

The Weekly Chronicle.

THE DALLES, - - - OREGON

FRIDAY, - - - JANUARY 22, 1892.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Ed Wicks of Mill Creek is reported to be very sick.

The foreclosure sale of the Oregon Pacific is to take place today.

We regret to learn that A. J. Dufur Jr., of Dufur has been quite sick.

Ed Henderson of Dufur who has been quite sick with typhoid fever is able to be on his feet again.

A meeting will be held in Hood River tomorrow for the purpose of organizing a republican club.

Sam Thurman has filed a homestead claim on some 110 acres of river front north of the railroad depot.

The new armory in the Wingate building has been nicely filled up with racks for 100 guns and seats for about 200 persons.

Henry Mulkins of Dufur has set red from the presidency of the Slickstone Express company and is now running the Central hotel in that burg.

Up till the hour of going to press we have been unable to procure from the county clerk the official statement of the transactions of the county court required to be published according to law. The report will appear in our next issue.

A lovelier winter day than this the world never saw. At 2 o'clock p. m. the thermometer stands 52 degrees in the shade, scarcely a breath of air is stirring, the sky is without a cloud and the sun shines out like a huge diamond in a field of azure.

We regret to hear that Mrs. Joseph Beezley met with an accident yesterday that will leave her practically helpless for a few days. Having stumbled while near a hot stove, in the effort to save herself from being burned, she sprained both ankles. She is confined to her room.

Mr. Hobert of this city has returned from a month's trip to Vancouver's Island and the Sound country. He was there in the service of the Baldwin Locomotive works of Philadelphia, putting up an engine for the Union Coal company whose mines are about 75 miles north of Nanaimo.

Washington news looks warlike enough. The Rubicon of war or peace may be passed at any moment. Chili seems cursed with a fatal blindness. A war with the United States could have but one result in the long run. Chili would be but a crippled dwarf in the clutches of a lusty giant.

Steward Wiley of the Regulator has left at this office an odd looking something of vegetable growth that he calls a Chinese Orange. It has the appearance and odor of an orange but is as big as a squash. It is on exhibit in our show window. Julius obtained it by making himself solid with a Dalles contingent of the Chinese Empire.

E. Warren of Dufur, author of a popular work on "Hemology," has accepted the presidency of the Slickstone Express company vice Henry Mulkins, resigned. It may be necessary to inform the readers of the CHRONICLE that the Slickstone Express company runs between here and Dufur. It received its charter from the S. B. Manufacturing company.

The prosperous outlook before the farmers of this county has had a noticeable effect on the price of land. Men who were anxious to sell out a year ago now want to hold on or are asking a higher price. A well known farmer from Tygh Ridge informs the CHRONICLE that quarter sections of agricultural land in that county have advanced fully $500 each, above what was being asked for them this time a year ago.

Two Indian boys came into town last night by the "blind baggage" route, in company with a tramp. Con Howe gathered the three into his cooler, and the recorder this morning fined the tramp the usual sum while the Indian boys are held for further inquiry. It is thought they may have escaped from the Indian school near Salem. They could give no satisfactory account of themselves and their answers to questions propounded by the recorder and marshal satisfied those functionaries that the "kids" could lie like veterans.

The following is a list of the prizes to be given at the firemen's masquerade ball tonight. The first prize for the best sustained lady character is a handsome dressing case. The second for the best sustained lady character is a handsome morocco album. The first prize for the best sustained gentleman character is a pair of solid gold cuff buttons and shirt studs. The second is a gold quartz scarf pin. The prizes can now be seen on exhibition, in W. E. Garretson's show window. They are very handsome and are well worth competing for.

There is no saloon in Fossil now, which is a great help to the thirty ones who swore off two weeks ago. The licenses of both saloons expired on Jan. 13th. They petitioned the council for a renewal, but that body denied the petitions as notices had not in either case been posted the required length of time. At the next regular monthly meeting the licenses will probably be granted; meanwhile prohibition resigns.—Fossil Journal.

The Sun is authority for the statement that A. J. Wall, of the Eight-Mile menagerie, has named a favorite pet animal of his after the editor of the CHRONICLE. This is entirely too flattering a compliment. Only great men are treated that way. It is a safe bet that Wall won't call his three legged pig "Middleton." The pig would cut its own throat first.

Engineer Driscoll of the Regulator has gone to Portland after material needed for the repair and alterations now going on in that boat. Mr. Driscoll thinks that it will take about two weeks after the material is here before the boat will be ready to start. Meantime work has started and will be pushed rapidly on the extension of the lower incline of the state portage. Manager Laughlin informs the CHRONICLE that it will probably take to the second week in February to finish all the work contemplated but that everything possible will be done to hurry the work through.

PERSONAL.

F. C. Sexton of Dufur is in the city.

George Filloon came up from Portland Monday.

E. Olinger of Hood River was in the city Saturday.

C. W. Moore of Grass Valley was in the city Tuesday.

Ex-Judge Scott, of Sherman county, was in the city today.

Hon. M. P. Isenberg of Hood River, spent Wednesday in the city.

George Noland and Willie Staats of Dufur were in town Wednesday.

