

From the Shops and Classes

LAUNDRY: The laundry, under the supervision of the new laundress, Mrs. Phares, is going along very well. The girls show great effort and cooperation in helping Mrs. Phares in work which is new to her.

BAKERY: The boys in the bakery are now learning to make biscuits and are doing very well.

CARPENTER SHOP: The carpenter shop boys were praised for the very fine basket cabinet they made. This cabinet will hold Mrs. Turney's splendid collection of baskets which she has offered to the school. The collection will be on display in the high school building.

Donner Ellsworth and Clifford Arthur are now making new doors for the horse barn. C. Picard is remodeling the screens at Mr. Metzger's residence. Walter Champine is working on a table for the hospital and Harland Murphy made cages for Miss Scott's experimental rats. Ernest Whitford is making a record-finding case for Mr. Cleeks office.

SHOE SHOP: George Walters has been swamped for the past three weeks with shoes from the various buildings. Frank Weaskus, Floyd Wilson, Ed Hobucket, Fred Anderson, and Robert Wesley come up at 10:30 to assist George. He is doing a splendid job under the circumstances.

Due to the death of our instructor, Mr. Pollock, March 13, George will have charge of the shoe shop until a new instructor can be engaged.

KITCHEN: Four of the grade school boys have been coming over to peel spuds, because the spud peeler is out of order. They have been here every morning. They are Paul Gua, David Joseph, Larry James, and Ernest Brooks,

HOME ECONOMICS: Mrs. James says one of the most interesting classes she has is the mending day, when the 9th and 10th grade girls bring their clothes to sewing class for renovating. Mrs. James allows one day each week for this activity. She says the girls show a great deal of ability and interest in sewing on buttons, mending, remodelling, and sponging and pressing.

GRADE SCHOOL: Phillip Grunlose of the First Grade sent in a drawing to the "My Weekly Reader", published in Columbus, Ohio. The first grade received the following letter.

Dear Girls and Boys:

Bibs is still purring with joy over the many fine drawings that were sent in. Bibs sat and looked and looked at the drawings. Finally Bibs had to have some help in selecting the winners, your drawing was so good that Bibs wants your class to have one of his pictures, too.

Bibs and Mr. Evans are happy to send your class, as a runner-up prize, an original drawing.

We hope you will like it.

Sincerely,

Rosalie F. Greenwood
Editor, My Weekly
Reader No. 1.

From The Freshman Class

I like a boy within the age of 18 and 19 and not that childish age of 16 or 17. Some boys, but very few, are grown-up and mannerly at that age, but most of them are mean and ornery and like to push you around and tease, and, do everything that makes you angry.

I don't like a boy who likes to "lollygag" all the time he is with you and the type that gets mad if you don't let him put his arm around you in a movie or where art thou.

I also admire a boy who participates in all sports, if he is able. I don't really care much for the boy who has to be coaxed into everything he does. That is just childish too.

I like a boy, that can dance too, but if he can't, well, it's all right. We weren't all born to dance.

So, he doesn't have to be good-looking or a six-footer as long as he is nice and mannerly, and talkative at times.

Have You Good Manners

Good manners at band concerts

- 1—Sit or stand quietly at a distance from the band.
- 2—Give your attention to the music.
- 3—Applaud at the conclusion of each number.

The band concerts are given for our pleasure and we can show our appreciation by our good attention. Talking, laughing, playing, and crowding about the musicians at a concert only show our bad manners and poor upbringing. Let's all show our cooperation and appreciation by our good manners.

Public Nuisance! . . .

Public Nuisance No. 2:

Boys and girls, it's a crime to see a new book on the floor or to tear it purposely, just because it's not yours. Others enjoy reading a book with all of its pages. So, let's be careful of our books.
