Address all communication to "THE CHRONICLE," The Dalles, Oregon.

The Times-Mountaineer says: "The faction which has dominated over the politics of this county has met defeat at the primaries, the county convention and in the state convention. It has met a most disastrous Waterloo, and it must learn by experience that the people rule in The Dalles and Wasco county. For the past twenty years this selfish clique has impeded enterprise and progress in this city—until The Dalles today is a synonym all over the northwest for 'mossbackism,'—and carried its spleen against those who opposed it in political, business and social relations. We hope this utter rout of its forces, 'horse, foot and dragons,' will teach it a practical lesson in good behavior and respect for the rights of others.

The situation is this: There are two factions in the Republican party of Wasco county. One is known as the Moody faction; the other as the Mays—or if you will—the Farley faction. The Moody faction is the friend and tool of the railroad, always was and always will be, till God converts it and that will never be. The Moody faction is the enemy of the people. It's head and boss and chief sachem is the plant and open tool of the railroad, made all he owns and all that all belonging to him own through the railroad. He is an open enemy of an open river and an open and avowed friend of the railroad, and the Times-Mountaineer is his prophet. The head of the other faction is Robert Mays. He is the president of the new line of boats and one of its largest stockholders. The "faction" to which he belongs is the friend of an open river. It is composed largely of the men who built the boats and thereby put thousands of dollars in the people's pockets. Every interest of this "faction," from its head down is identified with and bound up in the interests common to all. The Times-Mountaineer claims the Moody faction is on top or it means nothing. If the Times-Mountaineer claim is true then the worst enemy of the people of Wasco county is on top; then the railroad is on top; then the enemy of an open river is on top. Where is the victory of Moody in the county and state nominations? What Moody men are on the ticket? Let the Mountaineer name them,—dare to name and the voters of Wasco county, republicans, democrats, alliance men, prohibitionists, everybody, will as one man unite to bury them as sure as there is a God in Israel. The Chronicle is not fighting the ticket, does not intend to fight the ticket but it will fight the enemies of the people as long as the present writer has control of it.

The Oregonian says. The Wasco Sun sets up the most absurd complaint that the division of Oregon into congressional districts is a gerrymander. Eastern Oregon, it is complained, is attached to a portion of Western Oregon. The explanation is simple. Eastern Oregon had only one-half the population necessary for one member of congress, and Western Oregon had more than enough for one. This was adjusted in the apportionment as fairly and conveniently as it could be done. The counties of Western Oregon that are most easy of access to Eastern Oregon and most united in interest were joined to the eastern counties. Representatives in congress are based on population, not on territory.

The Multnomah delegation acted handsomely toward Eastern Oregon, at the state convention in the matter of nominating the congressional candidate for the second district. Multnomah's 43 ballots were cast blank till the fourth ballot when they went over almost solidly for Ellis who was then and from the first far in the lead. It is refreshing to find an example of good faith, once in a while among politicians.

Senator Hilton came near being nominated for congressman. He got three votes! He was understood to be Simon's candidate, as he was unquestionably Moody's, who failing to get anything for himself wanted the next best thing—a man he could use. It would be interesting to know just who cast the three ballots for Hilton. The Wasco county delegation was instructed to support Ellis. Did any of them go back on their instructions?

The Times-Mountaineer of last evening said. "Our special dispatches in another column were the only ones received in the city. The Times-Mountaineer, always leads, never follows." It is very evident that the "most accomplished disciple of Annanias in Eastern Oregon" is still in business, at the old stand.

The Springer free wool bill passed the house yesterday by a vote of 194 to 90. It is well the democrats had the courage of their convictions. The producer of raw material will now know of a surety what to expect from a democratic congress.

NOT ALONE THE DALLEs.

Our worthy contemporary of Walla Walla, the Statesman, acknowledging the receipt of one of Uncle Linus Hubbard's Whaleback-locks pictures says: "It is intended to be prophetic of what will certainly occur at The Dalles, when the cascade locks are finished." Not alone The Dalles, Bro. Parker. These modern light draft steamers are so constructed that they may ascend any ordinary creek, and with the means provided at the dalles of the Columbia, simultaneously with the completion of the locks at the cascades, might reach Walla Walla if the authorities will remove the sage brush along the route from Wallula, and sprinkle the streets well. All jokes aside, there are many more benefits to accrue to points beyond The Dalles, than to The Dalles proper, by this long deferred improvement, and right minded journalists should see that it is for the benefit of the whole interior that we of The Dalles are so persistently working for an open river.