Amos Root and W. T. McClure of Mosier were in the city Tuesday.

Miss Edna Fisher and May Foster, of Portland, are visiting friends in the city.

O. L. Stranahan, of Hood River, gave the CHRONICLE a pleasant call Wednesday evening.

C. M. Brown, a former well known resident of The Dalles, but now in the grocery business at Moro, is in town.

Mrs. P. J. Nickolas and the children will leave Friday evening for a short visit to her father in Oakland California.

WAMIE ITEMS.

WAMIE, Dec. 20, 1891.

Editor of the Chronicle:

Dr. Vanderpool was in our midst Jan. 8th calling on and prescribing for the sick, which are not a few at present. Lydia Pattison and George Palmater are improving slowly.

Miss Edna Driver is recovering from the stroke of paralysis which she received some time ago.

At Sam Douglass' house seven may be seen, lying with the measles. Sam will tell you that they are quite entertaining but not one of the most pleasant visitors to receive in the family. Sam thinks he has had his share of sickness for a while. His oldest son Walter, while attending school at Mammoth, was taken quite ill with typhoid fever not more than a year ago, and this fall his son Buford was taken with typhoid fever and now the rest of them have the measles. He says that if he survives these and McKinley is nominated for president he will vote for him or die in the attempt of going to the polls on Mr. "Dudes" balloon line.

Asa Stogsdill has sold his interest in the Wamie store to F. S. Gordon who will move it to Tygh where he intends to carry a good stock of dry goods, groceries, etc. F. Gordon will deal with the farmers and will handle such of their produce as is profitable and will also keep a good supply of cord wood and shingles on hand, all are invited to call and examine his goods.

There has been several deer killed in our settlement recently. Joe and Andy Kirsner and Frank Woodcock being the lucky ones. Uncle Toby received an invitation of Frank, to assist him in devouring the ham of a venison which he will be most likely to accept, as a slice of venison cooked by one who knows just how to give it the richness of flavor which makes it the most excellent of all meat, doesn't go so bad these days.

The snow has disappeared and it seems so much like spring that we are liable to take the spring fever, but never the less farmers are jubilant over the prospect of a good crop the coming year as the winter grain never looked better at the time of year.

UNCLE TOBY.

Passed the Senate.

The following telegram was handed us as we go to press:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 20.—My bill appropriating one hundred thousand dollars for public building at The Dalles has just passed the senate.

JOHN H. MITCHELL.

BOEN.

In this city on Jan. 19, 1892 to the wife of P. A. Johnson, a son.

From the Agricultural College.

CORVALLIS, Or., Jan. 15, 1892.

Editor Chronicle:

The CHRONICLE made me a pleasant call yesterday.

All the male students of the first year's classes met in Prof. Letcher's room and were introduced by the professor to Capt. Warren, (retired from West Point) who made us a short speech setting forth the objects of military training. He said the boys would be organized into two companies, A and B, with all the necessary sub-divisions and officers. He further stated that there would be no drill till spring, but that the study of the tactics would commence in a few days, with recitation twice a week.

Today I met Mr. Robert Bradley recently from Boyd, but now running a farm which he says is two miles south of Corvallis. Although it has rained a great deal this winter, it has not soaked the enterprise out of Mr. Bradley, who thinks he likes rain better than a crop failure. He intends draining and fertilizing his farm for the purpose of raising wheat and making it pay.

Roads are very muddy, the weather is again warm and the rain is at its old occupation—coming down.

The churches of Corvallis are having a union meeting at the old college chapel. The commodious new city schoolhouse is well filled. It is said to have an attendance of 500. The new building erected by the state for an experiment station is fast nearing completion.

Work on the Corvallis Carriage factory still continues, though not so fast as a while back. BUNCHGRASS.

CORVALLIS, Or., Jan. 19, 1892.

Work on the Albany bridge is suspended till the weather becomes more favorable for working.

Corvallis is thinking of running a free ferry during the coming summer.

The stockholders of the Corvallis Carriage and Wagon Manufacturing Company were today invited out to inspect their new factory building which is erected near the O. P. depot. The larger part of the machinery is in place, and some of it is being used in the manufacture of workbenches, etc. The general manager, Mr. J. Sticker, is a live, enterprising business man, who has conducted similar enterprises in the east.

Jerome Everett, formerly of Dufur, was quite sick Sunday but is recovering.

S. W. P. Richardson, well known in Eastern Oregon and Washington, was in Corvallis yesterday.

Josiah Burlingame, of Dufur, has been holding a meeting at Philomath, aided by others.

President Arnold and Professor Craig were both absent from college Monday, because of illness.

The "grippe" is quite plentiful here at present.

Many of the college students are quite unwell, among whom may be mentioned I. D. Pike, of Moro. BUNCHGRASS.

Another Wreck on the Union Pacific.

The Union Pacific passenger train that was due here yesterday morning at 4:30 o'clock met with an accident at 5:30 a. m., six miles east of Umatilla. The train was running at a fair rate of speed when the engine struck a broken rail and was thrown from the track and fell over. Fireman Pond was caught under it and so badly scalded by escaping steam that he died soon after being extricated. Joseph Warner, the newsboy on the train, was severely injured as was also a tramp, who was stealing a ride. The mail and baggage cars were derailed but not overturned.

