

Devereaux Leads Runners

Cross Country Outsprints Fall Sports

Interview with Marvin Devereaux
Cross Country Coach

The 1983 cross country team was a better team when complete than what their statistics show. If we were to use the conference.

At the beginning of the season Chemawa established that it was a team to be recognized and dealt with. Chemawa posted wins over Woodburn, Cascade, and Salem Academy with the first three meets. The wins child, Thomas Goggles, Leigh Malature and Mike Westly never achieved their half balance at half season. In this conference, runners have to be in shape, by running full force at the beginning of the season. Most of the other teams had run during the summer and had developed both pacing and style so that three miles was nothing to run.

Chemawa didn't have a top runner that finished in the top five; but Chemawa ran in a group and the group ran in the top 30. The Varsity consisted of Anson Red Star, Phillip WhiteBuffalo, Thomas Goggles, Todd George, Richard Bearchild, Mike Wesley, Leigh Malature, Henry Goggles, Mike Johnson and Jay Eagleman.

Jay Eagleman came to Chemawa in shape and ready to run. He was our quickest runner, finishing about 7th in conference. Jay, however, never finished the season because of injury to his knee.

Phillip WhiteBuffalo and Thomas Goggles were our second place runners. Phillip ran hard for us all season. His attitude toward running is going to make him hard to beat next year. Thomas got his wind about mid-season and came in second at the North Marion meet. If he hadn't lost his wind due to the injury at the end of the season, he would have come in a lot stronger at the district meet.

Richard Bearchild never got his wind till late in the season, but even then he finished high in the meets.

Anson Red Star will be coming back next year and that's good for Chemawa. Anson's got the heart of a runner. He started this year as one of our top runners, but as the season went on, misfortune fell upon his knee. Even though the swelling prevented him from running, he came along to support the team.

Todd George was more of a sprinter than a distance pacer. Todd would always be in the thick of the race till the last mile, sometimes leading the race in the beginning, Todd was always true to himself. He was there running every day with the team and when he couldn't, he ran on his own.

Mike Wesley and Henry Goggles are prime examples of what hard work can do. These two were moved up from J.V. not because we needed their endurance. These two paced everyone on the top, making the top runner run even harder in case they were passed while looking back.

Leigh Malature will be coming back to Varsity next year. He was moved up from J.V. to help the injured Varsity, but turned out to be one of the top runners on the team.

Mike Johnson was moved up from J.V. During the district meet Mike was hurt along with Anson Red Star, but they finished the whole race limping.

Chemawa entered the district meet as the dark horse team. Despite injuries, we finished fourth at the district meet.

Boys J.V. consisted of Tony Tonaskit, Greg Lamontt, Roland Blackweasel, George Bremmer and Duan White Hawk. These boys will probably move up next game, depending on what they do this summer.

The girls Varsity team consisted of Delores Maganick, Caroline Ivanoff, Kim Hendricks, Pauline Napoleon, and Karlene Rides-at-the-door.

Karleen was our best runner for Chemawa. She would have probably gone to state if she hadn't gotten into trouble before district meet. We will never know how far she could have gone because she never joined the team till half the season was over. Karleen won Chemawa's Home Invitational. Delores Maganick, Caroline Ivanoff and Kim Hendricks did not possess the greatest speed but they enjoyed running.

What hurt this years team was not ability, but the lack of equipment, consistency and injuries.

I'd like to give recognition to these boys and girls who stuck it out this season. I tip my hat to you because cross country is a hard sport. Often runners get no recognition like football, but they have to be in better physical condition. Cross country is simply endurance of pain. Whoever endures the longest, wins the race.

I'd also like to thank managers Mona Boneshirt and Robin.

Injuries Limit '83 Football Season

By Audrey Jones

This season's Varsity Football team members were courageous and ambitious. The boys played hard this season, but couldn't quite reach their goal.

Although the Varsity team didn't start off very well, they really gave Chemawa something to cheer about during their final home game this season. They played tough and gave their opponents zero score points to go home with: the score was 44 to 0.

The JV team started out successfully by winning their first home game. They achieved this success on more during the football season.

Injuries played a big role in this year's season. Varsity football player, Ken "Killer" LittleGeorge was injured all season and couldn't play in any games. Paul Ballew, Eddie Bastian, Chester Mowitch, and Dwayne Edwards, who were seen as the team's powerhouses, suffered serious injuries throughout the season.

Despite these setbacks, the team worked hard in building skills, in working as a complete unit, and increasing self-esteem.
