

STUDENT BRIEFS

I read a good book last week. The name of it was The Lost City of the Aztecs. It is about three boys. They go on an expedition between Arizona and New Mexico. They go into a cave and discover a lost city. Dalthea Miller

Our projects in the eleven B girls' guidance class is making a bulletin board on What a Home Contributes to the Family Members. The girls cut out pictures and letters to make it attractive. They are about daily activities and rest, privacy, growing up, and social gatherings. Patsy Carlson

I don't happen to be an art expert but I never get tired of looking at the art work on the bulletin boards in our classroom. All the work that is done in Mrs. Johannaber's art classes is put up in her room for all to see. The work is all original and much of it is imaginary. It is fun to use your own imagination in thinking what the students were thinking or feeling when they did the work. Dorothy Harris

I have been in Tacoma Indian Hospital for four years. On January 20, 1954, I came back to Chemawa. I am very glad to get back to school again. This year I will try my best to learn more and more. Louise Bessie Nez.

All my classmates and I went on a trip to Salem. We went to the Bush school. We saw the operetta The Frog Prince. It was a very nice program. The boys and girls can talk loudly and clearly. We surely enjoyed the program at Salem. Lucille K. Could

We made a bulletin board on Care of Property. Marcus Luke
