

The Weekly Chronicle.

THE DALLES, OREGON

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

From the Daily Chronicle, Friday. The warm weather of the past few days, ripens fruit rapidly.

Mrs. Hilton has returned from a pleasant visit to Astoria and the coast. The Regulator band, A. Bettingen, Sr. leader, will furnish music to the excursion tomorrow.

An alliance picnic will be held at the farm of Mr. Sam Creighton, of Three-mile tomorrow.

We regret to hear that John Hampshire, pursuer of the Regulator, is seriously ill at his mother's residence in this city.

Wool is beginning to arrive at the warehouses at a lively gait and advance reports indicate that it will reach its flood tide next week. Only a few small lots have yet found a market at prices averaging about 15 cents a pound.

Uncle Jemmie Farris arrived in the city yesterday from an extended visit to old Yakima. Uncle Jemmie has nothing to say against the Yakima country. He simply thinks there is no place like Wasco county and that is where he is eminently correct.

Major Ingalls had a telegram from Portland last evening informing him that "Oregon on wheels" was expected to arrive in Portland this morning. The Major will endeavor to obtain from the owners of the mineral exhibit a donation of, at least, a part of it for a permanent exhibit at Portland.

A private letter from Jersey county, Ill., bearing date May 16th, received by a citizen of The Dalles today, says that the weather has been so bad up to that time that corn planting was literally impossible, and but few have been able to sow any oats. Winter sown wheat was badly damaged. Our dispatches tell of the havoc there.

Mr. Linus Hubbard returned from Portland last night where he went to visit the government cruisers the Charleston and Baltimore. Mr. Hubbard spent between five and six hours on board, taking in everything that was to be seen. He says the mechanical finish of the Charleston, which was built at San Francisco, is markedly superior to that of the Baltimore which was built in Philadelphia. He brought back with him two handsome photographs of the cruisers.

Anderson Bros. have a park, three miles from this city, accessible by river steamers, railway, and carriage, that would make a beautiful location in which The Dalles people could picnic together, and the children romp and play. Those sturdy, wide-spreading oaks, and that inviting fringe of foliage lining Chenoweth creek, those "unbragous grottoes and caves of cool recess," are just what God designed for public breathing spots, and the free use of them would enable the human family to throw physic to the dogs. As between the two, drug stores or parks; give us the parks. How many people are there in The Dalles who have ever paid a visit to the lovely retreat above spoken of, surrounded by giant cliffs and gently sloping to the Columbia, "within a stones throw" of the court house, so to speak?

From the Daily Chronicle, Saturday. The Pullman car "Dalles City" was started back overland yesterday.

Capt. Lewis' buttonaires he raises himself, with his own hoe, spade and sprinkling pot—but by proxy.

The lady force of the CHRONICLE office make their profoundest bow to Mr. Will Corson for the present of a box of delicious strawberries.

The excursion to the Cascades today was largely attended by a real nice party of the cream de la cream of The Dalles social people. There were about 125 of the excursionists.

A snow storm that enveloped the west yesterday, has reached New York today, and although not so cold as January, in every other sense reminds people of winter.

Dr. H. M. Connelly of Indiana, brother of Frank and O. B. Connelly is visiting his mother Mrs. C. C. Connelly and expects to remain in the city several weeks.

Mrs. R. I. Young, has left at this office a bunch of lettuce raised on a bunch grass hill farm, eleven miles from The Dalles, without irrigation, which weighs two pounds, and is very nice and tender.

We hear a rumor that the D. P. and A. Nav. Co. are contemplating the building of an elegant steamer for the lower river, that is to say to run between the Cascades and Portland. It is said she will be a clipper.

The report for Wasco county, to appear in the resources of Oregon contains a tabular statement which shows this to be the healthiest county in six classified states and territories: California, Colorado, Florida, New Mexico and Arizona.

Mr. J. W. Blakely, father of Mr. George C. Blakely of this city, has been on a visit to his son for several days past, and left today for a similar visit in Umatilla county. He is a hale old gentleman of 80 years, and is enjoying his visits very much.

S. B. Adams, Dr. Doane, Harry Clough and Mr. Bills, have returned from the grand lodge of Odd Fellows, at Astoria, where they were royally entertained. They took the jetty trip to sea by railway from Fort Stevens.

Mrs. Drew leaves soon for her home in California, and yesterday afternoon a number of her W. C. T. U. friends met at the residence of Mrs. Leslie Butlers for a farewell party and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Butler. Those present were: Mrs. Smith French, Mrs. Doane, Mrs. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Butler, Mrs. D. M. French, Mrs. Kuykendall, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Prestler, Mrs. Drew, Mrs. Ann M. Butler, Mrs. Garrison, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Dr. Ingalls, Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Saunders, Mrs. Magee and Mrs. Campbell.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Julius W. Klein Brought Home a Corpse Last Night.

