FESTIVAL CROWDS POURING INTO CITY; STREETS RADIANT

Gay Throngs On Qui Vive, Awaiting Coming of Rex Oregonus; Flags, Streamers Flashing Welcome to the City.

The weather man spoke assuring words today about the weather for next week and the Rose Festival. Because the hot weather—for Oregon—has been enstained, atmospheric perspiration that would amount to a weather predicament has been feared by some dozen or more committees.

But, after looking up the averages of many years past, Mr. Beals, at the head of the weather office, finds that the skies have been uniformly blue and the sun has shone brightly on the decorations. "Can't be done!" was his terse answer to the request for a forecast, however. "We do fine to predict definitely ahead for 36 hours."

But with this much assurance, combined with the clear weather, preparations for the seven days of merry-making under the reign of Rex Oregonus go on apace.

Crowds Coming In.

Already the city is filling up with the crowds. Two persons may be seen on the streets today to the one of last week. The railroad companies give reports of doubled, and even trebled, service toward the Rose Festival city, commencing way over in some of the Eastern States.

Those who have attended Rose Festivals since the first one was given say that never before was the city decorated so elaborately and beautifully. The new scheme for decorating the water front and the bridges has added tremendous—(Continued on Page 3.)

RIOTS MAY ARISE IN I.W.W. INQUIRY

United States Attorney Hints at Important Developments When Grand Jury Investigation is Resumed.

LOS ANGELES—Federal grand jury investigation into the activities of Industrial Workers of the World at San Diego and Los Angeles was resumed this week, according to a statement by Assistant United States District Attorney Dudley Robinson, who is in charge of the probe.

Robinson intimated that many matters of utmost importance are yet to be brought before the jurors. The nature of these he refused to divulge, but he admitted that the results may be startling.

Rumors that the federal investigation will be transferred to San Diego, or that a special probe will be launched there were set finally at rest when Robinson declared that Attorney General Wickersham's denial of such contemplated procedure should set all such reports at rest.

"101 RANCH" WILD WEST ARRIVES

Parade to Start at 10:30 o'Clock From Grounds—First Performance at 2:15 P. M.

This is "early-rising day" for a considerable percentage of Portland's budding population. There is a reason. This is the day the circus—or rather, the 101 Ranch Wild West comes to town. For, hearken ye! the Wild West isn't a circus, according to the veracious press agent. "It's an educational institution," he insists. Anyway, whatever it is, this is the day!

