

From the Vocational Departments

BARBER SHOP: The barbers have been keepin up with the haircutting and in spare moments they study the nerves of the face and scalp. Woundedeye, Comenote, Adrian, Finley, and Beaudry are all doing excellent work.

CARPENTRY: Halfmoon and Vic Williams made new shelves for the storeroom in Hawley hall. Whitford reshingled Mr. Mason's woodshed. Grant made two screens for Brewer hall. Frankie, Alby, and Champine made typing tables. Jake rebuilt shelves for the storeroom in the kitchen. Douthit made a large cedar chest.

AUTO SHOP: "Shorty" fixed the engine of the NYA Ford pick-up. Skahan put in new springs on the "pig pick-up." "Muscles" Wilder polished off his career by shining government cars and fixing coach Bennetts car. "Good ole" Walt has tuned up the motor of the W.P.A. truck. Brown is teaching brother Roswell to drive.

PAINT SHOP: "Rube" and foreman Charles did an excellent job of repapering the new practice cottage and painted the interior with enamel. A bed from the hospital was painted and a number of glass windows on the campus were repaired.

MACHINE SHOP: Desautel and Brewer are making and welding together "hose-winder-uppers" for the campus fire hose. Both divisions made "weeders" for the farmers. Foreman Alexander feels he must retire soon.

BAKERY: Daily and week-end production have kept the bakers busy. Rice made 75 cupcakes and 150 hot dogs for the YWCA picnic. Beaudry made the pastry for the cobblers. Gardipee has mixed bread dough this week. Edden and "Slo Joe" have been aiding the boys with their work.

ELECTRIC SHOP: The electricians have replaced an electric pole and changed the wires leading into the pump house. McCoy is estimating the installing of study lamps in McNary hall and also drawing the blue prints. Chester Paul is preparing blue prints for the barn and chicken house.

SHOE SHOP: Lately the "cobblers" have been working on new projects, making wooden shoes, sandals, and Indian moccasins for students. Besides this, they are keeping up with their regular shoe repairing.

TAILOR SHOP: The tailors miss their instructor, Mr. James, but they are endeavoring to follow out his best wishes to take the responsibilities of which he feels they are capable. The tailors wish him a speedy recovery.

WOODWORKING SHOP: These boys have been studying the common types of bolts, files, and wood joints. Several boys made bird houses. H. Davis made a chicken feeder. Rabbit hatch, feeders, a chicken brooder house, and eight new hurdlers were made by the group.

ARTS AND CRAFTS: During the last quarter the Sophomore girls have greatly improved their class room by making attractive curtains, draperies, and chair-back covers of Indian colors-- wine, blue, green, yellow, and brown. They covered the tables with green oil-cloth, and mounted pictures of Indian symbols and their meanings on the walls. The girls have done bead work, and made little lapel novelties of moccasins, and turtles, which are attractive. They are now doing cross-stitch and embroidery work, on linen, and have their choice of making scarfs, pillow-tops, purses, luncheon sets, and guest towels. Cornelia Allman, Mary Farwell, and Frances Lane are the girls who are ahead in the class.

PRODUCTIVE SEWING: The 9-C class are crocheting, knitting, and mending. Brewer Hall clothing as their projects. They are crocheting pot holders, dish clothes, and table covers. Esther Matt is making good progress on a rug. Georgia Nanamkin is knitting a pair of heeless anklets, and is doing good work.

FOODS: In our tenth grade food class we have been making meat substitute dishes for our luncheons. We have planned a medium luncheon menu that we are going to prepare and serve. We have also prepared simple puddings for desserts.

The 9-1C girls have learned to cook simple breakfast foods, starting with dried fruits, and then cerals, and later hot cakes. After learning to prepare these foods, they had the opportunity to cook and serve a complete breakfast. They have now begun a unit on breakfast breads, and Wilda Williams and Georgia Nanamkin have made the best baking powder biscuits. Several of the class made doughnuts, and also candy. The girls all hope to be as good cooks as the Seniors and Juniors are, some day.

The 11-A Production Sewing class have been mending little boys' coveralls and making aprons.

In their Foods class the girls have been studying and practicing meat cookery and luncheon desserts. On Thursday, April 10, the girls prepared and served refreshments to the members of the cast from Hazel Green who presented the play "Here Comes Charley"