On the morning of the 3rd inst. there left The Dalles three young men, Otis Savage and Frank and Julius Klein, for an overland trip to California, but with the intention of entering into a business engagement with Mrs. Foppiani, on the old Waterman place, North of Caleb, to take a band of horses on shares. They were equipped with a fine camping outfit, three good stout horses and a strong pack horse, blankets, grub, cooking utensils, rifles, pistols, etc., and were in every way to enjoy themselves, and realize all their youthful hopes. But alas, for all human calculations there is no certainty. At midnight last night, the young men returned, one of their number, Julius, for burial. They reached the Foppiani ranch all right, and were about to consummate an arrangement with the widow, Mr. F. having died some time ago; when the accident occurred which resulted in the death of Julius. On the afternoon of the 14th, a week ago today, the young men were driving up the band of horses; and Julius was stationed at the gate, where the horses passed through, to close it when they had all entered the inclosure. But before the band all got in, part of the animals ran against the gate and it was pitched off its hinges, over on to him. It was a large heavy affair, and although removed from the boy as soon as possible, he was so badly hurt that he died on the afternoon of the 19th, everything that was possible for them to do was done for the injured comrade, but it was not within the power of human kind to save him. The remains were prepared for the trip home, and his brother and Otis started on the sad and lonesome journey 125 miles, reaching here as above stated. The grief may be better imagined than described when the fond parents were aroused from sleep to be told the heart rending account of the death. Julius was 18 years and ten days of age. He was a very popular and promising boy, and his sudden taking off will be sorrowfully realized. The funeral will take place tomorrow at the house of his parents, on Third street, at 9 o'clock a. m.

From the Daily Chronicle, Monday. W. H. Moore, of Moro, was in the city today.

Miss Holcomb, one of the most efficient teachers in the Academy, left on the evening of the 25th, to take up her residence on a romantically situated homestead, well known as "Snake Ranch," adjoining Geo. Snipes. The best wishes of the community follow her to her new abode. Circuit court commenced this morning, Judge Bradshaw presiding. The following gentlemen were elected to serve on the grand jury: W. H. Taylor, foreman; R. I. Tucker, J. J. Lewis, Geo. Smith, J. N. Mosier, C. A. Allen and Wallace Fargher. John Cates was appointed court bailiff and H. R. Darneille jury bailiff. The first case was that of Lauder Evans vs. U. N. Railway company, which had not been disposed of at the time of going to press. The Lombardy poplar, in Western parlance, is a rustler. If there is water or moisture in its immediate neighborhood it will reach after it and find it. Citizens of The Dalles have seen, at various times, the Court street sewer clogged up with thick bunches of rootlets from the trees growing on the sides of the streets, ten to fifteen feet distant. A CHRONICLE representative was shown, yesterday a well on Mr. Crandall's lot on Fulton street which is becoming rapidly filled up with bunches of tiny rootlets from a poplar tree that stands thirty feet from the well.

C. J. Bright as principal and W. H. Biggs, W. M. Barnett, W. D. Armsworthy, Clark Dunlap, B. F. Medler, Jesse Edgington and Henry Krouse as surties have entered into a bond with Sherman county, in the sum of six thousand dollars, to erect a court house, free of charge to the county, in the town of Wasco, four months from the date on which Wasco shall be lawfully declared the county seat of Sherman county. Plans and specifications for the building are filed with the bond as part of the instrument.

Hon. Geo. T. Myers, one of the fish commissioners of Oregon, is in the city on business in connection with his office. In company with a representative of THE CHRONICLE he paid a visit to the famous fruit farm of Seufert Bros., Paradise Regained, and was royally entertained by a feast of good things, including cherries, strawberries, and sauntering through the irrigated peach and apricot orchards, where the trees are so bountifully laden with fruit, as the result of careful attention, as to suggest the nickel and the slot theory. Turn in the water and nature does the rest. Seufert Bros. are reaping a fine harvest this year, and they deserve it all.

Strawberries have now been in market for over a week, but as they can be shipped to Portland and net 35 to 40 cents a box, their price is still beyond the reach of the common people. Cherries have been in market for nearly a week; and gooseberries have been in for two weeks. Speaking of our strawberries the other day, W. D. Smith, the leading fruit shipper of Walla Walla, said to Leslie Butler, of this city: "When we come in competition with The Dalles and Hood River berries we're not in it." This is not new to the CHRONICLE, though it may be to some of its readers. The fact is, Wasco county strawberries beat Portland, beat the Willamette valley, beat California, beat the world, and this is not boasting either. Wasco county strawberries sell for a much higher price, wherever they are placed in competition with berries from any of the places named. But what must be said of a climate that has ripened berries two weeks ago while the denizens of the east are still suffering the rigors of winter? Is it any wonder that all indications point to the largest immigration that has ever, in one year, turned their faces towards the land of the setting sun.

