THE LESSON OF OUR REPRESENTATIVES.

The lesson taught by the success of the anti-Moody ticket yesterday should not be lost upon our representatives whether state or national. At the last legislature nothing passed current except it was coined in the Moody mint. Anything that Moody asked was granted, anything that the people demanded was denied. The humiliating sight of fifteen citizens, representing fairly the wealth and worth of the Dalles at the last legislature, begging and entreating the creatures whom their votes had made their representatives to grant them the passage of bills endorsed by the common council, by the chamber of commerce and by the representatives of three-fourths of the city's wealth, will never be forgotten by those who were eyewitnesses. We remember the rude denial of redress without the Moody council and concurrence, the refusal of the legislature to grant us common justice, its readiness to believe a lying and contemptible scrap of an irresponsible newspaper, because Moody approved it, while it turned a deaf ear to the letters and petitions of a hundred of our best citizens—all because, forsooth, the petitioners and lobbyists were but the representatives of a faction at once insignificant and unimportant. Let our representatives know that what we have done yesterday could have been done, with proper organization at anytime for the past five years and that what the city has done the county will endorse at the next election. Even at the last state election, without any special effort whatever being made against the bossism of M. A. Moody he was unable to secure a solid delegation from a single precinct in the county. While he carried the Dalles primary by the same nefarious methods he adopted last Saturday night, he was unable to control nearly half of the men he was obliged to put on his ticket. Our representatives will do well to note that the people of The Dalles and Wasco county want no more of Boss Moody. They have had all they want of him already. They have found him wanting in everything but an unswerving devotion to his own selfish interests. When a house is about to fall wise men will stand from under. The men defeated yesterday were defeated because they were his nominees and for no other reason. Not a breath of suspicion taints the character of any of them. The city would delight to honor the names of such men as Judge Condon and Judd Fish and the same is true of all the rest. And the city would honor itself in honoring them, while all their personal popularity could not elect them, as the friends of Malcolm A. Moody.

YESTERDAY'S VICTORY.

We have met the enemy and they are ours. The issue was squarely Moody or anti-Moody and the freedom of the Dalles has risen in their might and routed Moody, horse, foot and dragons. It was no question of the character of the men on the Moody ticket. They were all, without exception, honorable and honest citizens, men who would have adorned any position to which the people might have called them; but they were Moody men and the people did not want Moody and they said so yesterday, in terms not to be mistaken. It is more than a defeat, it is a rout, it is more than a victory it is a triumph, it is more than a conquest, it is a Waterloo. Every man on the citizens' ticket is elected. The pride of bossism is broken and the imperialism of the dictator is rebuked. The damning outrage of stuffing the primary with stockmen from Crook county, sheep herders from Antelope and boys yet in their teens from Dalles has been resented. The infamy of delayed public improvements, a people robbed of the use of a hundred thousand dollars through frivolous and impertinent votes while a bank was enriched, a defeated charter bill and a water bill amended to suit the legencies of a selfish imperialism, a deal legislature and an insulting representation, all have been remembered and the prime mover in the infamous drama with all his abettors has been hurled into the vortex of a political gale while twice a thousand votes in The Dalles and Wasco county exclaim, may there never be a re-election.

THE WIRE WORM.

Some time ago the editor of the CHRONICLE sent to Professor Washburn the state entomologist a few of the cut worms that play such havoc on our spring grain. A letter just received says, "The worms you have just sent me are 'wire worms' or the larvae which will produce the 'click beetles' or snapping beetles, so called because if you place them upon their backs they will throw themselves over on their feet with a clicking sound. They live in the larval stage (i. e. as wire worms), for two years. They are abundant in sod and clover land and are pests not easy to get rid of. The adult beetles lay their eggs sometime between March and September. It is practically useless to sow a crop after they have destroyed one. Burning the stubble and destroying by burning all rubbish stacks, etc., in a field in the fall will doubtless destroy many eggs." The professor advises the farmer to examine a field in the spring before planting it and if worms are found there, either to summer fallow or plant it in crop distasteful to the worm. The trouble with the first suggestion is that summer fallowing does not seem to diminish their numbers. A writer in the American Agriculturist recently said that "you may summer fallow land for twenty years and you won't destroy the worm." For fields the professor has no practical remedy suitable to the conditions prevailing in Eastern Oregon. For gardens he suggests cutting potatoes into pieces two inches square, and after cutting out the eyes, sticking the pieces of potatoes on small sticks, six inches

A HOPEFUL SIGN.

