Late dispatches from the seat of government intimate that the members of the Washington delegation are very much dissatisfied with the appointment of W. B. Gilbert to the vacant judgeship of the ninth district. They think that as Oregon has a minister to Turkey, a judge in Alaska and a collector of internal revenues for the district of Oregon and Washington, and as Washington has a larger population and a larger republican vote than Oregon they should have been permitted to name the candidate for the judgeship. That shows how guileless the gentleman are. Washington is undoubtedly a great state and strongly republican to boot. Washington too had a candidate, in the person of W. Lair Hill who is the peer of any man on the Pacific coast whether measured by intellectual ability, knowledge of law, or social uprightness. But W. Lair Hill lacked one thing that for ever barred him from receiving the support of our Oregon senators. His record as a corporation attorney was not satisfactorily attested. Had Judge Hill been the hired attorney of the O. R. & N. Co., or of the Union Pacific he would now be judge of the ninth judicial district. This is the only passport to honor south of the Columbia river; at least the only sure passport. To the everlasting disgrace of our Oregon senators their first nominee was a man whose political record would disgrace a Tammany chief. But Joe Simon had been a corporation attorney and this alone was a qualification sufficient to cover all the crimes in the decalogue. Every decent republican in Oregon blushed for shame when the telegrams repeatedly announced that our two senators were supporting Joe Simon. It is to the credit of President Harrison that the Simon medicine was too strong for his digestive organs. But what has he done now? Who is W. B. Gilbert? Another corporation attorney; a better man than Simon undoubtedly, but equally the hireling of the Union Pacific. We say Simon had been a corporation attorney, and hereby hangs a tale. In the Oregon legislature of 1889 Hon. E. L. Smith introduced a bill for a portage railroad at the Cascades. Joe Simon's law firm were then attorneys for the Union Pacific and Simon and the whole Multnomah delegation voted solidly against the measure. Two years passed. The same bill was introduced and the same delegation with Simon at its head voted solidly the other way. How did this change of mind come about? The new law firm of Gilbert & Snow had meanwhile gone to the railroad company and engaged to do their work for less money than the company was paying to Simon, Dolph & Bronaugh. Half an hour of Joe Simon in the Oregon legislature would have done more for the railroad interests than Gilbert & Snow could have accomplished in a century, but the company was blind to their own interest. Gilbert & Snow were hired and Joe Simon and his firm were fired. But Joe always gets even with his enemies and Eastern Oregon has reaped the harvest of his revenge in the form of the Cascade portage. If therefore corporate influence has backed up the appointment of Simon to the vacant judgeship it was a reward for past services and a gentlemanly douceur for good things to come. When the corporation could not get Simon it would take Gilbert—anybody in its own interest or pay rather than a stranger. It is plain the railroad company wants the earth. Seven years ago we elected one of their attorneys to the United States senate. He is there still. Four years ago we re-elected one of their vice-presidents and he too is there still. Now they have captured a judgeship and the Lord alone knows what they'll want next. Meanwhile the Washington delegation will do well to note that if they want our support for any political appointment they must name a corporation attorney. No one else has any show for the support of the Oregon delegation.

Kate Field writes, "The brotherhood of man is slowly but surely embracing woman." Kate is old enough to have become acquainted with this fact several years ago. Yes, men do embrace women, but Kate is away off when she says slowly. Usually it is done promptly and enthusiastically.

The Australian ballot law has scored another triumph. At an election held last Tuesday in Jacksonville, Oregon, it worked perfectly and gave entire satisfaction. The CHRONICLE expects the same results to follow the coming June election.

A fool editor in a small town can make more mischief than seven wise ones can.

The Washington special correspondent of the Oregonian grows sarcastic when he offers advice to the people of The Dalles regarding the proposed improvements of the Columbia river at this place. He plainly hints that we have committed a grave crime when we have dared to criticize our delegation in congress for not having had better success in securing the appropriations. He as much as says: "You fellows at The Dalles are a set of ignoramuses. You think your senators and representatives should be able to get anything they ask. You have now a chance to prove what great asses you are. Select your new representative from among your own citizens and let him come here and put through this great work which has been so long neglected." We have an impression that the correspondent does not understand the situation. Our heads—some of them—are not nearly as big as he thinks they are. We have never found fault with the delegation for not securing appropriations. What we complain of is the squandering of the money appropriated. Had the money appropriated for the locks been used as to secure the best results the works would have been finished long ago. What sours us is the fact that these big appropriations seem thrown at us like swill to a hungry hog to keep us quiet. What interest can people have in a work that past experience teaches them, the present management has no intention of finishing during the present generation? And if we growl at this delay is it expected to mollify us by passing, for example, a bill for $100,000 for a public building at The Dalles when no man on God's foolstool ever expects such a bill to pass the house. The people of The Dalles do not expect our delegation to accomplish impossibilities but the delegation must not get mad if we pull the wool from off our eyes and look at things as they really are.

