

Seniors Take Excursion

One beautiful spring day the senior class and their sponsor, Miss Wehunt, boarded the school bus and went on an exploring trip to Salem.

The first stop was the School for the Deaf. The first grade were doing some interesting things, learning to speak and to read. Older students were doing lip-reading and reciting. There were shops, vocational, and institutional work very much like our own.

Next we stopped at the School for the Blind. Students and teachers demonstrated for us the reading and writing of Braille. It was amazing to us to see totally blind people walking confidently through the halls, and some were studying the piano.

Honoring Mrs. Nopps' birthday on April 19th a very nice, lovely party was given by our hospital.

The girls who helped at the hospital during the flu epidemic, were invited with their chosen escorts.

Everyone had a wonderful time dancing to the music of the "McNary Jazzhounds," and of course the Nickleodeon was giving its best.

Food? The cake was the best, and the sandwiches and coffee, ummm!!

Spring Carnival

On March 17, Chemawa had a gala event, the Spring Carnival. This was put on to raise money for the purchase of a new curtain for the Auditorium and a new screen for our shows.

There were many amusements put probably the most popular one was the Bingo game, not forgetting the refreshment booths which did continuous business.

When summing up the total receipts minus expenses, we find we have enough for a curtain and a screen, thanks to the students who responded so well for a good cause.

Student Teacher Training Class

Some of the junior and senior girls had the opportunity to observe methods of teaching and to do some practice teaching at the grade school during the second semester. The training was a four-week period, and the morning was used for observation and teaching. The grade school teachers supervised these students. Girls who had this training are: Helen Hayes, Jean Scott, Leola Suppah, Cecelia Paul, Lillie Frye, Pauline Wilkinson, Virginia Wilkinson, and Daisy Pete.

The seniors wish to thank the print shop for the lovely commencement announcements made for them. The juniors wish to thank the boys for the very attractive invitations they made for the Junior Prom.

Mrs. Brannon Arrives

Mrs. Nell V. Brannon, Chemawa's new principal, assumed her duties here on March 28. She has been principal at Santa Fe Indian School for eight years and has had considerable experience as principal in public schools.

Mrs. Brannon was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Morrissey, who will live with her, and her brother, Mr. William T. Morrissey. The students and employees of Chemawa extend a most cordial welcome to Mrs. Brannon and her family.

Plays

All of the graduating seniors and several other students staged a rollicking Senior Play "Johnny Grows up" on April 24, directed by Miss Wehunt.

During April each of the two dramatic clubs gave a group of one-act plays and some specialty numbers. One group gave "Elmer" and "Cinderella Up-to-Date" and a fortune-telling stunt. The other presented "Orville's Big Date" and "Francis vs Francis" and some musical selections by a negro student from the Salem School for the Blind.

Spanish Club Serenade

On the evening of March 30, Miss Page's Spanish Club went serenading around the campus. They first sang for Winona Hall and then they went on to Brewer Hall, McNary, Kola Tepee, and the Teachers Cottage. Some of the songs were: Cielito Lindo, Partida, El Rancho Grande, La Cucuracha, and Los Galondrinos. Leslie Bill and Dondie L. Geary played their guitars as accompaniment.

Splash! Splash! The swimming pool of the Y.M. C.A. in Salem was the scene of Hi-Y. and Girl Reserves annual splash party on the evening of April 12.

Swimming was enjoyed from seven to nine o'clock. Some enjoyed table games. Then came the call to lunch and all enjoyed appetizing refreshments of weiners, buns, and coffee.

To Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox our thanks for making the party possible.

The Ag. boys staged a stock-judging contest on April 24 for which awards are made at Jolly-up. Mr. Henry Abell, the instructor, served a hotcake feed in his classroom following the judging.

Gilbert Mathews, now of Seattle, was a visitor on our campus April 25.

Robair Thomas, a former instructor and printer, was a visitor from Portland. The boys had a long talk with him.
