We believe an open river to The Dalles will be a benefit to the farmers iving within reach of that place and we further believe that the owners of the new boat expect and should receive the patronage of such farmers, but when we consider that Klickitat county extends nearly one hundred miles above The Dalles we can see at a glance that it is impossible for all farmers living in this country to haul their grain there. What above the river to Pasco, where(provided reasonable terms cannot be made with the U. P.,) it can be shipped by way of the N. P. to market. The management of the N. P. is at present taking steps to reduce rates on these lines so that ship pers and farmers can ship to market and have something left, but the U. P.

We agree with The Dalles CHRONICLE in regard to the new boat being built at that place, and believe that before the farmers of Klickitat make definite arrangements with the Northern Pacific or any other railroad they should interview the gentlemen who are spending their money for the express purpose of benefitting the settlers of this and adto haul, but if the difference in price is as great as it was last year it will pay to haul it to the new boat.—Klickitat Lead-