The New York Evening Post lately made a quotation and application of a scripture text with an incisiveness and aptitude that ought to commend its editor to a chair in some theological seminary. A large number of eminent Presbyterians had gathered at the mansion of Jay Gould and Jay's heart had opened wide enough to subscribe $10,000 to the cause of church extension. "One of the clergymen" says the Post "who spoke on the duty of generosity and the dangers of selfishness which beset the rich, closed with an apology for venturing to treat of such a subject in such a presence. We cannot refrain from putting his words alongside those of a writer, who seems to be getting very old-fashioned in religious circles:

A PRESBYTER OF THE FIRST CHURCH, THE NINETEENTH CENTURY. "GO TO, DO, YE RICH spoken in such a way for your miseries that as to give offense to any shall come upon you, of our guests, or to our riches are corrupted, Mr. Gould."

Assessor Sears, of Multnomah, puts in a strong plea for a little better treatment of county assessors. He would like to see the law amended so that assessors would make all needed copies of their rolls instead of the county clerks. He justly claims that assessors and their deputies are familiar with the rolls and if allowed to copy them would be able to correct any errors the original might contain. Besides it would give assessors employment between assessments, and better still, the work would be done after allowing good wages to the assessors, at about one-tenth the price allowed by law to the clerks. "Last year," said Mr. Sears, "I made $1600 for my year's work, while the clerk got $2,300 for making two copies that took him only two weeks to finish." Of course the clerk employed a number of hands to do the work but there is no sense or reason or justice in making such discrimination in the wages of two offices which require, at least, equal intelligence and clerical ability.

The highest tribunal in the land has declared that Ex-Speaker Reed was right when, in the last house of representatives, he insisted on counting a quorum when the quorum was present although less than a quorum voted. The court held that when a majority of each house is present the house is in a position to do business and its capacity to do business is then established. This is certified by the mere presence of a majority and does not depend upon the disposition or the assent or the action of any single member or fraction of the majority present. All that the constitution requires is the presence of a majority and when the majority is present the power of the house arises. And so it turns out that "Czar" Reed was right after all and all the talk we heard a year ago about "usurpation" and "autocracy" were the vapors of ignorance and disappointment.

The trouble between the state board of railroad commissioners and the Union Pacific railroad company in regard to freight rates will soon be disposed of. The railway people in a consultation with the general office at Omaha, decided to accept the revised schedule of rates proposed by the commission. It is pleasant to know that the board has, so far at least, been

The members of the Wasco county farmers' alliance have decided not to put a ticket in the field at the coming election but to vote, according to individual choice, for the best nominees of the old parties. This is unquestionably the wiser course under existing conditions. The alliance people have not a sufficient following in this county to give them any hope of success through independent action. They tried it two years ago and utterly failed. To try it again would be to court a similar defeat, and worse still, to make the election of objectionable candidates very probable, if not absolutely certain. The vote of the best element of any community given to an independent candidate who cannot be elected is sure to help the election of the worst of two candidates from the old parties. An independent vote that cannot be bought or swerved from the right is always a terror to corrupt politicians. The Wasco alliance has taken a position that will give it immense power for good. It will have the respect and good will of every man who loves good government. Let the alliance men get to work and insist that the right kind of men are sent to the county conventions. All the mischief is done in the primaries. If only good men are sent to the county conventions the chances are that only good men will be put in nomination. Then whichever side wins at the election the people will be well served.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says: It costs fifty cents to produce seventy-five cents worth of silver. It costs eight cents to produce six-cent cotton, but, strange to say, while we have innumerable bills offered in congress to increase the value of silver, no man has offered a bill to increase the price of cotton. Can we not have the government buy the surplus product of the cotton fields? The cotton planters are in greater need of relief than are the silver producers, and they are a far more useful class.

