[Amusement for the Baby.

Mr. Waldrige surprised his baby Sun-day night. He didn't intend to surprise it; he intended to amuse. He had been to church, and on reaching home drew his revolver from his pocket to put it away. Baby reached for the weapon. If baby wanted it, baby must have it, so papa took out the cartridges-every one of them-and then to show baby how to operate the toy, he pulled the trigger. That was where the baby was surprised! It would surprise any baby to see itspapa shoot the cook stove on a quiet Sunday night with an unloaded revolver, when the cook stove was quietly pursuing its vocation and digesting hard wood at the rate of an armful an hour.

The Potato with the Iron Mask. J. T. Choate, Esq., showed us this morning a veritable curiosity taken from the ground by his father while digging potatoes on his place. It was a heel iron from a lady's boot, through the center hole of which had grown a potato. The iron was nearly in the center, and on each side was a growth nearly large enough to hide the iron, which formed a metallic collar around the center of it. -Amesbury Cor. Newburyport News.

A Rival of the Yosemite.

In the vast Sierra wilderness far to the southward of the famous Yosemite valley there is a yet grander valley of the same kind. It is situated on the South Fork of King's river, above the most extensive groves and forests of the giant sequois and beneath the shadows of the highest mountains in the range, where the canyons are deepest and the snow laden peaks are crowded most closely together. It is called the Big King's River canyon or King's River Yosemite, and is reached by way of Visalia, the nearest point on the Southern Pacific railroad, from which the distance is about forty-five miles, or by the Kearsarge pass from the east side of the

It is about ten miles long, half a mile wide and the stupendous rocks of purplish gray granite that form the walls are from 2,500 to 5,000 feet in height, while the depth of the valley below the general surface of the mountain mass from which it has been carved is consid erably more than a mile. Thus it appears that this new Yosemite is longer and deeper, and lies imbedded in grander mountains than the well known Yosemite of the Merced. Their general char acters, however, are wonderfully alike and they bear the same relationship to the fountains of the ancient glaciers above them .- John Muir in Century.