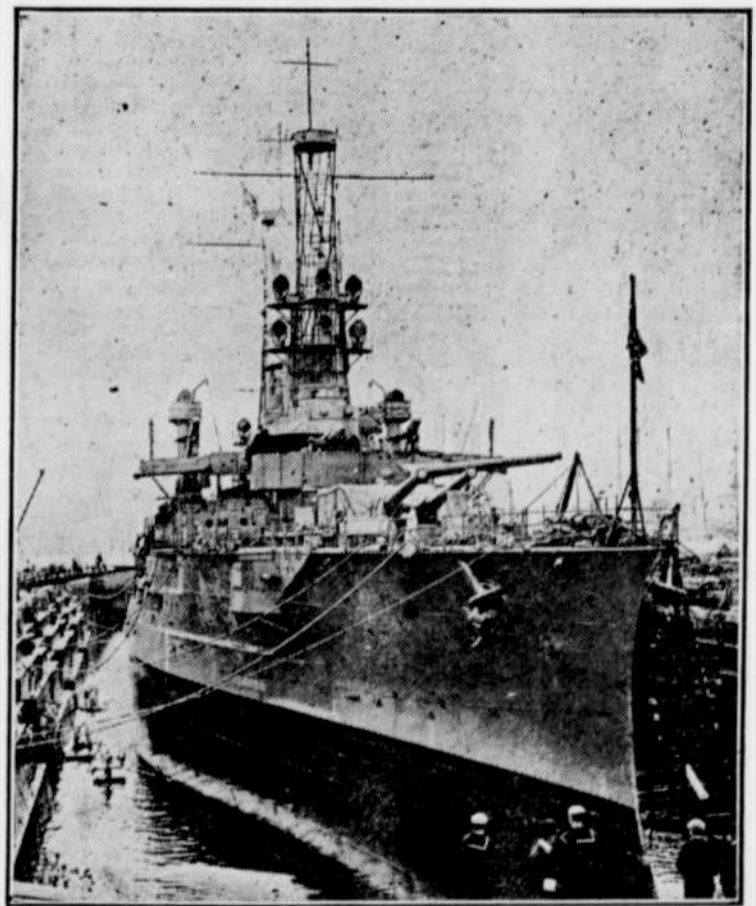

To the early-morning crowd that invests the railroad yards and invades the show grounds eager for new sensations, it makes no difference whether the management elects to call the enterprise a "circus" or a "Wild West." The incidental sights have a marked similarity.

Two Presidents at Princeton Inaugural—Taft and Hibben

EIGHTY-TWO presidents of universities and colleges were in attendance at the inauguration of Dr. John Grier Hibben as president of Princeton, and the president of the United States and two justices of the supreme court honored the occasion by their presence. The ceremony of taking the oath of office and receiving the charter and keys of the university took place in front of historic Old North, the building in which Washington received the acknowledgments by the Continental congress of his services to the new republic and which was for a part of 1783 the capitol of the United States. The photograph here reproduced shows the presidents of the republic and the university uniting in the singing of Princeton's famous battle hymn, "Old Nassau." A feature of the day's proceedings was the conferring of honorary degrees upon President Taft and Chief Justice White. The academic robes of the college dignitaries, together with the bright spring costumes of the women guests, gave the function a brilliancy not often equaled in an American university town.

New York Navy Yard's "Hoodoo Drydock" and First Occupant

AFTER seven years, marked by such misfortunes as to earn for it the name of the "hoodoo drydock," drydock No. 4 of the New York navy yard has received its first occupant, the United States battleship Utah, 1911 gunnery champion of the north Atlantic fleet and one of the two biggest Dreadnoughts of the navy. Congress originally appropriated $1,000,000 for the construction of this the largest drydock in the country, but the engineering difficulties encountered swelled its total cost to $2,800,000. The most serious of these were caused by the quicksands which underlie the site. These were finally overcome by the sinking of steel caissons similar to those used in skyscraper foundations to a depth of ninety feet and the building of a steel and concrete base. Two contracting firms were impoverished by their futile attempts to complete the undertaking, twenty lives were lost, and about 400 workmen were injured. The drydock is 748 feet long, 120 feet wide and 35 feet deep. It was completed under the direction of Engineer F. B. Harris, who was specially detailed for the task.

MAYOR TO FORCE TAZWELL AND CAMERON TO ANSWER CHARGE, BLOCKING MORAL CRUSADE

Aroused Over Refusal of May Grand Jurors to Divulge Evidence in Support of Stinging Letter Sent to Chief Slover, Rushlight Secures Testimony of Police Tending to Put Blame for Miscarriage of Justice On Municipal Judge and District Attorney's Office.

Though Mayor Rushlight's efforts to secure information from the May grand jury that will assist the Police Department in ridding the city of parasites and bawdy houses proved fruitless because the seven former grand jurors on the advice of Deputy District Attorney Frank Collier refused to tell upon what grounds they based an amazing letter published when the inquisitorial body disbanded the 1st of June, the startling testimony of a score of policemen called to refute the statements made in the letter shifted the spotlight to another quarter. As a result, the Mayor will call a special meeting of the police committee of the executive board and force Municipal Judge Tazwell and District Attorney Cameron to answer to charges that they have been obstructing the most earnest efforts of the police to "clean up" the city.

Refuse to Answer.

Each one of the seven men who formed the May Grand Jury was sworn by the Mayor yesterday and asked to tell what he knew about vice conditions. Acting on the advice of Deputy Attorney Collier, each refused to give a single bit of testimony. A surprising fact was learned when Police Commissioner Seton asked two of the witnesses if they were familiar with several sections of the city charter that the May Grand Jury charged had been violated by the Police Department. Henry Farr and R. J. Wagner, the two interrogated, declared that they did not know what the sections referred to provided for. From this it is surmised that the letter signed by the Grand Jury was perhaps instigated by some one not included on the personnel of the Grand Jury.