The reduction in wheat rates between The Dalles and Portland, which has just been effected by the board of railway commissioners amounts to a fraction over two and one-fifth cents a bushel. In other words the new rate is about eight cents a bushel instead of ten and one-fifth. This is still two cents higher than the present rates of the D. P. & A. Navigation company.

The Astorian says: Chauncey Depew says 600 babies have been named after him. That is risky. The chances are that in 30 years from now one-third of the states will have a Chauncey Depew in the penitentiary.

Kingsley Items. Sunday school at Kingsley was reorganized yesterday with John D. Whitten, superintendent; J. A. Vaughn, assistant superintendent, and Lissie Cox, secretary. The school is in a flourishing condition.

The Kingsley Literary society elected a new set of officers on Saturday night, J. A. Vaughn being chosen president, vice I. J. Butler, whose term had expired. Chas. Fraley was elected vice-president and Nettie Fraley, secretary. The many friends of John Roth will regret to hear that he is again confined to his bed with rheumatism.

A special meeting of the Kingsley farmers alliance was held on Friday, 19th inst., to elect delegates to the county alliance to be held at Three-Mile tomorrow. J. A. Vaughn, I. J. Butler, H. A. Sparling, John M. Roth, Misses Mary Cox, and Nettie Fraley were chosen. The many friends of Remi Rondeau will be pleased to learn that he is again able to take exercise in the open air. It snowed hard on Tygh Ridge for the space of two hours last Saturday, between the hours of 9 and 11 a. m. It rained the rest of the day and showers fell at intervals yesterday and last night. Fall wheat looks fine and every-where indicates a bountiful crop.

MARKET REVIEW.

THURSDAY, March 3, 1892.

There has been considerable improvement over last week's business in the grocery and provision line as well as in other lines of trade. The trade in agricultural implements has shown more activity. Quite a number of freight teams have loaded with merchandise for the interior merchants, and jobbers in the city are filling an increased number of orders for country dealers. The Dalles, Portland and Astoria Navigation company steamers are bringing large freights to the city for home merchants, and also country towns. Traffic has opened briskly in the freighting business and there is a general movement in all branches.—In home produce there is a good supply in stock and the increased delivery has a tendency to bring down prices in some things. Eggs have fallen off in supply since last week for two reasons, the demand for shipment and the setting season is beginning, has checked the stocks on hand and prices are a little better, we quote .14 to .16 1/2 per dozen for fresh eggs.

The wheat market is quiet. Prices are nominally quoted at 75 to 80 cents for milling and $1.00 for prime seed wheat. In this immediate section nearly all is out of first hands. In Klickitat we hear there is still a considerable quantity remaining in granaries awaiting better prices, which under the present condition of markets and outlook, is hardly warrantable. It is doubtful whether there will be any advance at all this season. Flour is maintaining its former quotation but the tendency is a drop in prices soon. Markets are weaker abroad and our markets are governed largely by the export demand.

The wool season is too far in the future to make any forecast of probabilities for prices for the season's clip. In conversation with a last year's wool buyer, he gives it as his opinion that prices will rule lower this year than last, for various reasons. One is the over supply in excess of demand, and the importation of Australian wool into eastern markets, which is of a finer and better grade, and of course manufacturers catch at that quality, which checks the sales or demand for our domestic fleeces. Congress is monkeying over free wool legislation and that as an influence, in a measure, though remote, partially puts a paralyzing tone on markets, and more so on the producer. WHEAT—We quote 75 to 80 cents per bushel. Seed wheat finds ready sale at $1.00 per bushel. OATS—The oat market is short of supply. We quote 1.20 cents to $1.25 per cental. BARLEY—The barley supply is fairly good with a limited inquiry. Brewing $1.00 per cental. Feed barley at 80 to 90 cents per cental. FLOUR—Local brands wholesale, $4.50 per barrel at the mills @ $5.00 retail. MILLSRUFFS—We quote bran at $20.00 per ton. Retail $1.00 per 100 lbs. Shorts and middlings, $22.50 @ $25.00 per ton. HAY—Timothy hay is in good supply at quotations $15.00 to $17.00. Wheat hay is in market at $10.00 per ton loose, and 12.50 @ $13.00 per ton, and scarce, baled. Wild hay is quoted at $14.00 per ton. Alfalfa $12.00 baled. Oat hay $13.00.

