AT THE EMPRESS.

England has contributed many admirable features to present-day vaudeville and the Sullivan & Conside circuit the most recent being the Eight Saxones, an octette of singers, dancers and pantomimists, who will present one of the prettiest and most expensively staged headline attractions that has ever come over the circuit.

Four young chaps who are sailing over the S. & C. circuit under the nom de guerre of "The Monarch Comedy Four," will be the added feature at the Empress during the coming week. It is a quartette of vocalists, every one of whom is a soloist. They inject a lot of spontaneous comedy in the act which has proven a big hit along the circuit.

AT THE BAKER.

"The Dawn of a Tomorrow" is the title of Frances Hodgson Burnett's beautiful play which the Baker stock company will offer for all week, starting with next Sunday's matinee. The scenes are laid for the most part in the lowest slums of London and a lesson of cheerfulness and joy is taught, even from a source like this.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TO PUT ON ANOTHER TRAIN.

Word was received today from San Francisco officially announcing that the Southern Pacific will augment its passenger service between here and California by the addition of a train de luxe early next fall. The advices state that the new crack train will supplant the Shasta Limited, and that the latter will be abandoned but this duction includes nine persons who accompany it on the vaudeville tour. Of interest to Portland theatre-goers is the fact that Ynez Seabury, a Portland-born child, plays the part of "Trouble" in "Madame Butterfly," and that Forest Seabury, her father, well known in this city, also is a member of the cast. The noted Belasco presided over every detail of the vaudeville production of "Madame Butterfly."

Other acts on the same bill are: O'Meers Sisters and company, performers on the tight wire; Brown and Blyer, "just entertainers"; Harry Atkinson, the man with an orchestra in his throat; the Tuxedo Comedy Four and Honers and Le Prince, pantomimic acrobats.

SCENE FROM "MADAME BUTTERFLY" AT THE ORPHEUM NEXT WEEK.

David Belasco is to present his masterpiece, "Madame Butterfly," at the Portland Orpheum every afternoon and every night during the week of June 24th. The play will occupy 45 minutes on a full stage and will be presented in all its entirety just as it was produced originally as a curtain raiser in New York. Ten talented actors are in the cast and the executive staff for the pro-report is not given much credence here from the fact that the Shasta is run packed to the limit almost every day and both in service and running time gives full satisfaction. From the fact that it is crowded every day, it is believed here the new train will be operated in conjunction with the present through service, leaving and arriving here practically at the same time as the Shasta, but cutting the present running time between here and San Francisco down to 24 hours and maintaining the same close connections with Los Angeles and Southern California. The new limited will be an excess fare train and probably of all-steel equipment throughout.
