

Chemawa American

A Publication Devoted to the Progress of Indian Education

VOLUME XXXXI

CHEMAWA, OREGON, FEBRUARY 7, 1941

NUMBER SIX

Faculty Amazed by 4-H Clubbers' Practical Demonstrations

Isaac Lee, Lewis Napier, and Paul Arquette are all set up in poultry business now. Their poultry house is completed-roosts, nests, feeders, drinking fountains, feed rooms, and everything. On January 24, they secured their 50 white leg-horn hens and set them up in business in their new home. The boys will be kept pretty busy now, feeding and caring for their hens, gathering and selling eggs, and keeping their 4-H Club records up to date. This is a very interesting and active club, and Isaac, Carl, and Calvin are fine boys. Raymond Dutoit, their leader, is doing a fine job with this club.

4-H DAIRY CLUB

The preparedness program of this dairy club is running at full speed now. The cow barn is rapidly taking on form, and it will soon be ready to house Ted Jake, Alfred McCoy, and Chuck Lawrence's cows. Other boys are on the waiting list for membership in this club and will be admitted as soon as provisions can be made.

4-H. CLUB DEMONSTRATION WORK

On Jan. 18, twenty employees of the Chemawa Indian School went in a body to the swine houses where they witnessed a demonstration in treating pigs for worm eradication. This demonstration was put on by Elmer Benton, Vincent Adolph, and Raymond Tissidimit. Though this was the boys' first public demonstration, their skill and efficiency was outstanding. By their work it was plain to see that Indian boys are quick to grasp practical ideas and keenly enjoy the opportunity to show others worthwhile practices. Questions were put to them by employees, and out of the many that were asked they missed only two, which is pretty good for the boys.

From the swine demonstration, the employee group and boys went to the dairy barns, where 4-H Clubbers, Ted Jake, Alfred McCoy, and Chuck Lawrence demonstrated the judging of dairy cows under the direction of Lawrence Thomas, their leader. A class of four cows were placed by the boys and their reasons for their placements were given. All of the employees present were also handed a placement card and

[Continued on page 7]

4-H Clubbers Judging Dairy Cattle

Salem Civic Players Entertain Faculty and Students

On January 26, the Salem Civic Players presented a three act comedy, "Room Thirteen-Eleven," which kept the auditorium in gales of laughter. The play was an unusual, but interesting program. Following the play, a reception was held in the Winona hall reception room for the Salem Civic Players, by the sophomore class. After the refreshments were served, the guests enjoyed a short program, which included a song by a group of sophomore girls, George Comenote and his guitar, an Indian legend by Cecelia Sohapp, and a piano solo by Tony Skahan.

Former Supt., Oscar H. Lipps, Chapel Speaker

The chapel service on February 2, was interesting. Following the flag salute, the orchestra played a selection and the entire assembly sang "The Star-Spangled Banner." This was followed by the choir singing, "Come To Me," by Miller. Mr. Kunkel's band favored the audience with an overture, a serenade and a march, which was splendid. Mr. Oscar H. Lipps of Salem was the speaker. Mr. Lipps is a former superintendent of Chemawa, and was very welcome. He gave a splendid talk on "The Sinews of Success," which was very educational.

The All-Stars broke their losing streak in the City-Y League by downing the Paper-Makers to the tune of 44 to 34 on Feb. 6. The Paper-Makers were unable to check the Indians' fast break. The whole team worked smoothly. Art Van Pelt took scoring honors for the Indians by reaming hemp for a total of 17 points.