The dead fireman and the newsboy were taken to Pendleton where the latter, at latest accounts, was in a dying condition. Fireman Pond is spoken of as an honest, kind-hearted, sober and industrious man. He leaves a wife and one child of a tender age. The relatives of the newsboy, who live in Chicago, have been notified. The passengers all escaped uninjured.

A Treat in Store for the Lovers of Music.

Miss Lena Morgan of Portland has kindly consented to favor us with her rich voice in a concert to be given at the court house next Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Congregational choir. She will be assisted by the choir and other of our best musical talent. Miss Morgan returned to Portland about two months ago from Paris, where she has for the past year been under the instruction of Madame La Grange. Since her return she has appeared before large audiences to the entire satisfaction of Portland's best critics. Our citizens may consider themselves favored in being able to secure such talent. The Congregational choir is sufficiently well known in The Dalles to need any comment at our hands.

Editor Chronicle:

On Saturday, the 16th inst., there was an open installation of the officers of Summit Grange at Center Ridge. Master A. S. Roberts of Douglas Hollow, in his own happy manner, installed the following officers: A. Canfield, M.; Joseph Haynes, O.; P. P. Underwood, L.; Ed Craft, S.; Roy Butler, A. S.; J. H. Trout, C.; George Willard, Sec.; Moore, G. C.; Mrs. J. Moore, P.; Mrs. A. E. Underwood, F.; Mrs. G. Willard, Cor.

By this time the coffee was boiling, and all hands gathered around the well-filled table, but I can't begin to give you a full-sized picture of the way they ate. In fact, for the next half hour I was rather too busy to take close observation. Occasionally I caught a sight of the worthy M., with both hands full, while the good sisters were filling his pockets with toothsome doughnuts, for which he has a well-known weakness. Several became too full for utterance, and had to be excused from the literary program.

The most of the afternoon was very pleasantly and profitably spent in select readings, recitations and addresses. Notwithstanding the heavy load of doughnuts, pie, cake, beef, chicken and other good things "too numerous to mention," Master Canfield stood up and delivered his "inaugural address" like a man. And it was good. The overseer also showed the benefit of a good, square meal, by giving a very instructive and well-delivered address. All acquitted themselves well and it was a happy crowd that separated late in the day.

On Monday following the writer visited the Dufur public school. Professor Frazier occupies the upper room in the two story schoolhouse. The directors have shown a most commendable spirit in furnishing this room with some good maps, globes, etc. On the desk were piled a number of new books which proved to be the Encyclopedia Britannica in twenty volumes. There are fifty-two scholars enrolled for this room, who, in addition to the usual branches studied in ungraded schools, are receiving instruction in general history, geometry, natural philosophy, and algebra. This room showed commendable progress and pupils and teacher are on the best of terms.

In the lower room H. Pitman has sixty-two enrolled, varying in age from six to thirteen. My visit there was very inopportune—teacher sick, pupils nearly so, many coughing so hard as to prevent study on their part and also to greatly interfere with recitations. The noise of those overhead is another drawback to progress in that room. The average attendance last week in Mr. Pitman's room was fifty. If convenient, I shall visit the school when the teacher is himself again. P. P. UNDERWOOD.

There was a unique trial in Judge Ogden's court in Oakland, Cal., last Wednesday. Trouble has been found in impeaching a jury, and, finally, counsel for plaintiff and defendant agreed to let the case go on with one juror. The lone juror, a carpenter named C. E. Emmons, sat in solitary state, and listened with grave attention to the voluminous arguments. It was not "gentlemen of the jury." It was "sir," and after the close of the argument the judge charged the one juror, who retired to deliberate with himself. After due consideration he announced he was ready with a verdict, was ushered in by the bailiff, answered to his name, and handed in an unanimous verdict for the plaintiff, the state of California, which was duly recorded. We are a great people.

The East Oregonian says: Judge Ellis is a very prominent candidate for the republican nomination for congressman in this district, which includes Multnomah county, is republican by from five to seven thousand majority. It is quite probable that he will represent us in the halls of congress. He has a strong following in the counties where he is best known, and believes that he has a fair chance for the nomination. There is no doubt, in his opinion, that the nomination will be given an Eastern Oregon man by either party.

Bad Blood.

Impure or vitiated blood is nine times out of ten caused by some form of constipation or indigestion that clogs up the system, when the blood naturally becomes impregnated with the effete matter. The old Sarsaparilla attempt to reach this condition by attacking the blood with the drastic mineral "potash." The potent theory is old and obsolete. Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla modern. It goes to the seat of the trouble. It arouses the liver, kidneys and bowels to healthful action, and invigorates the circulation, and the impurities are quickly carried off through the natural channels.

Try it and note its delightful action. Chas. Lee, at Beal's Third and Market Streets, S. F., writes: "I took it for vitiated blood and while on the first bottle became convinced of its merits, for I could feel it was working a change. It cleansed, purified and opened me up generally, and everything is now working full and regular."
