more members by the next meeting, and will then elect their officers.

The Girls Hiking Club met with Mrs. Cronk and Miss Selma Hoffmann, and divided the club into two groups. Lila Boyd was appointed temporary chairman of one group, and Mylie Allman for the other.

The Rollerskating Club met with Mr. Wilder and elected Stanley Wilder as chairman. The members expect to make rules for their club before the next session.

Social Science Classes Sponsor Presidential Election

The Social Science classes sponsored a registration and voting system similar to the usual procedure of general elections.

The secretaries of the Home Rooms acted as official registrars, and students fifteen years or older registered with their own Home Room registrar on October 31, and November 1.

The Home Rooms were chosen the Home Precincts required on the registration cards. The registrars listed their registrants of their Home Room alphabetically, and registered students went to polls and voted secretly by ballot at the high school building on November 5.

Results of the voting proved the majority of students in favor of the Democratic ticket.

'Elephantiasis of the Occipital Lobe'

That's just another name for "swelled head." It was used by KNUTE ROCKNE when talking to his football players. He said it was a most dangerous malady, rendering the victim practically useless as a football player until he was cured. The serum treatment used by ROCKNE consisted of the ridicule of his teammates, the student body and the boy's best girl. ROCKNE was always suspicious of the player who formed the habit of looking into the grandstand.—SHINING LINES
