P. W. Danielson Chemawa Visiter

P. W. Danielson, Assistant Director of Indian Education from Washington D. C., spent a few days here on the campus. This was his first official visit here. The school served a dinner honoring him Thursday. Special guests at the dinner were Miss Katherine Mahn, Employment Worker, and Dr. Richards, Director of Trachoma Activities in the Indian Service, from Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Mr. Danielson visited the shops, the school farm, and the classes and had several conferences with the personnel.

Miss Sally Jefferies, another visitor from Washington D. C., arrived here March 24. She is Director of Nurses in the Indian Service.

Senior Plays Presented

On Saturday evening, March 21, the all-senior dramatics class donned their costumes and make-up for the second time this year and presented two more plays, "Jade" and "Sugar and Spice," in our school auditorium.

With the setting in San Francisco's Chinatown, the first play, "Jade" provided many "Oh's and Ah's" as Moon Sen, a poet and dealer in curios, Harold Joseph, met his enemy, Li Chang, a rich collector of stones, Ben Bearchum, who coveted Moon Sen's piece of jade but couldn't get it. The other characters who pleased the spectators were: Felice, an American teacher in the Chinese Mission, Anna Miles, who finally received the piece of jade as a gift from Moon Sen; Lao Yung, a young Chinese girl, Edith Sisson, who longed to go to the Mission School and finally got her wish granted; and Hop Wing, a servant of Moon Sen, Paul La Roque, who came to the rescue and saved Moon Sen's life as Li Chang was about to kill him.

The second play, "Sugar and Spice," was centered around Susan Harling, Cecilia Charley, a young girl who had recently returned from Paris, and had made quite an impression on her hostess, Jane Jones, June Ford. Other outstanding characters were: Chump Edwards, a neighbor boy of sixteen, Wilford Teton, who "danced divinely" according to "Suzanne," but "just went round and round" according to Jane; Mrs. Jones, Jane's mother, Vyola Redelk, who promised Chump a horn that "sounded like a hen with a fit" for his car if he'd escort Suzanne to the Country Club dance; and Mr. Jones, Jane's father, Floyd Tyler.

Again many compliments have been paid to the seniors by everyone who attended the plays.

Since these last two plays have been given, the dramatics class is proud to state that everyone in the class has taken part in a play at least once.

Sandy High School Presents Program

The Sandy high School musical organizations presented a very fine program in our auditorium on Sunday, March 15.

Starting the program with a bang, the band played our National Anthem. From then on the audience thrilled to the splendid music of both band and vocal music. "Praise God" was sung in unison by the Glee Club, directly followed by the band playing a march entitled "The Marines." Romberg's "Will You Remember" was sung by the three part chorus. The band then played "Ciribiribin," a waltz, and the overture, "Dauntless." The last number the Glee Club sang was "Evening Prayer." The band closed the program by playing the march "Caisson Song."

Our Glee Club were hosts to Sandy high school band and Glee Club at the reception held immediately after the chapel program. The large crowd of musically talented students and instructors enjoyed meeting many new friends. Visiting and chatting went on smoothly until refreshments were served.

After the cookies and punch were daintily devoured, Mr. Scheinost presented a short program. Faye Havard sang "Ho! Mr. Piper." Stanley Williams told a humorous Indian Legend. Our Glee Club sang "Good News" and "Steal Away." Many of our students have expressed the opinion that the program and reception held Sunday with the Sandy High school musical organizations as honored guests was the best we've had this year. All Chemawa appreciated the splended program and are eagerly awaiting the day when Chemawa's Glee Club will present a program at Sandy.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Mareau and Mrs. Iris Lee Matheson of Tacoma, Washington, were visitors on March 14. All are former students.