POTATOES—Abundant at 60 to 65 cents a sack and demand limited. BUTTER—We quote A1 .50c, 65 cents per roll, and more plentiful. EGGS—Are not coming in freely and the market strong, we quote 14 to 16 1/2 cents. POULTRY—Old fowls are in less demand at $5.00 @ $5.50. Young fowls are easily sold at $2.00 @ $3.00 per dozen. Turkeys 10 cents per lb, undressed. Ducks $4.00 to $5.00 per dozen. HIDES—Prime dry hides are quoted at .06 per pound. Culls .04 @ .05. Green .02 1/2 @ .03. Salt .03 1/2 @ .04. Sheep pelts 1.00 to $1.75; butchered, 75 to cents; bear skins $6 to $8; coyote .80; mink 50 cents each; martin $1.00; beaver, $1.75 @ $3.00 per lb.; otter, $2.00 @ $5.00 each; fisher, $2.50 to $4.00 each; Red Fox, $10.00; Dillon gray, $25.00; Black Fox, $25.00; Pole cat, $25; Wild cat, $50; Hedgehog, $1.00 to $3.00. New Competitive Route

Unexpected Opposition to the Union Pacific Developed.

WILL IT RESULT IN A RATE WAR?

The Effect will be to Lower Rates Between Eastern Oregon Points and Portland.

A STRUGGLE—THE OUTCOME OF WHICH WILL BE AWAITED.

Portland Telegram, March 2d. The Dalles, Portland and Astoria Navigation company is pushing its opposition to the Union Pacific in an unexpected direction. The great railroad did not look for so much energy on part of the corporation. The officials thought that it would be short-lived, but this has not turned out to be the case, for the steamboat company claims that it is now in a better position than ever. The company is now well known, and operates two steamers between Portland and The Dalles, on the Columbia and Willamette, one above and the other below the cascades. It competes with the Union Pacific on all river business, and on that in and tributary to The Dalles.

WHERE THE OPPOSITION IS. It is now carrying freight from Portland to The Dalles, which is reshipped over the Union Pacific from The Dalles to points on that line all the distance to La Grande, including Pendleton, Heppner, Arlington and smaller towns on the road. The Union Pacific has heretofore done this business exclusively, carrying freight directly from Portland to these towns. It has never had competition. Now the receipts from transportation of merchandise will have to be divided with a rival corporation. Not only this, but it is claimed that the greater part of the rates will go to this company, for this half of the rates is as an average higher than the other half.

WILL THERE BE WAR? It seems to have just entered the field in earnest, and from the time the line was started in September it has acted on the same plan. The traffic has been increasing steadily, and the management with the opening of the spring look forward to a much larger business. They say that the Union Pacific is hardly in a position to compete; that the only way in which it can be done is to raise the locals between The Dalles and these points, Pendleton, Heppner, La Grande and Arlington; and that, since the rates are now very high, they cannot be put up any higher.

The present way in which the Union Pacific is overcome is that the navigation company's rates to The Dalles, the present terminus of the line, are very low. These rates, added to the rates on the Union Pacific from The Dalles eastward, make a lower total than the railroad company's through rates from Portland to these points. On certain kinds of merchandise, which can be transferred without damage, it is cheaper to send in this way. This is admitted by the Union Pacific officials and is evident from the tariffs.

Pimples.

The old idea of 40 years ago was that facial eruptions were due to a "blood humor," which they gave potash. Thus all the old Sarsaparillas contain potash, a most objectionable and drastic mineral, that instead of decreasing, actually creates more eruptions. You have noticed this when taking other Sarsaparillas than Joy's. It is however now known that the stomach, the blood creating power, is the seat of all vitiating or cleansing operations. A stomach clogged by indigestion or constipation, vitiates the blood, result pimples. A clean stomach and healthy digestion purifies it and they disappear. Thus Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is compounded after the modern idea to regulate the bowels and stimulate the digestion. The effect is immediate and most satisfactory. A short testimonial to contrast the action of the potash Sarsaparillas and Joy's modern vegetable preparation. Mrs. C. D. Stuart, of 405 Hayes St., S. F., writes: "I have for years had indigestion. I tried a popular Sarsaparilla but it actually caused more pimples to break out on my face. Hearing that Joy's was a later preparation and acted differently, I tried it and the pimples immediately disappeared."