A few days since, in San Francisco, a relic of '49 was found by a workman named Johnson, employed in tearing down an old house on Morton street. The property belongs to Levi Strauss, and when the contractor took the contract to clear the lot so as to make room for a brick addition to a store adjoining, the frame structures were sold to a restaurateur named Wilson. In the backyard among the rubbish was a giant power-can which nearly every one had considered empty, or filled with worthless stuff, as it had been knocked around for years, but Johnson is an old miner, and looked with more reverence upon the contents of the despoiled can. After making an investigation, he asked Wilson to give him $25 for the can and its contents, saying the metal might be worth something. The offer was promptly refused, as Johnson had expected. So Johnson carried the material over to the mint and received $60000 for the gold dust. That was what the can was filled with.

Chehalis had a $150,000 fire yesterday, the work of tramps. Insurance $30,000. Rodyard Kipling comes unpleasantly near the truth when he says the "government of the largest city in America" (referring to New York) is a despotism of the alien, by the alien, for the alien.

The subject of a tunnel from the water front under Tacoma to Edison, at a cost of half a million dollars, is being vigorously pushed by the commercial club and chamber of commerce. The tunnel will be three and a half miles long, with a grade of one per cent. All the roads entering the city will be through the tunnel.

The protection speech of Lord Salisbury has created a great sensation in England, especially among his own organs and followers. In the business centers the premier is severely denounced. The English free trader is closely "joined to his idols." Salisbury had just as well "let him alone."

A visit to the dental parlors of Dr. D. Siddall today found the genial doctor, putting the finishing touches on an upper set of teeth that made the reporter long for the touch of a magic wand that would plant just such a set in his own mouth to replace the battle scarred veterans that have waged warfare with sow-belly and hard tack, not to say anything of Irish potatoes, for half a century of rolling years. The set in question had an aluminum base, cast to fit the month while in a molten state, with American pink gum facing so perfectly natural in color that, when placed behind a pair of rosy lips, the most critical lover who ever worshipped at the shrine of the goddess of love and beauty could not tell the difference. The use of aluminum is a recent discovery in the dental art. The metal has less specific gravity than any other; it is non-magnetic, non-electric, non-corrosive, will not oxidize, change color or be in the least affected by the fluids of the month. The doctor claims to be the only dentist on the Pacific coast who can cast the aluminum plates and the only known dentist who can attach the gum facing on the aluminum, so that it will not, in the course of time, chip off. This latter is a discovery of his own.

The fine Italian hand of the ex-editor of the Wasco Sun is very observable in the local columns of the Sunday Welcome. An accomplished intermeddlering granny-gossip he must needs regale the readers of the Welcome with matters relating to the CHRONICLE and its proprietors of no earthly interest to any one. His persistent habit of poking his nose into other people's business caused him the loss of his official head in The Dalles and will not conduce to protract his stay on the Welcome. The CHRONICLE, as an independent journal, has as good a right to refuse to support for office a republican candidate whom it may think morally incompetent as a rabid democratic paper like the Welcome has to forsake its party affiliations and support the same candidate.

Mario Bozzaris. Soon after Fitz-Greene Halleck had published his stirring "Marco Bozzaris," he repeated the poem to a lady, an intimate friend of his. She expressed great admiration of the beautiful lines, but when he was in full enjoyment of what he considered her perfect appreciation she surprised him by the innocent query: "Who was Marco Bozzaris?" "Well," said Mr. Halleck, despondently, "what's the use of becoming martyrs to liberty or of poets celebrating heroes if ladies won't even inform themselves about the events of the day?"

The remembrance of another incident connected with the poem never failed to elicit a groan from its author.

At a certain dinner party at which he was present, it was expected that each man should sing a song or make a speech. Among the guests was a Dutch Jew, whose English was execrable, and he had been previously persuaded by a joker to commit the whole of Marco Bozzaris to memory that he might recite it for the gratification of the poet and the poet's friends.

The day came and the Dutchman was called upon to speak. "Shentlemans," said he rising, "I can neither make de speech nor sing de song, but I will deliver you grand poem."

This he proceeded relentlessly to do, and Halleck, when he heard his harmonious measures delivered in a mixture of English and Dutch, was divided between the temptation to laugh and cry.—Youth's Companion.

A Pointer. "I am very much pleased with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says H. M. Bangs, the druggist at Chatsworth, Ill. "During the epidemic of la grippe here it took the lead and was very much better liked than other cough medicines." The grip requires precisely the same treatment as a very severe cold, for which this remedy is so efficient. It will promptly loosen a cold and relieve the lungs, soon effecting a permanent cure, while most other medicines in common use for colds only give temporary relief. 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton, druggists. d&w

Saved from Death by Onions. There has no doubt been more lives of children saved from death in croup or whooping cough by the use of onions than any other known remedy, our mothers used to make poultices of them, or a syrup, which was always effectual in breaking up a cough or cold. Dr. Gunn's Onion Syrup is made by combining a few simple remedies with it which make it more effective as a medicine, and destroys the taste and odor of the onion. Sold by Blakeley & Houghton.
