

Students Enjoy Trips to Coast

OUR TRIP TO THE COAST

We saw Boiler Bay where the water splashes out of a tunnel. Then we went to Depoe Bay. We saw some boats there. We went under a bridge to cross the street. The bus driver showed us where some seals were swimming in an aquarium. We went back to the bus and went to the coast. We ate our lunch there and then we took off our shoes and played on the beach.

Joe S. Begay

We found seaweed along the shore and we found some sea shells. We roped the girls with the seaweed.

Jimmy Betoney

Some of the girls looked for sea shells, barnacles and starfish. We came back to Chemawa at 4 o'clock.

Theresa Green

The bus stopped when we were going to the ocean. A truck pushed us and then the bus started again. We had lots of fun on the beach.

A SATURDAY TRIP

We went to the coast with Mr. Oetinger. We ate lunch on the beach. It was a nice picnic and after we built the fire we went for a walk looking for agates. None of us found any.

After this fun, we went to visit a man who has a wolf and he talked to us about his experiences with the wolf. He also had some Alaskan Huskies. He told us about what races his dogs have been in and showed us some trophies he had won. His son took us for a ride on a derby-like car and hitched the dogs to it and we went for a ride on the beach. We went over sand dunes.

WE SEE THE SEA

On Halloween Day our class went to the ocean. When we came back to school we talked about what we had seen. Here are some of the things the boys and girls said:

The ocean is cool. The waves look like snow in front of a snowplow.

Sarah Yazzie

The ocean is so big and angry it made me scared.

Elaine Chavez

The waves looked like whales.

Raymond Yazzie

The ocean is like a friend. It played with me.

John James Blackhorse

The sea anemones are sticky. They move when we touch them.

Angela Bryant

The sea weed looked like snakes. The girls were scared.

Harris Benally

The seaweed looks like hose. Is hose made out of seaweed?

Lallo Joe

Some of the seaweed looked like witches brooms.

Elaine Chavez

We saw a seal. The seal looked like he had rubber boots on his feet.

John James Blackhorse

WE SAW THE OCEAN

I liked the ocean. I ran in and out of the water. It was fun.

John Salt

I was scared of the ocean at first. I ran from the waves. The waves had soap on top. They made a big noise. The waves are strong. The waves brought in some weeds that looked like rope. Some boys used them for roping.

Wilson Todacheninie

It was nice to see the ocean. I have never seen so much water. It made such a noise. I always thought that you would see many fish and bugs in the water but I did not see any. I had fun.

Faye Madison

I felt funny when I first saw the ocean. I have seen pictures of oceans in books and I have seen animals in it. That is why I did not walk into the ocean right away. It made noise and it was very cold. I saw a rainbow when the water splashed.

"THE AWESOME SERVANT"

The Junior High had an assembly for the purpose of viewing "The Awesome Servant." Our teachers first taught us some new words we would need to know to better understand the picture. We were also assigned questions to find the answers as we watched the film. This made us really understand the film. It made us think how important it is to finish high school.

NEW ARRIVALS IN SCIENCE CLASS

In our Science class we have eleven rats, two females, three males, and there are six small ones. Only one rat had babies. The other female is still too young to have babies. We feed them every day. One student has to feed them all through the week. Some students come in and see them at 4 p.m. It's fun to have some animals in our classroom. We have a snake and a horned toad, too. One time the snake ate a frog. It was interesting the way he swallowed it. He didn't chew, he just swallowed it.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM OUR EDUCATIONAL TRIPS TO OMSI AND PORTLAND ZOO

OMSI is a short way of saying "Oregon Museum and Science Institute." It is located at Portland, Oregon. All our science classes want to visit OMSI before this school year is over.

The most interesting thing that I liked was the electric eel. The eel has a body that is long and snaky. It looks like one. The eel can discharge from 500 to 800 volts.

Wilson Burbank

In the museum I saw bones of animals and a skull of an Indian. There was a huge skull of a mammoth. I wish that I could have stayed longer to get a better look at some of the other bones.

John Jorgensen

In the Planetarium, we learned more about the stars. At home I used to watch the stars almost every night during the winter. I watched the stars because I was interested in them. I am glad we learned more about them.

Carrie Roland

Was I interested in the big heart! It was as tall as the room and wide, too. The leader told us all about it and then we went inside. We heard the beating of the heart.

Edith Kaigalak

At OMSI the little chicks were very cute to hold. We saw many different kinds of eggs. The hummingbird's eggs were the smallest ones. It was the first time I ever saw really small eggs.

Elizabeth Spein

The thing that interested me most at OMSI was the plastic lady who told all about her internal body. The planetarium about the stars was interesting, too.

Rebecca Katungazuc

At the zoo I saw many animals that I have longed to see. At first I was scared.

Carrie Roland

We saw some lions. They looked very big. Lions are the king of the beasts.

John Jorgensen

The first animal I saw was a tiger. This was the first time that I had ever seen a live tiger. It was great to see the Kodiak bear. When I heard the story, it said the Kodiak is the biggest of all bears. I had thought the polar bear was bigger.

Homer Booth

I didn't know monkeys could make faces. One monkey stuck out its tongue and started nodding its head. Those monkeys were the silliest, funniest looking monkeys I ever saw. One of them was making a sandwich with slices of bread. He was piling one on the other and pounding it.

Homer Booth and Wilson Berlin

The big elephant surely made me laugh. She was moving back and forth as though she was doing the twist.

Robert Constantine

This was the first time I had ever visited a zoo. It surely was interesting to see all kinds of animals.

Virginia Linn

Mostly everyone was anxious to see Packy and Me-Too. I enjoyed mostly the zebras.
