

SHOP TALK

PLUMBING SHOP

The new class in sheet metal started with the beginning of the second semester. There are six boys enrolled in the class namely: Archie Foster, James Whipple, Leonard Quenelle, Arther Bob, Casmir Andrew and Melvin Edmo.

Arthur Hickox is now enrolled in the plumbing class.

The class organized and elected Archie Foster as shop foreman and Casmir Andrew reporter.

We are finishing our first project which is a fudge tray, it has hemmed edges and soldered seams.

We are learning all about different kinds of tools used in sheet metal work. We also studied about different kinds of sheet metal.—Casmir Andrew, Reporter.

PRINT SHOP

There are eighteen students from the seventh, eighth, ninth, and senior classes enrolled in the printing classes the second semester.

The seventh and eight graders are doing practice jobs in various styles of composition.

Jimmy Switzler, a freshman, did a nice make up job on the last number of the Chemawa American.

George Umtuch, a freshman, is busy making two hundred check books. This is a big deal as it includes composition, make up, stock cutting, perforating, press and bindery work. These are for the Navajo program.

The senior students, Anna Mae Sharp, and your reporter have been practicing platen press feeding.—Nancy Samuels, Reporter.

ELECTRIC SHOP

If you pass the electric shop you will see seven very busy boys. William Edmo will be working on his Quiz boards, which are to be used in the other vocational shops. William Wyman working on his electric dart games which will be available for our next school carnival. Mitchel Running Crane is making electric door bell chimes. Justin Pinkham,

KITCHEN-DINING HALL ACTIVITIES

The kitchen and dining hall play an important part in the lives of the students at Chemawa. Since there are so many to feed, a schedule is made for cooking and serving the food and for cleaning after meals.

Mr. Fournier, head of the kitchen department, instructs the 11 and 10A girls in quantity cooking. It takes a great deal of food to feed 610 students three times a day, and the kitchen helpers learn the amount of food needed. This training may be of value to these girls later on. The girls attend kitchen classes on alternate days.

The dining hall is kept clean and tidy by the Winona hall girls. A detail is assigned to clean after each meal. Mrs. Faulkner, dining hall matron, directs and checks the work.

The Navajo boys take care of the dish room. Their task is to wash all trays, silverware, cups, etc. used by the students.

OUR PROGRAM

Every grade has to act out a program. We had ours on December 6th. I was a doctor in one of the plays. Some girls were nurses. My patient was a little boy. He had a broken leg. I had to fix it for him. He was brought in on a stretcher.

When I looked up there were a lot of people looking at me.—Austin Phillips, 4th grade.

JUNIORS, SENIORS TAKE TESTS

Members of the Junior and Senior classes are very busy these days going to Salem where they are taking the General Aptitude Tests at the State Employment Testing Bureau.

Alfred Hawk and Owens Yallup doing the maintenance and appliance work and our radio man, Leonard Washise, (he listens to the radio all afternoon) while busy converting an R. A. 16 air craft radio receiver so that he can receive short wave code. This receiver is to be installed in the radio room.—Justin Pinkham, reporter.

CAMPUS CALLERS

Mr. W. H. Baillie and Mrs. Margaret Peper, Oregon State Employment Service, Salem.

Mr. Don M. Thomas, asst. director, Oregon State Bureau of Labor.

Miss Norma C. Runyan, supervisor of Indian education, Brigham City, Utah.

Dr. Henry Schumacher, U. S. public health service, San Francisco, California.

Mr. Bill Bessey, Oregon state public health service, Portland Oregon.

Mr. Wilfred Frazier, property and supplies, Portland, Oregon.

Mr. H. C. Peterson, deputy, records, Seattle, Washington

Mr. O. P. Davis, personnel officer, Portland, Oregon.

Col. E. Morgan Pryse, area director, Portland, Oregon.

Mr. Leslie P. Towle, asst. area director, Portland, Oregon.

Mr. Harvey Wright, Oregon State director of Indian education, Salem, Oregon.

Mr. J. C. Wingate and Mr. Brant Morgan, records section, Washington, D. C.

FEBRUARY 25

The month of February contains many important days such as Washington's birthday, Lincoln's birthday and others but the one day that is most important in the lives of Chemawa students is February 25, Chemawa's birthday.

The qualifications for the Queen and members of her court as outlined by the members of the senior class are as follows:

- (1) Dependability
- (2) Friendliness
- (3) Pleasing personality
- (4) Ability to meet people
- (5) Honesty
- (6) Neatness in appearance
- (7) Loyalty to class, staff and school.
- (8) Courtesy
- (9) Average or above in scholastic rating.

Princesses are elected from the Navajo, 9th, 10th, 11th, and 12th grades. The girl receiving the highest number of votes in the 10th, 11th, or 12th grades is Queen.