

HARVEST TIME

The students swarm all over the trees to get as many as they can.

Forty students from the life science classes harvested 150 boxes of apples from the Chemawa orchard during the second and third weeks of school. The apples were given to the Dining Hall for use during the school year.

Mr. Wilbur Wood and Mr. William Eoff, who teach the classes, said that they gave the students the choice of picking or working in the book and most of them chose to pick. The apples are worth $5.25 a box according to Mr. Earl Douglas, Food Supervisor. This means that the first harvest added up to $587.50. The apples are being stored in the root cellar of the Dining Hall and will be used as fresh fruit for student meals.

Mr. Douglas said, "We do plan on harvesting more as they are about ready now, especially the red delicious."

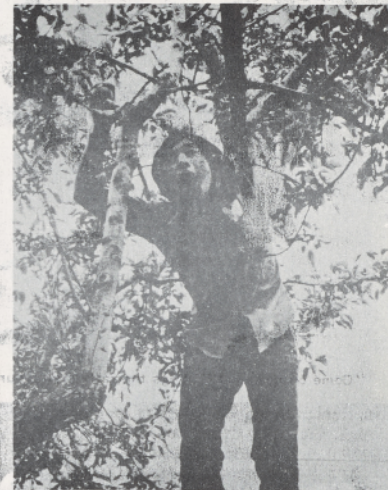

Lindsey Howtopat smiles as he starts up the ladder.

Mr. Eoff keeps things moving as the apples begin to fill the back of the truck.

"Pick faster!" Mr. Eoff orders.

Roger Mitchell plays Tarzan—or is he playing?

Photos by Roy Aishanna

Edgar Madros goes to the top to get the best.

"Gee! everybody gets ladders except me!" sighs Delbert Blodgett.

Photos by Roy Aishanna