Washington, Feb. 11.-The Indian conference was closed today, and the Indians will start home Friday. The fea tures of today's talk was the story of the fight at Wounded Knee. Turning Hawk

At a given time when the men had de livered up their guns they were separa-ted from their families and taken to a certain spot. A crazy man, a young man of very bad influence, fired his gun, killing an officer. The other Indians began drawing their knives, although men were exhorted from all sides to desist, and firing began immediately on the part of the soldiers. All men, who were in a bunch, were killed right there. Those who escaped the first fire got into a ravine, and as they went along the ravine for a long distance were pursued on all sides by the soldiers and shot down. The women had no fire arms to fight with. They were standing off at a different place and when the firing began, those of the men who escaped the first volley went in one direction, up in the ravine, and the women in another, through an open field. Some of them met the same fate as the men. American Horse said:

When the firing commenced, the peowere standing immediately. around the young man who fired the first shot were killed, and then the soldiers turned their guns on the women, who were in the lodges, standing there under the flag of truce. Of course, as soon as they fired upon they fled. There was woman with an infant in her arms killed as she almost touched the flag of truce. Right near the flag another was shot Her child not knowing the mother was dead, was still nursing, and that was a very sad sight. The women. as they were fleeing with their babies on their backs, were killed together, and the women heavy with child were also killed. After most of the Indians been killed, the cry was made that all those not killed or wounded should come forth and they would be safe. The little of their places of refuge, and as soon as they came in sight a number of soldiers surrounded and butchered them.

Commissioner Morgan here said to the interpreter: "I wish you would say to him that these are very serious charges to make against the army. I do not want any and I want anyone here that feels the statements are two strong to correct

"Of course," replied American Horse, "it would have been all right if only the men were killed, but the fact of the killing of the women, and more especially make the future strength of the Indian people we feel very seriously." "Does American Horse know these things of his now personal knowledge, or has he been told them?" asked the commistant what little of the ice melts will not said when I entered the room at the club sioner, "I was not there at the time, but drop down on the occupants in the form reception. was the reply.

Rev. Mr. McCook, a Sioux half-breed, pastor of the Episcopal church at Pine

Ridge, among other things, said:
Much has been said about the good spirit with which the members of the Seventh cavalry went into that action. It has been said the desire to avenge Custer's death was entirely absent from their minds. -Louisville Courier-Journal. The gate tender of the Main street crossing left a deputy in charge recently. man looked at the gate towering above him, and, thinking it would take a long ladder to reach the top, went to a neighhe looked at the lantern and an idea dawned on him. He lowered the gate and detached the lantern. The next time he tends gate he will not borrow a ladder.-Brunswick (Me.) Telegraph.

A Young Cashier. N. G. Hollister, cashier of the National Bank of Commerce of Hutchinson, enjoys the distinction of being the young est cashier of a national bank in the 276 and 278, Second Street. United States. He is only 21 years old now, and he is regarded as one of the most level headed business men of the city. Within two weeks after coming of age he was made a director in two national banks, which positions he still holds.-Hutchinson (Kan.) News.

For cramps a ring is frequently worn upon the finger, but to possess the requisite virtue it is necessary that the ring should be made of some metal taken by stealth, without discovery. The great Boyle recommended for certain diseases "a little bag hung about the neck, containing the powder made of a live toad burnt in a new pot."-London Tit-Bits.

If you put a spoon in a glass before pouring in the water the glass will not crack, even if the water is boiling. But if there is no spoon used it takes a new glass to every hot drink.
