Adeline Bazil has returned to school after a few day's absence to Tacoma, Washington.

Nema Hogsed invited three students to her home for the Thanksgiving week-end. Those invited were Thelma Shane, Sophie Thadie, and Helen Desautel.

On November 22, the Sophomores, Juniors, and Specials spent their playnight enjoying Folk Dances. Among the favorite dances were the Virginia Reel, Square Dance, and "Bouncing Along in the Old Brass Wagon."

An Armsitice Day program was given in the auditorium on November 11th, in charge of the Council. After the flag salute, and the singing of "God Bless America," Mr. Wallace Worton, of Salem, gave the students a very interesting talk.

The girls in the Senior Foods class prepared and served a very tempting Thanksgiving dinner on November 14th. They served escalloped chicken, and all the trimmings. The tables were decorated with red and white chrysanthemums and candles. Each unit invited a guest. The guests included Miss White, Frank Backbone, Arthur Van Pelt, Wilfred Teton, and Stanley Wilder.

Thanksgiving Day

Thanksgiving Day at Chemawa found every student thankful that he had the opportunity to attend this school. The day was a very perfect one, and the air crisp and cool.

The day began with a late breakfast. Church services were held for the Protestants immediately after breakfast. There were games in the gym for the smaller boys and girls. Dinner was served at one o'clock, and each student heartily enjoyed a traditional Thanksgiving dinner—turkey and all the trimmings. The orchestra entertained during the dinner hour with very splendid selections.

At two-thirty, the older boys and girls enjoyed a dance in the gym until four. After a little rest, supper was served at 5:30 and the rest of the evening was spent in the various dormitories. At Winona hall, the girls practiced for an Amateur hour.

In this issue, the student body wishes to express its thanks to all those who made Thanksgiving Day so much more enjoyable for all.

Chapel Program

Dr. P. O. Riley of Salem gave the students a splendid lecture on "Liberty" at chapel, Sunday evening, November 17. He spoke as an experienced man, telling the great difference between foreign policies and American policies concerning liberty. He also gave the students a viewpoint of "Old Glory."

Following chapel, the Juniors held a reception at Winona hall which was very entertaining. Many employees and class members attended the reception. After refreshments, an enjoyable program was presented. George Quintasket gave a reading, Kathryn Jones sang an Indian song, and Lawrence Alby played a saxophone solo.

Marie Mount is "all smiles" lately, and who wouldn't be, making a "comeback"? Maybe Rosebud is happy too!