Tacoma exchanges speak of a new railroad company having been organized in that city on the 4th inst., called the Tacoma, Lake Park and Columbia river railway company, with a capital stock of $3,000,000. The Tacoma and Lake Park railroad, 12 miles in length, has been transferred to the new company and it is said that the work of extending that road to the Tilton river, 50 miles distant from Tacoma, will commence next month. The plan is to finish the road to The Dalles this summer and here connect with the Union Pacific system. The line, it is said, will be about 150 miles in length. It will traverse Pierce, Lewis, Skamania and Klickitat counties and cross the mountains by Cowitz pass. Just how the proposed road will traverse Skamania county and go through the Cowitz pass we are not told. If it traverses the one it surely cannot go through the other, as any one may see by consulting a map of Washington. We shall be glad of anything that will open up the country and reduce the cost of transportation but we greatly fear that it will be a long time before a road is built over the above described route.

Some time ago Frank Frazier of Umatilla county bought a number of mortgages at a sheriff's tax sale. Frazier paid his money for the mortgages and the sheriff gave him a receipt that certified to the facts of the sale and payment of the money. In other words the sheriff sold him certain mortgages but instead of delivering the goods on payment of the money the sheriff simply gave him a receipt. Now Frazier sues the mortgagees. He wants the mortgages foreclosed and the defendants bebarred from all interest in them save the right of redemption. The case will most likely go to the supreme court for final decision and then it will be known if the taxes can be collected on an Oregon mortgage. We believe Frazier's only remedy lies in suing the sheriff for the recovery of the money he paid him for a thing the sheriff sold and got paid for but never delivered.

The people's party of Multnomah county held a convention in Portland on the 9th inst., at which a full county ticket was nominated. The people's party is remarkably like the older parties it seeks to reform. It never forgets to make a stiff grab after the lucrative offices. This taken by itself is all right, but it throws a question of doubt on the sincerity of the reformers when what they call great and important principles of reform are promulgated with a zeal proportionate to the amount of wages attached to the office sought after. The popular heart cannot be fired on the mere issue of helping a man into a fat office. A calamity howler is a contemptible creature under any circumstances but doubly so when his aim is to howl himself into office. Great principles, of political or moral reform lose their force and converting power in the lips of mercenary place-hunting advocates.

Kingsley Correspondence.
KINGSLEY, Or., April, 7, 1892.

Editor Chronicle:
Not seeing any items from Kingsley in the columns of your paper I thought I would send a few items that might interest some of your readers. The farmers are nearly done seeding. There is a larger acreage put in this year than ever and with a good crop, and a fair price for grain this fall, the farmers of Tygh Ridge would be as independent as any class of farmers in Oregon. The political pot has been boiling very hard since we held our primary. The republicans of Kingsley, and I may say of Wasco county, are disgusted with both factions of the party in The Dalles. The sooner the leaders of both factions emigrate to Jerusalem or some other holy place, the better for the republican party of Wasco county.

If they would view the situation as the writer does, they would on next June take the democratic ticket and vote it from top to bottom. I know it would be a hard dose to swallow, but I believe after two or three attempts they could down the thing, while at the same time, I believe the ticket nominated by the bosses would choke any candid republican so dead, that he could not catch his breath till the morning of the resurrection. In expressing my views thus, I think I express the sentiments of the voters of Kingsley, if not of the whole county.

I noticed a letter in the Mountaineer of April 2d, from Kingsley, signed "Liberty," which is so devoid of truth that it is remarkable that any man should write it or have it printed. The only men who tried to dictate to the Kingsley people whom they should send to the county convention were a few Dufur politicians who had an ax to grind and by means of a keg of bad beer and a demijohn of worse whiskey and a big amount of wire pulling and standing in with The Dalles boss whose collar they wear they got their ax ground. It will be well for them if the first week in June does not knock the edge off it.

INDEPENDENT VOTER.

Vote of Thanks.

ON BOARD STR. REGULATOR,
April 8, 1892.

Editor Chronicle:
In a duly organized assembly of delegates to the Republican State convention from Wasco and Crook counties, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we tender our thanks to the captains and employes of The Dalles, Portland and Astoria Navigation company's boats, for the gentlemanly and courteous treatment received on our trip to and from the Republican State convention, and we assure the traveling public that this company, and its employes, leave nothing undone to add to the comfort of their patrons, and we earnestly bespeak for the company the patronage of every man who favors an open river to the sea.
Signed, W. M. McCORKLE, Chairman.
M. P. ISENBERG, Secretary.

Democrats Solid for an Open River.
BOYD, Or., April 10th.

Editor Chronicle:
At the democratic primary, held on the 9th, in Dechutes precinct, W. L. Ward, Joe Kelley and J. B. Havelly were elected delegates to the county convention, Joe Kelly was nominated for constable, and J. B. Havelly for justice of the peace. Mr. Havelly responded in a nice little speech, in which he advocated an open river, and agreed, if elected, to do all in his power to secure an early completion of the locks.