One of the most hopeful signs of the times lies in the fact that the party divides itself lightly on the shoulders of the voter of the present day. He is doing considerable thinking on his own account. The chain that binds the people to the old party bosses are no longer made of steel but of sand. The result of the election in Portland and The Dalles last Monday is but one more illustration of what is going on everywhere. No more important event in the interest of the state has happened for many a day than that which happened when Joe Simon and Jim Loton were both hurled into one common vortex. Let the good work go on. If the republican party desire to maintain supremacy in this state they must finish, at the first opportunity, what the consolidated city has begun. Let that party repudiate both Simon and Loton by reading them outside. The party will then breathe easier and will have a right to live which thousands else will not accord to it.

WE OWE PORTLAND NOTHING.

Just how much Portland wants an open river may be gathered from the fact that she has quietly sat at the mouth of the Willamette and allowed the Union Pacific to circumvent every effort to get connection on the lower river for the boat now being built at this place. When The Dalles had gone beyond the point of getting connections with Portland, we would not have thanked Portland to have built a boat to make this connection. Well, we will have a boat on the lower river, in spite of the Union Pacific and Portland's apathy and when she gets her steam up she may get her back up, at the same time and run past Portland and on to Astoria. At any rate she will owe nothing to Portland and can go there or to Astoria as suits her best.

AN IMPORTANT CAMPAIGN.

The most critical campaign in the history of Ohio politics opened on Tuesday when the gavel fell on the convention that nominated for governor, William McKinley for governor of that state. The result of the contest will be watched with very great interest by all parties. The name of McKinley is so associated with the protective principle that his defeat will be accepted as the condemnation of that principle so far as Ohio is concerned. The republicans enter the campaign with the advantage of unity and enthusiasm, and no doubt every device known to modern politics will be used by both parties to win a favorable verdict from the people.

The organ of the defunct reminiscence when it began to sniff defeat in the ambient air of yesterday afternoon comforted itself with this reflection, which is about as near the truth as it ever gets: "There being nothing at stake, the people were apathetic regarding the election." No statement could be farther from the truth. There never was an election in this city more hotly contested and the number of votes cast completely demonstrates that the people were anything but apathetic. In the very same column and referring also to the election these words are used, "The greatest excitement prevailed in the city today." This paragraph was evidently written in the morning when the brother was flushed with the hope of victory. Now you pay your money and take your choice.

Notwithstanding the predictions that our protective system would handicap American manufacturers in competing with European products in the markets of the world our exports of mowers and reapers for the month of March last were valued at $427,115 as against $353,909 in the same month of 1890, and our exports of manufactured products amounted to $14,726,817 against $11,030,370 in March 1891.

The Times-Mountaineer referring to yesterday's election says: "The faction in every instance attempted to hide their animus in the municipal fight—that of controlling city affairs." And, pray, what did the defunct reminiscence want?

A New Arrangement.

EDITOR CHRONICLE: For sometime it has been evident to many of our citizens that our town needs another night watchman as one is not enough to protect lives and property. Our town is strung out over a large area of hillsides, rock bluffs and river banks varying in altitude as high as three hundred feet above the river level. One man, to do his best, unhindered by disturbances, cannot patrol even the business portion of our town or a night at other cities of our size. Now, while times are dull, suppose our council appoint another night watchman and do away with the office of street commissioner, making the day officer act as street commissioner, to report needed repairs or improvements and hire workmen to do the work as the council may direct. Certainly the additional duties of the day officer or city marshal will not make his work very arduous as the additional force at night will tend to preserve better order and fewer offenses will be committed at night, each man being in different parts of the town and crossing beats, no fire can occur without the alarm being instantly given. At train time one officer can be at the train while the other keeps his beat. The same can be done when one makes an arrest and leaves his regular beat. This is business.

W. H. Y. KNOTT.

Today, in Buenos Ayres, a man who has a gold dollar can get $2.25 in paper money for it. The farmers' alliance idea of "government" printing "cheap money" had two years of flying away among our misguided South American friends of the Argentine Republic, and the result is that when they go to market they carry a basket to hold the wads of money, and a little purse in which to put the provisions purchased.—Astorian.