At any rate, yesterday's events proved a boomerang on the District Attorney's office, if, as has been freely rumored, the letter published over the signatures of the May jurors emanated from that office.

"Friend of District Attorney."

Mayor Rushlight, Police Commissioners Seton and Coffey and Seton were plainly angered by what they considered the uncalled-for and unjust criticism contained in the letter, and the testimony elicited from more than 20 members of the police force at Thursday's session constituted a severe arraignment of the District Attorney, his deputies and Municipal Judge Tazwell.

Patrolman Wiley testified that he had arrested a man named Campbell on a charge of extorting money from a woman. "Deputy District Attorney Hennessy," said Patrolman Wiley, "told me that a simple case of larceny would be made of the affair, as, Hennessy said, Campbell is a friend of District Attorney Cameron."

Patrolmen Black and Lillis testified that only Thursday they had called up the Municipal Court clerk early in the morning and requested that the case against Nixon and Gibson, charged with being parasites, be held back until later in the morning. The patrolmen said they raided the Bushmark Hotel about 8 o'clock and could not appear in the court against the two men before 10:30.

Case Is Dismissed.

"Yet when we appeared in the court at that hour," said the officers, "we learned that the case had been dismissed for lack of prosecution."

Sergeant of Police Harms also submitted damaging testimony against the Police Judge. He said that he had arrested 20 French parasites of the North End one night.

"Hardly had we arrived at the station, however," he said, "when I walked Max Cohen, an attorney, and who said he represented these parasites. Cohen called up Judge Tazwell and asked that the offenders be released on their own recognizance. The men were released, and, although Cohen said they would appear for trial, some of them did not."

Patrolmen Hutchings, Wardle and others testified that they had been hampered by the District Attorney's office, and by the Municipal Court Judge in their efforts to secure convictions against persons charged with various disgusting crimes.

Municipal Court Record.

Mayor Rushlight caused the Municipal Court record to be brought before him. This showed that the police had made 890 arrests since last July for serious crimes, and that in the majority of cases only light fines had been imposed, though in some instances suspended sentences had been given and undesirables compelled to leave the city.

In spite of all the charges made in the letter signed by the May Grand Jury, one of these yesterday swore that he knew of nothing that had transpired while he was serving on the jury that would lead him to believe the police had not been doing their duty. This man is Henry Farr.

Mayor Rushlight announced before the session had adjourned that he will summon all the officers of the District Attorney's office, and those of the Municipal Court, to explain why the police have not been more successful in prosecuting cases.

"I am disappointed over the result of my interview with the May Grand Jury, in view of the serious charges that body made against my police force," said Mayor Rushlight, after the session. "I had hoped that the grand jurors would, as public-spirited citizens, aid me in every way possible to cure the evils they have called attention to, if, indeed, these evils actually exist."

I.W.W.'S FRIEND IS RECALLED

Hoquiam, Wash.—The Rev. Harry Ferguson was recalled as Mayor of Hoquiam, and Chris Knoell was elected as his successor, the vote standing 1369 to 864. The contest for the past ten days was very bitter.

Mr. Ferguson's campaign was arranged by a committee made up in part of members of the committee that had charge of the recent strike here. Some of these committeemen were affiliated with the I. W. W. during the outbreak of that organization here, although they have recently denied membership in that aggregation. Other members of the committee were from the Central Trades & Union Labor Council, which organization took part in the political fight after a stormy session which caused several unions, notably the arbers' and Painters', to threaten to withdraw. Several persons who came here from Seattle to take part in the strike, which began about March 20, and continued several weeks, remained here to take part in Ferguson's campaign. Some of these were instrumental in getting out a small daily union-labor paper, with which an effort was made to arouse a violent class feeling. Many working people here, however, are home-owners, and refused to heed the advice of the outside agitators.

During the recent mill strike, Ferguson, as Mayor, refused police protection to the mill owners against I. W. W. pickets, and was also accused of hampering the Citizens' Committee, which was formed to restore order. The feeling against him has been very bitter.
