cry of the starved and suffering child goes up to heaven, but human fatuity has interposed the shield of "regulation." and no answer comes. Regulation, forsooth! Can the vitiated appetite of the boy be 'regulated?" Is there any way to regulate the man or boy who has implanted within himself an appetite which has and streets that are gold, and temples that taken from him every particle of will ver in any other way than to remove the cause of the fever? "Regulation!" Do you want to take a census to enumerate your children and say, "I will so regulate this evil that this child shall be mine and that one the saloon-keeper's? In brief, do you want to perpetuate an evil, or do you want to kill it? If the rum power really owns the state and community, in God's name let it have its way in peace. If it does not, if hu-manity has any rights, if the state and the family have any claim to be considered, let the law assert itself and stamp it out .- P. V. Nasby.

Sir William Gordon and Lady Cumming's coming reception in New York is already a matter of anxiety to the fashionable few, and it is earnestly debated whether to give them the cold shoulder or to receive them with that studied warmth which would best emphasize the Four Hundred's opinion of English wickedness.