We have received another long communication on the single tax theory; but as it contains nothing new and does not pretend to answer the Chronicon, we must respectfully decline its publication.

A BOY OF HIS WORD.

You may sing of the heroes of yore, You may speak of the deeds they have done, Of the foes they have slain by the score, Of the glorious battles they've won; You may seek to emulate their fame, And it may be with goodly success; But it is not the warrior's name That my heart and my spirit would bless. Though oft at their mention my soul hath been stirred, Yet dearer to me is the boy of his word. You may speak of the great ones of earth, Of prelates, of princes, and kings; I do not see their something of worth In the boom of all human things; But dearer to me than the whole Of paucity, splendor and pride, Is the boy with a frank, honest soul, Who never has word that he lied. Yes, prided above all that this earth can afford, Though lowly and poor, is the boy of his word.

The general committee of work for boys in the United States and Canada have issued an appeal to the benevolent people of America for practical sympathy and aid in the work of saving the street-boys in the cities. This work has been in operation now three years and a half. Over 13,000 boys have been gathered into the rooms. The work is among the most neglected class. The rooms are in charge of a superintendent and are supplied with attractive games and interesting books, and admission is free to all the boys of the city. There are classes in carpentry, wood-carving, clay-modeling, etc. The saving of boys who have been brought before the police courts, is the special object of the society. The superintendents visit the courts daily in pursuance of that object and where it is possible take charge of the boys and furnish them employment.

Oakes, president of the Northern Pacific, and party arrived here this morning. In an interview President Oakes said that the trip was one of inspection and had no special significance. A Tennessee Cloud Burst.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 16.—At New-mooreville, Queen county, on Saturday last a cloud-burst did great damage. The place is remote from railroads and telegraph. The fall of water was terrific. The store-house, residence and out-buildings of T. M. King were carried away. The post office was kept in his store and everything was lost. A number of other houses were swept away and all the crops along the creek bottom lands were destroyed. Considerable stock was drowned but no lives were lost. The damage to property will amount to a large sum.

A Canadian Village Burning Up.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 16.—The passengers of the Canadian Pacific train which passed through Castlemain last night report the town burning up. They say that great piles of lumber and stacks of tanbark and nearly every house and store in the village is on fire. Men, women and children were frantically running toward the woods with what little they could carry. There is no possibility now of ascertaining whether there is loss of life, but the destruction of property must be enormous. The population of the town is about one thousand.

Still After the Gambler-Prince.

LONDON, June 16.—The popular crusade against the Prince of Wales is showing no signs of losing strength or bitterness. At seven religious meetings held in various parts of the country, yesterday the prince was roundly denounced for the share he took in the baccarat scandal. The Thetis Sails for Alaska.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—In compliance with orders from Washington the Thetis left today for Sand Point, Alaska.

The committee on permanent organization reported the name of General Bushnell for permanent chairman. The convention nomination was then declared in order and ex-Governor Forker rose to present the name of William McKinley for governor.

When he appeared the delegates fairly went wild with enthusiasm. He said: "In part this contest upon which we are about to enter is in some respects of unusual character. The contest involves more than the governorship of Ohio. It reaches into the national politics of the United States. A senator will depend upon its result. It will also determine whether Ohio is to go into the great national contest of 1892 at the head of republican or democratic column. (Applause.) We are proud of that conservative, patriotic man, General Harrison, who sits in the white house. (Applause) We are proud too of that brilliant, magnetic statesman who has taught law to Europe with respect to America, James G. Blaine." (Prolonged cheers with hat tossing and fan waving for over a minute.)

Forker moved that the rules be suspended and McKinley be nominated by acclamation. The motion prevailed unanimously amid the wildest cheering and waving of hats. McKinley was then presented to the convention as the next governor of Ohio.

McKinley made a stirring speech thanking the convention for the honor of the nomination. Senator Sherman was then called for and spoke in eulogy of the republican party and the McKinley bill.

The committee on resolutions then reported the platform which was adopted. Andrew L. Harris of Preble county, was nominated for lieutenant governor on the first ballot.
