

Modeling Class

There is a rumor going on that we have some ladies. Really we do and they have the time to see about themselves.

The girls have a modeling class running every Monday night at 7:00 p. m. in the Old Guidance Building. They can earn a credit for taking the class.

The lady behind it all is Miss Sue Ferguson from Cinderella Beauty School and Modeling. She spends time with the girls to show them a little about poise, appearance, and many other things, such as beauty tips on face, hair and skin care.

They teach modeling fashion designs for stores or whatever the fashion may be.

Thanks to Miss Ernststrom, who is helping us get established in Modeling, things are looking great and so are the ladies. This is a chance for us girls to get experience in modeling, and help us out with tips on Beauty.

New Attendance

Officer

Mr. Frank Alby, the new attendance officer, came here to Chemawa to check it out, he says.

Mr. Alby was a first sergeant in the Army National Guard for 23 years. He was stationed at Alaska Washington and Oregon.

He went to Mt. Edgecumbe boarding school in Alaska.

He's married and has one daughter, who is attending Chemawa.

Let's Get Acquainted

Brenda Thomas is a freshman from Shelton, Washington. She is a Squatin Island Indian. Before she came to Chemawa, she went to Shelton High. Brenda's interests are playing basketball. She says she came to Chemawa, because she wanted to get out of a public school.

Cary Shippentower is a Junior from White Swan, Washington. He's a Yakima Umatilla Indian. Before he came to Chemawa, he went to White Swan High. Cary's interests are playing basketball. He says he came to Chemawa because he wanted to.
