

ELEVENTH GRADE. Top row, left to right, Donna Frye, George Plummer, Robert Placid, Helen George, Agnes Tahkeal. Third row, Joan Foster, Clara Edmonds, Clarice McCovey, Don Rambeau, Joe Felsman. Second row, Mr. Johannaber, Georgianna Young, Janice Rambeau, Iris Johnley, Marthella Stahi, Esther Skahan, William McDonald. First row, June Lewis, Eulalia Minthorn, Maebelle Edwards, Wanita Kiona, Wallace Foster, Loretta Hawk, Jeannette Blake, Joyce James.

JUNIORS

The Junior class organized last fall with Don Rambeau, president; Janice Rambeau, vice-president; and Georgianna Young, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Noel and Miss Henry were elected as advisers.

In November, during Armistice week, we gave a patriotic program with a veteran of World War II as guest speaker. A number of World War I songs were sung by the Junior girls and a few other individual numbers were given. The program was a success and enjoyed by all.

During the year we sold pop at the basketball games and dances, and also Christmas cards to make money for the Junior-Senior Prom.

In January, Mrs. Cronk and Mr. Johannaber succeeded Mr. Noel and Miss Henry as sponsors of the class.

The Junior-Senior Prom was given on the night of March 29. The Spanish-Mexican idea was carried out in the decorations. The gym looked beautiful with the decorations put up under the direction of Mrs. Cronk.

Robert Placid, Don Rambeau, Joe Felsman and George Plummer helped to uphold the school colors on the various athletic teams.

George Plummer copped the honors as best student and William McDonald as best citizen.

SENIOR DANCE A HUGE SUCCESS

The final school dance of the year, given in honor of the seniors, was Friday evening, May 6, in the gymnasium. The decorations from the Junior-Senior Prom were still up, so the gym looked beautiful. The Wolfer orchestra from Salem furnished the music for the occasion. The irony of it was that none of the Seniors were there due to engine trouble which resulted in their arriving on the campus about two hours after the dance was history. In spite of this incident, which saddened the seniors, everyone reported a fine time.