

JEWELL SHARP TO SPELL
FOR CHEMAWA

Jewell Sharp won first place in the final spelldown held for Chemawa seventh and eighth grade spellers on February 17, and will take part in the district contest to be held at Keizer on March 2. Pearl Barr placed second and Mavis Tavashee third. All three girls are in the eighth grade. Mrs. Hazel Mason is their teacher.

Since January 6, the Oregon Statesman, which sponsors the spelling contest with KSLM, has published 1,000 words, - twenty each day. These words have been used as a basis for the spelling activities in the seventh and eighth grades. Two preliminary spelldowns were held to determine who were best spellers in each grade, and to acquaint pupils with procedures and accustom them to spelling before an audience.

Winners of the district contests will compete in finals to be held at Parrish Junior High School in Salem on March 24.

STUDENTS EARN DRIVING PERMITS

Five students in Chemawa's Navajo program, on February 4, passed with flying colors the written examination which entitles them to driver's instruction permits. Jane Badoni, Louise Benally, Nellie John, Chester Hoskie, and Reynolds Roanhorse averaged 97 in their test scores. These students and their instructors are to be congratulated on their high achievement.

STUDENTS GIVE BLOOD FOR FORMER SCHOOLMATE

Eighteen high school seniors and juniors went to Salem on February 4 to contribute to a blood bank for Leona Showaway, a graduate of last year. Leona has been a patient at Tacoma Indian Hospital
