

The Chemawa American

Published every third Friday during the school year by the Chemawa Indian School. Address all communications to the CHEMAWA AMERICAN, Chemawa, Oregon.

Published in accordance with the Interior Department appropriation Act, 1940, approved May 10, 1939.

Subscription 50 cents a year.

PAUL T. JACKSON

Superintendent

ROBERT THOMAS

Printer

MRS. VIRGINIA WEIGEL

Journalism Instructor

Editorial

The only way the New Year was celebrated at Chemawa was by a dance on New Years Eve, which students and faculty members attended.

Although in the previous years a holiday was set aside for the entire nation, at present, as everybody can plainly see, there is no time to be taking a day off when others, especially those at the front, are at work every day and night. It is better to take whatever comes along, and do it to the best of our ability, and finish what work there is.

Therefore, students cheerfully attended their regular classes on New Years' day, as well as on any other day, although they were happy about the dance.

1943 is a New Year and another year to the entire nation. Here at Chemawa, the Happy Home, it is for all to keep up school morale.

To those Chemawa students in the armed forces; may they all come home "when the lights go on again all over the world.

—Cecelia Sohapp

Since we are now in war, there has been a great demand for well-educated people to do certain specialized jobs. In order that these positions be filled, the students that are in school today are asked to get all they can out of school. This is a big subject to undertake, but we the students should, while we have the chance, develop our knowledge to working to perfection. When we go to classes, we should be prepared to get right down to business and try to do the work to the best of our ability. If we finish before the others, don't try to see how much noise we can make, but give the others a chance to do their share of the work.

It has been repeated by former students who are now employed at different jobs, "If I only had studied this or that subject harder, I would have a better job, better pay."

So in order that we may not be saying the same, STUDY HARDER, get down to business right away, try to reach the highest goal possible.—Julia Berys

"Orchids to You"

The staff and some readers feel that the girls who are studying quantity cooking, helping so faithfully at the dining hall and club with the preparation of meals, deserve our appreciation. So, Orchids to You: Anita Grunlose, Bonnell St. Goddard, Mae Aubrey, Mary Alice Ereaux, Lillian Frye, Yvonne Ghangraw, Cleo Picard, Anna Wilson, and Laura Courville.

And Orchids to You: Mr. Clingenpeel, Mr. Sanders, and Mr. Spalding for spending a Saturday night and part of Sunday skinning elk and getting it ready for the dining hall.

Miss Margaret Harris, Rosemary Aubrey, Audrey O'Conner, for the story hours at McBride and Brewer halls each week. Miss Harris, assisted by Audrey and Rosemary, has told the following stories; "Getting the Christmas Tree," "The Trolley Car Prince," "The Sugar Plum Tree," "Guide Posts" (new year), "The Boy Who Saw Santa Claus," and "Why the Chimes Rang."

We elect for distinction today the following Sophomores, who were chosen by their class members and approved by the faculty, as the outstanding citizens in their class; Anita Grunlose and William Mount.

Any White Elephants?

The Seniors will be asking employees and students for articles they have which they never use and would like to donate for the Senior Carnival. Vases, bottles of perfume, or any other "white elephant" will be acceptable.